WILLIAMS.

The following extracts from the registers of Oswestry and Nannerch relate to the family of Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart. William Williams, Esq., with whom the Oswestry extracts begin in the year 1700, succeeded his father, the Right Honourable Sir Wm. Williams, Bart., in his title and large estates. The latter had been Speaker of the House of Commons in 1679-80. Edward, the eldest son of William Williams, Esq., as will be seen, died a child. Watkin, the second son, succeeded—under the will of his kinsman, Sir John Wynn, Bart.—to the extensive estates of Wynnstay, and assumed the additional surname of Wynn. Upon the death of his father, Sir William Williams, Bart., he became the first Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, Bart. Robert, the second son of Sir William, married Merryel Williamses, represented in Parliament the county of Montgomery, and died without issue. Richard, another son, whose name appears in the Oswestry Register, was M.P. for the Flintshire Boroughs, and died in 1759. His name, and those of two of his wives and some of his children, will be found in the Nannerch Register and in the inscriptions upon coffin-plates in the vaults at Nannerch. For more also respecting him see 'Miscellanea Genealogica,' Monthly Series, No. II., page 19.

Llanvorda, and a considerable estate around it, yet forms part of the great possessions of the house of Wynnstay. W. W. E. WYNNE.

Explanation of the Fac Similes and Autographs.

No. 1. An endorsement in the hand-writing of Lewis Dwnn on his patent, that on the left hand being, "a debisation from—R. G. and W^m. Flower for me to viset—som parts of Wales," and that on the right, "a depitacion from my—friend Norroy to go and vyset som partes of Wales."

No. 2. The name of Lewis Dwnn, with the date 1596 in two forms, as they occur on the title page of the autograph visitation, in the possession of Mrs. Madocks, of the three counties of South Wales.

No. 3. The autograph of George Owen, of Cemmaes, Vol. I. p. 157.

No. 4. That of Sir James Perot, p. 134.

No. 5. That of the Rev. George Owen, clerk, or George Owen Harry, p. 33.

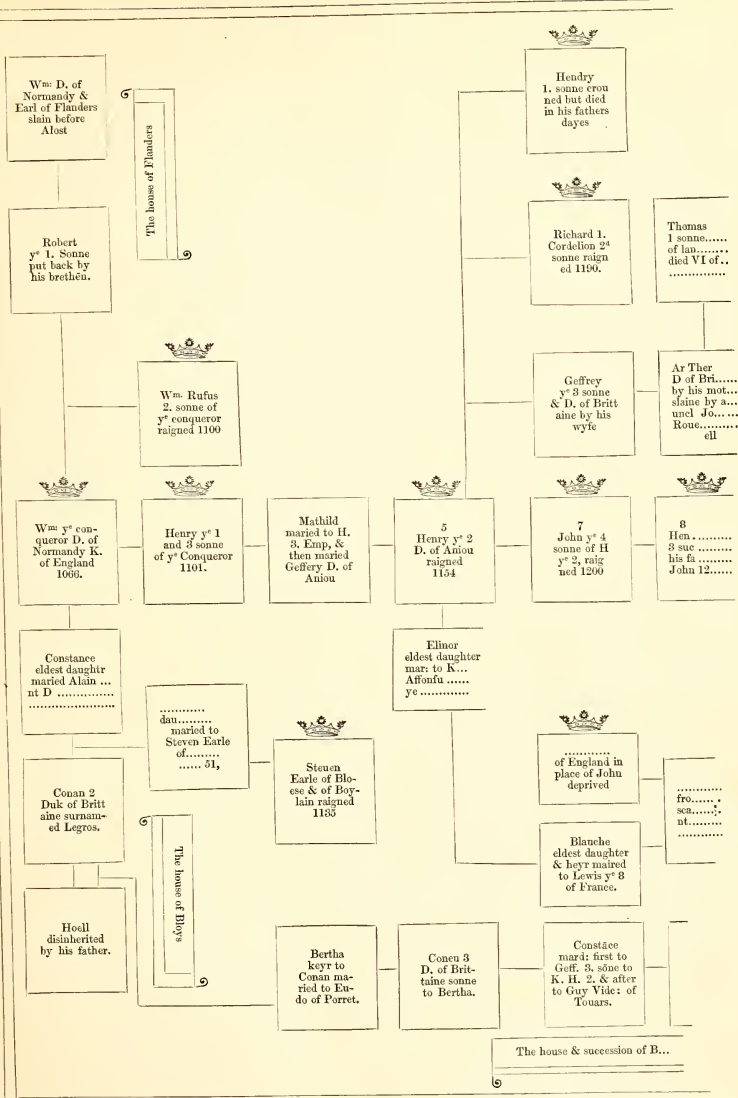

No. 6. That of Sir Francis Meyrick, p. 137. This has been introduced to facilitate its comparison with his signature to a deposition made by him, preserved in Her Majesty's State Paper Office, and thus corroborate the authenticity of the pedigrees in this collection.

No. 7. The autograph of Richard Barrett, Esq. p. 68.

No. 8. That of Sir Richard Pryse, p. 45.

In the centre are the Arms of Wales, as drawn by William Camden, Clarenceux King of Arms, in a sketch of the intended procession for Queen Elizabeth's funeral, now in the British Museum. Here the blazon is not given. The earliest coeval document in which they are mentioned, is in the life of Foulques Fitz Warren, of the time of Henry III. in the British Museum, which also omits the blazon. In the College of Arms 2. G. 4. is a representation of quarterings appertaining to Queen Elizabeth, sketched in her time, and here the Arms of Wales are given as: Quarterly Gules and Or, four lions passant gardant counterchanged. In the Harleian Library, at the British Museum, is a MS. No. 6096, of the same date, the Arms appear in like manner. So also in No. 6085 of the Harleian, and L. 14, in the Heralds' College, as well as in an emblazoned manuscript, by Sir William Segur, dedicated to James I. in the library, at Goodrich Court. Hence the Arms of Wales have been so emblazoned on the title pages of these Volumes, in a shield placed on a ground of the Tudor colours, as was customary in the days of Elizabeth, and the feathers with their mottoes, and the crown of the Principality, added on the authority of the seals of Edward, son of Edward IV. and Arthur, son of Henry VII. given in the XX. Volume of the Archæologia. Enderbie, in his Cambria Triumphans, assigns these Arms to Rodri the Great, Prince of all Wales, on the authority of Mills, in his Catalogue of Honour, and continues them to his descendants.

Genealogical - 7500 (240/5)

This folding leaf, of which the above mutilated portion alone exists, appears to have been the Pedigree of the Kings of England. It has at its outer edge, what is intended for an ornamental scroll, formed by a branch with leaves, such as is often seen as a border in the carved screens of Churches at the close of the 15th century. The correction of the clerical errors in this, and what is requisite for its completion, may be found in Anderson's Royal Genealogies, Edition 1782, Tables ccccxix, and cccxcxx.

⁶ Bridget.

⁷ He is said to have been drowned in a butt of Malmsay wine, in 1417. He married Isabel, daughter of Richard Nevil, Earl of Salisbury, in 1469. The word Colice appears to be intended for Colice; and if so, there has been some blunder.

⁸ Catherin, the daughter of Edward IV., married William Courtney, Earl of Devonshire, and died in 1527.

Of her daughter, the unfortunate Arabella Stuart, who married Sir William Seymour, Marquis of Hertford, see an interesting portrait and memoir in Lodge's work. ³ "Edward with the broken nose."

ter, but the legitimate sister of King John. See note to the Pedigree of Roland Lloid of Gallygrod, in this Llyfr.

This body was chiefly composed of Welshmen, and were placed under the command of John de Vere, Earl of Oxford, in the very year of his accession. Their number amounted to fifty. On the occasion of Henry VII. being crowned, Lewis Glyn Cothi composed one of his last Odes, in which he acknowledges the work of Divine Providence in placing him on the throne, and prays for a long and prosperous reign. In the course of it he alludes to the twelve knights banneret which were made on the occasion, one of whom was Sir Rhes ab Thomas.

⁴ Ferdinand was brother to the Emperor Charles V., and son of Philip, Arch-Duke of Austria, Duke of Burgundy and Castile, by Joan, daughter of Ferdinand, King of Spain. Philip was the son of Maximilian, first King of the Romans, and Emperor of Germany, by his first wife Mary, daughter of Charles, Duke of Burgundy. His armour, cap-à-pie, is preserved at Goodrick Court, in the county of Hereford.

⁸ He was Earl of Devonshire.

⁹ He was murdered, with his brother Edward V., in the Tower of London, in 1485.

¹⁰ Sir Henry Pole was not Lord Huntingdon, but Lord Montguyne, and beheaded 9th January, 1558. He married Jane, daughter of George Nevil, Lord Abergavenny. His daughter, Catherine, married Francis Hastings, Earl of Huntingdon, and therefore, as said above, became Countess of Huntingdon. The father of Sir Henry was Sir Richard, descended from an ancient family at Pole, in Montgomeryshire, whence they took the name De la Pole, or De la Pole; who married Margaret, sister of Edward IV., Countess of Salisbury, who was beheaded in the Tower of London, without trial, by order of Henry VIII., 27th May, 1541.

¹⁴ This was Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy.

¹⁵ Edward, Prince of Wales, who died in 1484, during the life-time of his father, the only legitimate issue.

Castile. Jehu had an only daughter, Isabel, who married Ferdinand, King of Arragon.

Gestes of Guanine and his Sunnes," and among them are the following:—" Johan, daughter to King Henry (115) was married to Lewys (Llewelyn) heire to Drowedanes" (Drywdrvn). "Mawle was ever much welcama to Johan, sister to King John, and wife to Lewys Prince of Wales;" and this he translated from a "French historie yn rime of the acton of the Guarims." "After that Johan the sister of King John was dead, Lewys prince of Wales married Ewa, daughter to Fulco the secunde at Blancheville. Lewys lyvid a yere and a half after that he married Ewa, and then dying withoute issue of her was buryed at Aberonewy. Ewa was after married to a noble knight of Blanchechemistro." In the Histoire above quoted this second marriage is thus related: "Quant dame Johane, la femme Lewis le prince de Wales, qui fut la fill le roi Heure de Engleterre fist de vye, par le grant reconu de prowsee e de bonité, que Sire Fouke avoit, yl maonda à ly par Eve sa fille, e il la graunt, e à grant honcur e solennité furent esposé. If, therefore, Llewelyn ab Ierwerth did espouse Margaret the daughter of Madog ab Ileredydd, it must have been before he took Johane, to whom he had been affianced when only seven years old, and that would put his marriage to her in the reign of her brother, and allow of the year 1204, while it occasioned the error of her being his natural daughter.

married Cecily, daughter of Thomas ap Philip Vychan of Talgarth, in the county of Brecon; and was beheaded at Chepstow, according to some, though more likely at Banbury.

² "Checky or and azure, a chevron ermine;" or, strictly, "argent with ermine spots."

⁷ Qu. whether this be Cuningborough Castle.

¹ See page 12. The mother of these was Lady Elizabeth Wydeville, whose husband had fallen in battle, and had his estates confiscated, and to whom Sir Hugh Jones of Landinor Castle, now in ruins, near the village of Cheriton, in Pembrokeshire, had been recommended as suitor by the Duke of York and Earl of Warwick, as appears in their letters submitted to the Society of Antiquarians by the Rev. Mr. Halliwell. He, however, married Maud, the daughter of Rees ap Gwilym ap Ewan ap Cradock, who, as well as himself, was buried at Swansea, where are their effigies in brass plates, and the following epitaph:—"Pray for the soule of Sir Hugh Johys knight and dame Mawde his wife, which Sr Hugh was made Knight at the holy sepulchre of our Lord ih'u Crist in the city of Jerusalem the iiii day of August, the year of oure Lord Gode M'cxxx. And the said Sir Hugh had citizenyd in the wther ther long tyme before by the space of fyve yeres, that is to sey ageyntu the Turkis and Sarayns in the parts of Troy, Greece, and Turky under John yt tyme emperours of Constantynple, and after that was marchall of Frawnce, under John duke of Somersset by the space of fyve yeres. And in likewise after that was knight marchall of England under the good John duke of Norfolk, which John ygre unto hym the maner of Landymof to hym and his heyres for evermore; upon whose soules ih'u have mercy."

³ Besides Brigette, he had two other daughters, Mary and Margaret.

² The arms of Morciddig Warwyn were borne by the Vaughans, one of whom, Roger Vaughn, son-in-law of David Gam, was slain at Arzincour.

Bledyn ap Macnareh; the arms of the first are borne by the family of Jenkins of Llanharan.

² In Brecknockshire, near the fall of the Melts. The family recorded in this pedigree have become extinct; and at present there are none of opulence in the parish. David Llewelyn, whose will was proved in 1631, left forty shillings to the poor annually; and Morgan Llewelyn, of Ystradfellte, by his will, in 1670, gave three tenements of land, the rents to be distributed among the poor. Griffith Morgan, of Ystradfellte, by his will in 1776, charged Sir Gorek Nedd with three pounds per annum for the same purpose; so that the descendants of Llewelyn ab Gwillm, first mentioned in this pedigree, seem to have taken the name of Morgan. Indeed Jones has given a pedigree of the Morgans of Ystradfellte and Derw, from a MS. of Mr. Edwards, a Carmarthenshire herald, page 310, Vol. II, which proves the fact.

ARFAY S^R REES AP THOMAS.

¹ The arms of Sir Rhys ap Thomas, consisting merely of the first quarter surrounded by the garter, are sculptured on the western front of Llanweog Church, in Cardiganshire, the ravens being turned the contrary way. Below, on an escutcheon, is the badge of the portcullis, assumed by King Henry VII., though his son was the first to surround his arms with the garter; for Sandford states, that he first added the garter to his arms on the great seal, "in imitation of which royal example the knights of the order of St. George in the latter end of his reign caused their escutcheons on their stalls at Windsor to be encompassed with the garter." Ashmole says the same; but in the collection of impressions from Garter plates, made by Louise Garter, who died in 1778, and now in the College of Arms, there are several of the time of Henry VIII., though these might have had the garter added by the surviving knights of that King during the reign of his successor. Lewys Glyn Codi, describing the arms of Morgun ap Thomas, the brother of Sir Rhys, mentions the three ravens in the first quarter, the three (five) crescents of the second quarter, the lion in the third quarter, and three salades as the fourth quarter. He also mentions the griffin, which we here find to be the supporter. See Cwyldir, Disparth II. of his Poems. The second quarter Argent on a cross Sable, five crescents Or, is for Janet, daughter and heiress to Gruffydd ap Llewelyn Voithys, great grandmother to Sir Rhys ap Thomas. Some Welsh heralds assign this with a spear head, in the first quarter Gules, to Gruffydd ap Sir Elydyr ddu. The third quarter is Gules, a lion rampant Argent, for Llewellyd, daughter of Einion Clud, Lord of Elysd, and wife of Gwercy ab Einion, another ancestor. The fourth quarter is, probably, for one of the fancied ancestors of Sir Rhys. In Vincent's Knights of the Garter, a MS. of the time, are the arms of Sir Rhys ap Thomas, quarterly one and four Argent, a chevron inter three ravens Sable, two and three Argent on a cross Sable, five crescents Or, in the first quarter a spear's head Gules. The supporters are two Griffons, party per fess Or and Argent. Crest on a wreath of the colours, a raven proper between two spears, the shafts Or, blades Argent, and points imbrued Gules.

The second quarter was also borne by his wife Mabel, daughter and heiress to Henry Glyn. The garter plate, in St. George's Chapel, has a shield, with simply the first quarter, above which is a helmet, and on a wreath merely the raven. Above the motto, "Secret of hary," and beneath, "Mist' Kis ap Thomas lanerct." There still exists a Letter of Quittance by Sir Rhys ap Thomas to the tenants of his step-son and ward, Edward Stradling, Esq., dated "Kernsdyrn 6 Ang. 9 Henry VII." (1494) to which is attached his seal of red wax, bearing his device, the raven, with the letter R over it. It is addressed by Sir Rhys to the tenants of the estates of "St. Donatt's, Est Ordred, Lanfey and Merthyr Mawr," in Glamorganshire, "Halsijwey and Cern Hawey," in Somersetshire, which were brought to the Stradlings by marriage with the heiress of Sir Thomas Hawey, in the reign of Edward I. They are directed to "attorne tennts to my said son," and pay their rents to him, releasing all that appertained to himself in Edward Stradling's lands "by reason of his nowne age." See respecting him, and the monumental effigies of him and his wife, Vol. I., page 211. In addition, it may be observed, that such was the irresistible weight of Sir Rhys's influence from Llandfory to Haverfordwest, that the landing of the Earl of Richmond was effected without opposition. The country people flocked in crowds to his standard, notwithstanding his real attachment to Henry was suspected until he joined him at Shrewsbury. Sir Rhys entertaining a great aversion to the French followers of the Earl, the latter marched from Milford through Cardiganshire and North Wales into England, while Sir Rhys proceeded through his own estates in Carmarthenshire, collecting and carrying his forces till he came to Breckneck. While waiting here for the junction of the men of Monmouthshire, he planted the standard of Henry VII. at the Standell (thence so called) in Llandfiew, and again at the top of a street in Crig Hywel, called from hence Standard Street. He then marched northward, and joined the Earl of Richmond at Shrewsbury.

"Fouche e ces compaignons s'en alerent de ylece vers Rothelan de parler au Sire Lewis, (i. e. Llewelyn, for he is called in another place le fitz Yverard Droeydon, prince de Gales.) le prince q'avoit espouse Jehane, le roy Henré, suere le roy Jehan: quant le prince e Sire Fouke e ces freres furent nerys ensemble en la court le roy Henré: et a few pages previous,—"Le roy Henré donna a Lewys le fitz Yverard, enfant de vil anz, Jonette sa fyle; e en mariage lur dona Ellesmere e autres terres pleussours: si mena Lewis a Londre en fyle (from Shrewsbury.) Le prince Yverard, on e meyne, prist comte de fyle, e s'en ala vers Gales." &c. Anderson, in his Royal Genealogies, gives a daughter to Henry II., of the name of Joane, and says she was married, but does not add to whom. He also mentions a natural daughter of King John, which, Warrington, in his History of Wales, says was by a lady of the house of Fyrcyl, probably on the authority of Fabian. Sir J. Wyanne, in his History of the Fyrcyl Family, asserts that she was legitimate, and mentions the gift of the lordship of Ellesmere, in Shropshire. The above cited narrative is so particular, that it appears best entitled to credit. Probably the match was acknowledged by John in 1204. Joane was buried in the Monastery of Llanvares Friary, in Anglesey. See note 4, page 10. The Histoire de Fouques Fitz-Wariz also gives the arms, assigned by Welsh heralds to Llewelyn, to his father, Ierwerth Drwyndwn, viz., "De er e de gowles quarterly an e cheban quarter an leopard." By leopard it is to be understood lion passant.

² In the year 1052, Bernard de Noyon Mercat, with his followers, excited by the success of Fitzhamon in Glamorganshire, entered the County of Brecon, and attacking Bleddyn ab Maenarch, gained a victory, in which the Welsh chieftain lost his life, and Breconshire fell into the hands of the conqueror. Bernard was buried at Ystradfallur Abbey, which had been first founded by his brother-in-law, Rhys ab Tewdlur.

 1 He was of Swansea, and died in 1570, having been twice married. By Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Berkeley, he had issue; by Grace, daughter of Dewing, and widow to Geoffrey Newton, he had none. Very fine extensive pedigrees of the Herbert family were made by Vincent, and are amongst his collections in several of his MSS. in the College of Arms, as well as others in that library. In all, Henry Fitz-Herbert, Chamberlain to King Henry I., appears to be the common ancestor.

² Of St. George's Castle, in the County of Glamorgan. The Pedigree of Wogan is thus given by Vincent, (No. 135, 52.)

³ There is so much obscurity on this marriage, that it is very difficult to elucidate the truth. Dugdale, and most of the English heralds, do not admit it, though all the Irish historians insist on the fact. Perhaps our best guide in the matter is "A Norman French Metrical History of the Conquest of Ireland," edited by P. Michel, from the nearly contemporary MS. in the Archæological library at Lambeth. Strongbow was according to this, in pecuniary difficulties, when Dermot M'Marough offered to him the hand of his daughter Eva, and the succession to his kingdom, provided he would assist him in conquering his enemies. As soon as the town of Waterford had been besieged and taken, Dermot, according to the Poem, arrived, and the nuptials were solemnized. Glover admits the marriage, yet gives no other wife, and yet, if while in Ireland, he consented to his son Walter, at the age of seventeen, being put to death for owards her, she must have been his second wife, as he lived but nine years after his espousals with her. He also says, that her daughter married William Marshall, Earl of Pembroke, but that her name was Isabella, not Eva, in which all the legal documents agree. But there was such a son of Strongbow is clear from a grant by his grandson, William le Mareeschall, to the Abbey of Tintern, in Monmouthshire, for masses pro animabus Walter filii Ricardi filii Gilbert Strongbow avunculi et Isabella matris mee, where Strongbow is called Richard Fitz-Gilbert.

67; and had, in the time of Elizabeth, commanded the fleet destined to oppose the invincible armada. There are letters of his published by my friend, the Rev. J. M. Thuburn, in the Stradling Correspondence.

² The five Royal Tribes of Wales are generally enumerated as the following:—Gruffydd ab Cynan, Rhys ab Tewdwr, Bledydd ap Cynfin, Iestyn ab Gwrgan, and Athelstan Glodrydd. The ramifications from these have been most ably set forth, in a lively and entertaining manner, by the late Philip Yorke, of Erthbig, Esq., whose work on the subject merits the highest estimation. On these he observes, "that from the ninth to the twelfth century, the genealogist, sanctioned by royal authority, classed the first families into twenty tribes: five termed royal and fifteen called common. Other founders of families are recorded, but not included in the tribes, although of greater merit than some who were honoured with that distinction. Why Iestyn ab Gwrgan, a petty Lord of Glamorgan, and a character in everlasting disgrace, should be thus dignified, while he was the founder only of ignominy and loss of devotion to himself, of slaughter and slavery to his country, is difficult to adjust; and that Brochwel Ysgithrog, a Prince of Powys in its highest splendour, having Shrewsbury for his capital, and a chief of great power and martial character, should have his name omitted, even in the fifteen tribes, is alike inscrutable." As in the list above given he is placed as the first, while the name of Iestyn ab Gwrgan is omitted, the whole would be intelligible were the second list so altered; and as the MS. this note is intended to illustrate is of the commencement of the seventeenth century, it may probably be used pro tanto. What authority there may be for considering Cŵch vrydd to be Dunstable, except that it stands on a hill of chalk, I never could discover; and am inclined to believe, that if there be, the Saxons must have been too long possessed of it to admit of a British chieftain being historically recorded as Earl of Dunstable and Earl of Northampton. I therefore must regard Kadrod, as well as Kadrog vreych vras, "King of Denmark," as mythological personages. As to Brychan, of whom a full account will be found in Jones's History of Brecknockshire, and of his descendants, whose pretensions have been ably examined by the late Professor Rees, in his "Welsh Saints," it may be sufficient to regard him as one of "the three chief Saints of the Island of Britain." Eion ab Gollwyn was a Lord of Dyfed, owing fealty to Rhys ab Tewdwr, Prince of South Wales. He had availed himself of the general invitation given by William Rufus to all knights to enter his service, and had obtained an appointment in the English army. Wishing probably to be quite independent, he, in the year 1088, waged war against his sovereign; but being overpowered by Rhys ab Tewdwr, he formed an alliance with the before-mentioned Iestyn ab Gwrgan, who then ruled in Glamorgan, and like himself was at variance with his lord. He proposed to use his influence with Rufus to send some English knights to their assistance, which was gladly accepted to by Iestyn, who promised to give him his daughter in marriage as a reward. This occasioned the introduction of Robert Fitz-Hamon and twelve other knights, with their attendants, into that country, by whose aid the army of Rhys ab Tewdwr was defeated and he himself slain. The Normans prepared to return to England, and Eion went for the lady he was led to expect. Iestyn had, however, gained his point, and not only gave a direct denial, but incautiously added the insulting remark, "that he knew better how to dispose of his daughter than by giving her to a traitor." The wrath of Eion knew no bounds, and revenge being still within his grasp, he hastened after Robert Fitz-Hamon, represented the injustice and insult he had received, and adding that Iestyn was detested by his chief men, proposed his wresting from him the district of Glamorgan, and the taking of it himself. He promised his assistance to urge the disaffected to join them; and they fought and conquered on Mynydd Elystan, near Cardiff. Eion obtained the lady, and the billy parties comprised in the lordships of Sainghenydd and Meisgyn, while the Norman knights parcelled out the rest among themselves. One of the Heraldic MSS., purchased by the College of Arms of Mr. Frothero, M.P., and which he bought from the son of the late Mr. Lloyd, of All yr Oelin, Carllisgair, is a pedigree by William Lewis Esq. of Llwyn-derw, in the parish of Llangeler, county of Carmarthen, of Sir Leoline Jenkins, who became so illustrious in the reign of Charles II, in which, with one bastard link, he is made the lineal descendant of this Eion, and his wife thus obtained. Mr. Lewis is pleased to say, "this story"—meaning the conduct of Eion—"is not probable, notwithstanding the authority of most genealogists; and therefore "querre whether Ioin in the pedigree be not descended from another Kolhwyn," without ever considering that Nest, whether the daughter or sister of Iestyn ab Gwrgan, is not very likely to have been married to two Iones, "commonly called Iion ap Kolhwyn." Sir Leoline (or Lewis) Jenkins is an honour to his country, let him be descended from whom he will. He was born at Llantrisant, in the Vale of Glamorgan, and afterwards resided at Llanbethan, in that county. He endowed the free school in Cowbridge, where he had received the rudiments of his education, and established for it two fellowships, two scholarships, and an exhibition in Jesus College, Oxford. His Life, in two folio volumes, is now scarce, and therefore expensive. He took the degree of LL.D. at Oxford; and became Judge of the High Court of Admiralty and Prerogative Court of Canterbury; was knighted at Whitehall, 7th of January, 1669, and sworn in Secretary of State on the 26th of April in the following year. He died, unmarried, at the age of 62, on the 1st of September, 1685; and was buried in the chapel of Jesus College, Oxford. The pedigree alluded to runs thus:—

Kadror Vawr of Blaen Kych, lord of Dyfed ab 24 W'ill^m Rufus A.D. 1089. Argent—Eleanor d & h to Lhwch Lhawen vawr, lord of Kil Sant and one of the peers of Wales.

OF THE

OUT OF

A Book written by Lewis Dwnn

Deputy Herald, with his own hand, now in the possession of Lewis Owen⁽¹⁾ of Peniarth, in the County of Merioneth, Esquire, and in which each gentleman, whose Pedigree is therein contained, has subscribed his name with his own hand, for the purpose of sanctioning the authenticity and truth thereof;

AND COPIED THEREFROM AT THE REQUEST OF

THOMAS MOSTYN OF GLODDIAETH, ESQUIRE,

AND ATTESTED BY

WHO WROTE IT IN THE YEAR 1685.

¹ Lewis Owen, of Peniarth, the possessor of the original MS. of Lewis Dwnn, was the eldest son of Richard Owen of Morben, in the county of Montgomery, by Margaret, his wife, daughter and heiress of a former Lewis Owen of Peniarth, who was eldest son of Griffith, fourth son of Lewis Owen, Baron of the Exchequer of North Wales, murdered in 1555. See a future page. He was born in, or immediately about the year 1625; entered at Queen's College, Oxford, in 1637; Sheriff of Merioneth in 1647; and married, in 1653, to Jane, eldest daughter of Sir Richard Lloyd of Eschusham and Dulasser, in the counties of Denbigh and Carnarvon. In 1659 he was elected Knight of the Shire for Merioneth; and died on the 22nd of January, 1691-2. Lewys Glyn Cothi has an elegy upon Gruffydd ab Aron, who was buried at Llan Egrn, a parish in the commot of Tal y Bent, in the hundred of Meirion and county of Merioneth, seated on the river Dywyn, which empties itself into Cardigan bay, below Ynys y Macgwynn. Gruffydd was a lineal descendant of Edloswain ab Brethwe, chief of the fifteenth tribe of North Wales, some remains of whose Llys or Court are still to be seen near the lakes called Llyniau Cregannan, in Merioethshire. In the 4th of Henry V. Gruffydd ab Aron obtained as security, for various sums he had advanced to different persons, a great extent of property in the Vale of Towyn, including the domain of Peniarth, of which it is probable that the greater portion was never redeemed. In the 5th of Henry VI. he also obtained a licence from the king to appropriate to himself additional property in the same neighbourhood. The licence is still in existence; and a verbatim copy of it may be seen in a note to the poem, page 494, from whence these observations are extracted. The Peniarth estate continued for many generations in the possession of Gruffydd's lineal descendants, till by the marriage of Elizabeth, sister and heiress of William David Lloyd, Esq., about the reign of Queen Elizabeth, with Griffith, fourth son of Lewis Owen, Esq., Vice-Chamberlain of North Wales, and M.P. for Merionethshire, it passed into that family. See a future page. From the Owens it descended by marriage to another family of the same name of Morben, in Montgomeryshire; and from them through the Williams's, a younger branch of the house of Wynnstay, to the Wynnes; and is at present the property of my kind and indefatigable friend W. W. E. Wynne, Esq., to whom I am indebted for the notes to this Volume not marked "Ed." The hard mentions Arthur and Rhys, the sons of Gruffydd ab Aron; and his brother, Edroydd, is said to have assisted in concealing Owain Glynwalrhwy in his recesses, in a cave on the sea-shore, in the parish of Celyni, thence called Gogw Owain, a name it still retains.—Ed.

² John Davies was of Rhwlas, in Llanstin, and published a small book called "A Display of Heraldry," which was printed in 1716 at Shrewsbury. In the British Museum are two folio and two quarto volumes of Welsh pedigrees by the same author. (Additional MS. 9584-7) They were purchased by the late Thomas Pennant, Esq. from the executors of David Jones of Tretriv, one of the earliest printers in the principality, who was presented with a fount of type by the celebrated Mr. Lewis Morris. The son of Mr. Pennant, David Pennant, of Downing College, Esq. gave them to the Museum in 1835. The paper of these volumes has suffered from damp, and is in some instances mutilated in consequence. The pedigrees in the folio volumes, some of which are brought down to 1700, are written in a large legible hand; and the genealogies are connected by collateral curved lines. Those in the quarto volumes appear to be much older writing, and are written in narrative. At the end of the second folio volume, arms, some of which are alphabetically arranged, as far as the letter L, are given in blazon. All four volumes have been rebound and interleaved with new paper, but they want indexes.—Ed.

⁸ He was Sheriff of Merioneth in 1611 and 1624. His will is dated 19th December, 1641.

⁹ Lewis, eldest son of William Lewis Anwyl, was born about 1596, and married on the 12th of September, 1627, to Frances, fourth daughter of Sir William Jones of Castellonarech, county of Carnarvon (Chief Justice of the King's Bench in Ireland), by whom he had a daughter, Catherine, born 15th August, 1628, who was married, in 1648, to William Owen, Esq. of Clemenau. Lewis Anwyl married, secondly, in 1634, Magdalen, only daughter of Sir Thomas Williams, Bart. of Vayrol, in Carmarvonshire, by whom he had no issue. The Herbert estates, of which his mother was heiress, passed to his daughter, Catherine, and are now possessed by her representative, Mrs. Ormsby Gore; but Park, and the rest of the Anwyl estates, upon the death of William Lewis Anwyl, Esq., who survived his son Lewis, went by entail to the second son, Robert, whose name appears at the foot of Lewis Derau's Pedigree. He was Sheriff of Merioneth in 1650, and died on the 11th October, 1655. Park and its extensive possessions descended eventually to Robert Anwyl's grand-daughter, Catherine, daughter of his second son Owen. She was married on the 7th of April, 1687, to Sir Griffith Williams, Bart., of Marl, near Conway. Their only son, Sir Robert Williams, dying without issue, the great property of the two families passed to his sister, Anne, the wife first of the Right Hon. Sir Thomas Prendergast, Bart., and secondly, of Captain Terence Prendergast. In her time she had been a maid of honour to Caroline, Queen of George II., and was probably the wealthiest heiress of her day; the estates were alienated, and she died in great poverty; it has been said in a poor-house, at Whitechurch, near Denbigh. William Lewis Anwyl had several more children than are named in Lewis Derau's pedigree; but they were probably born after the date of it, subsequently to the will of Robert Anwyl must have been added, for her father, Sir John Owen, was not born till about 1600. In fact, it will be observed, that Robert Anwyl is twice mentioned; and it is probable that the original pedigree ended with the paragraph commencing "Plant William Lewis Anwyl," whose daughter, Elizabeth, in one pedigree, is said to have been wife of "David Lloyd of Croesonen." Lewis Anwyl, in his will, mentions his son-in-law, David Lloyd, and his daughter, Elizabeth, wife of John Evans. David Lloyd's wife was also Elizabeth—one of them was probably illegitimate. There are still, in Merionethshire, several families of gentry bearing the name of Anwyl, who are undoubtedly descendants of the old stock of Park. The arms born by the Anwyl family were vert, three Eagles displayed, in fess, Or.—being those of Prince Owen Glyndwr.

² There is a mistake in the pedigree here, as will be seen by examining it further on, (the paragraph beginning "Plant Morgan ap Sion"); and, as is proved by a contemporary deed, Gruffydd, it will be observed, was a younger brother, and not father of Sion, who married "Lowy ferch Elisau." The deed referred to, dated 11th August, 1589, proves that Morgan ap Sion, and John ap Morgan, his son and heir, William, brother, and Lowy, wife of the said John, and the wife of the said William, were then living; and that Morgan, son of the said John ap Morgan, had previously, and, as would appear, lately, been married to Katherine his wife, and that they were also both living.

first Geraldine who enjoyed it until towards the middle of the fourteenth century, whereas this Osbrwn emigrated from Ireland, and settled in Wales, certainly at an earlier period in the century preceding. He is generally called by the Welsh Heraldry Wyddel, the Irishman, and was no doubt a scion of the great sept of the Fitzgeralds. Mr. Vaughan, the celebrated antiquary of Hengryst, styles him "a noble man some of Desmond of ye famous family of the Geraldines;" and Sir William Betham, the present Ulster King-at-Arms, believes him to have been a son of John Fitz-Thomas, Fitz-Maurice, Fitz-Gerald, Lord of Decies and Desmond. According to some accounts, Osbrwn came to Wales to support the cause of Llewelyn, the reigning prince, to whom he rendered signal service; and he is said to have left Ireland in consequence of having slain a person of distinction; but he appears to have been received into the favour of Edward I., though this must have been at a long subsequent period. It is perhaps more probable that he came (a young adventurer) to Wales to fight against, than for the Welsh Prince; and, I am inclined to think, that he accompanied his kinsman, Maurice Fitz-Gerald, Lord Justice of Ireland, who, in 1245, landed in Wales, having come over, it would appear, to assist the English Monarch against the Welsh. (Maure's History of Ireland, Vol. III., page 26.) Osborn's first place of settlement, in our country, was at a place called Berilly, said to be a contraction of Osberly, the palace of Osber or Osborn (he is commonly called by both names), near Corygedol, in Merionethshire; but he subsequently removed to Corygedol itself, which, according to one account, he obtained by marrying the heiress of it. Both these places are to this day in the possession of Osborn's descendants.

² Lewis Glyn Cothi has addressed an Ode to Gwilym ab Gruffydd Derwas, the brother of Hywel, who lived at Cmmaes, in the manor of Cyeveilog, Montgomeryshire. He mentions Hywel's wife to be Elen, daughter of Davydd Lloyd of Newtown, who was descended from Einion of Ceri, in the same county, and Owain of Tywyn, Cardiganshire. William ab Gruffydd Derwas, he says, was descended from Meirig Lloyd of Nannau, and from Ynyr. He addresses another to Gruffydd Derwas, who, he tells us, was a younger son of Meirig Lloyd of Nannau, Hywel Sele being the elder, and had married Gwenshevar Stanley, of the family of Tegysiol. Gruffydd was an Esquire of the body to Henry VI; and, from a deed in the possession of W. W. E. Wynne, Esq., he appears to have been living in 1416.—Ed.

RICHARD HUGHES.

This page agrees with the originall being compared by us WILL^{ts} HUGHES JO. DAVIES.¹ In Anglesy.—Ed.² This pedigree is continued to long after the days of Lewis Dwnn; for William Wyns, the husband of Jane Hughes, was living on the 4th of February, 1717. I have not found elsewhere, than in this pedigree, a son of Owen Gwynedd named Iago. He was probably illegitimate.

Llew^d ap Ivan. According to the Talceosion MS., quoted below, Hwyl ap Llewelyn ap Robert ap Evan. This pedigree of the Lloyd's of Carne, (according to its present orthography Carneis), in the latter part of it, differs considerably from two descents of the same family, in a manuscript genealogical collection, compiled by Mr. John Ellis, of Talceosion, in Anglesea, about the year 1723, as the following extract from that collection will show:—

Margt, dau to Tho ap Howel.=Griffith Lloyd ap Robert.=Jane White.

Robert Lloyd, sold Carne to Evan Lloyd, Clerk. (Robert and his sister Elizabeth are the only issue of this marriage named in the Talceosion pedigree).	Elizabeth: wife of Wm Press, of Llanvhangol. (In the other pedigree, in Mr. Ellis's MS., she is stated to have been wife of John ap Robert).	John Griffith Lloyd, married Mary, dau. of Maurice Jones, of Wern, Co. Carnarvon.	Griffith Lloyd, of Tro Aveth. Edmund parson of Rhoscolyn, inducted 1663.	Lowry, wife of Tho ^s Davies, Parson of Llanvaethley. (Called in one of Mr. Ellis's pedigrees "parson" of Llanddausant, but his name does not appear as Rector of that parish in the list of its incumbents, in Rowland's.)
--	--	---	--	---

The above Evan Lloyd was instituted to the Rectory of Rhoscolyn on the 26th of April, 1615, and afterwards to that of Llanbeulan.—Rowland's Mona. He died in 1663.

Thomas Davies, Rector of Llanvaethley, was instituted to that Rectory on the 18th September, 1619.—Rowland's Mona.

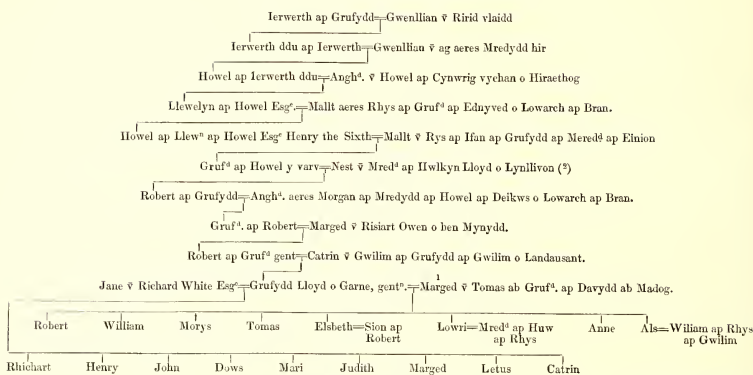

The two pedigrees in the Talceosion MS., in every respect, but such as is here noticed, agree with each other; but to one of them, between Edmund and Lowry, children of Griffith Lloyd and his second wife, is added (it would appear subsequently to the compilation of the pedigree), upon what is heretically termed "a drop," the issue of that marriage, as they appear in Lewis Dwnn's MS., for instance—

² In Merionethshire.—Ed.

⁵ Sir Thomas Pilston should be Puleston.

⁶ Madog is party to a deed relative to lands in the commot of Uchaf, dated in the 3rd year of Henry V. (1410).

⁸ In Anglesey.—Ed.

² Rhys Wynn ap Sir Dafydd is party to a deed relative to the levying a fine upon Plas yng Clegyrog, and other lands in the count of Talebolon, and county of Anglesey, dated the 16th of July, 8th of Elizabeth. By the marriage of a granddaughter of Rhys Wynn (daughter of his son William) with William Wynne, a younger son of the house of Pengwern, in Llanwnda, the Clegyrog Estate passed into that family. The grandson of this marriage, William Wynne, A.B., Rector of Llanallog, by will, dated the 18th of November, 1705, as proved on the 4th of February, 1717, bequeaths Clegyrog, and all his lands in the county of Anglesey, to his wife, Florence Wynne, to be by her sold, and the produce of the sale, after payment of his debts, to be equally divided amongst his children, all of whom were then under the age of twenty-one. His arms were those of Collwyn ap Tangno, the fifth Tribe, viz. sable, a chevron, between 3 Fleurs de Lys, argent.

The pedigrees of this family, in Lewis Dwnn and the Turocesion MS., slightly differ as they regard the issue of this William. The following sketch is from the later MS.

William (ap Rhys Wynn)=Ann dau: of Thos. ap Rhys.

Thomas Williams died s. p. 1655.=Wm. Wynn of Llanwnda. Mary ux: David Lloyd. Jane. Marg^s. Gwen, ux: Griffith Griffith, of Bodoniel.

⁶ Gruffydd Derwas, Esquire, was living at Michaelmas, in the fifth year of Henry V., as appears by a contemporary roll relating to lands in the county of Merioneth; and is stated in a pedigree compiled by Randle Holme of Chester, for Colonel John Jones, the Regicide, to have been Esquire of the Body to King Henry VI. A brother of Mabli, the wife of Gruffydd Derwas, Gruffydd ap Ievan Lloyd ap Ievan Blaene, (Blayney), appears from the probate of a will of Howel ap Madoc, of the parish of Darowen, to have been living on the 4th of March, 1432.

³ In a list of pilgrims from England to Rome, in 1507, (see Collectanea Topographica, Vol. v., page 73.) I find "D^{ns} Johannes Conwy Abbas monastⁱⁱ B^{te} Virginis in Insula de Bascy (Bersley) Boargarie^s d^{io}c^{et}is v^o 28^o Marcii." Enlli, or Bersley, is a small island off the Western promontory of Carnarvonshire, called Llyn, and was esteemed a place of peculiar sanctity. Some remains of its monastery are extant.

⁴ Humphrey Lloyd was a celebrated antiquary of Deubigh, author of the History of Wales, published by Powell, in 1784, and various other works. He died in August, 1808, aged 41, and was buried at Whitechurch, near Denbigh, where there is a monument to his memory, by which it appears that he had also, by the daughter of Lord Lumley, a son named Humphrey, who was dead when the monument was erected, as was also his daughter Jane. A biographical notice of Humphrey Lloyd, and a copy of the inscription on his monument, will be found in Penant's Wales, Vol. II., page 37, edition of 1784. A descendant from him, in the last century, claimed, but unsuccessfully, the barony of Lumley. The arms of the family whose pedigree is here given were, Gules, a chevron Ermine, between three Englishmen's heads coupé, proper. The celebrated Archbishop Williams was of this house. For more relative to it, see also the Vaenol pedigree.

⁷ The mother of John, first Lord Lumley, is mentioned in the last note.—Ed.

¹ Lewys Glyn Cothi has written an Elegy on Edmund, Earl of Richmond, and an Ode to Henry VII. In the former he mentions Owain Tudor, who was the lord of Penmydyk, in Anglesey, and had married Catherine, the Queen Dowager, daughter to Charles VI., King of France, and by whom he had Edmund, born at Hadham, in Hertfordshire, whence he was generally called Edmund of Hadham. He was created Earl of Richmond on the 23rd of November, 1453, and married Margaret, daughter and heiress of John Beaufort, duke of Somerset, the issue of which was one son, afterwards Henry VII. He was buried first at the monastery of Grey Friars, at Carmarthen; but on the dissolution, his grandson, Henry VIII., ordered the body to be removed and reinterred in the chancel of the Cathedral of St. David's. The monument is of the altar kind, and was formerly enriched with his effigy, and various escutcheons in brass. The first interment, we learn from the Elegy, which also mentions that his armorial bearings (being France and England quarterly) were bordered with fleur de lis and martlets. He likewise states that Fair sailed or dangled oedd, a tharw.—² Three eskades and a bell were on the target. In the Ode to Henry VII., Jasper Tudor, under the title of Duke of Bedford, is extolled, Henry's noble descent detailed, his landing at Milford, and his coronation commemorated.—Ed.

¹ This once powerful family was a branch of that of Cocksillan. (See page 86, and a future page.) The following notice of the House of Penrhyn will be found in Pennant's Wales.—"The house is said to have been built on the site of a palace of Roderick Molwynog, prince of Wales, who began his reign in 720. It continued long in our princes. In 957 it was levelled to the ground by Mersdydd ap Owen; who, in that year, invaded North Wales, and slew Cadwallon ap Idris, the reigning prince. In the time of Llewelyn the Great, it was bestowed, with the whole hundred of Llechwedd Ucha, on Yarddur ap Trahaiarn, a man of rank, at that period. Eva, or as she is called by some Eoerys, one of his descendants, who had by the customary division of the lands by gavel kind, Penrhyn to her share, bestowed it with her person, on Gruffydd ap Hella ap Sir Tudur ap Edeyfed Vychan, originally Lord of Bryn Ffianig. The family flourished for many generations. William Vychan, son of Gwilim ap Gruffydd, and Janet, daughter of Sir William Stanley of Hooton, and relict of Judge Prys, chamberlain of N. Wales and Chester, succeeded in the 15th of Hen: VI. to the Estates of his father and the Judge, and also succeeded the last in his important office of chamberlain of N. Wales; an honor continued to several of his posterity. It is remarkable that in his time the severity of the Laws against the Welsh were so rigidly enforced, that he was made a denizen of England, on condition that he should not marry a Welsh woman; and accordingly he married a daughter of Sir William, or Sir Richard Dilltoe." For more relative to the House of Penrhyn, see pedigree in a future page, and notes thereto.

¹ Margaret, wife of Sir Wiliam Bulkeley of Eaton, in the parish of Davenham, (daughter of Sir Richard Molyneux of Setton, by Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Thomas, Lord Stanley, of Lathom, sister of Thomas, Earl of Derby,) was married first to John Dutton, of Dutton, Esq., who died without issue in 1475. She was united to Sir Wiliam Bulkeley, styled the younger, in 1475, and died on the 21st of February, 1527. On the east side south window of Setton Church was erected the following inscription commemorative of her,—“Of yo^r charity pray for Margret Bulkeley daughter of Richard Molyneux Knight; & wyff unto Joh: Dutton, and Wiliam Bulkeley Esq., whose goodness caused this window to be made in the yere of our Lord which said Margot deceased the xxi day of Februa, 1527.” If my memory does not mislead me, this pedigree, and the one of the Bulkeley family, in Lodge’s Peerage, differ in several respects from that given in Ormerod’s Cheshire, from which I have only some rough notes. In the latter, I think this Sir Wiliam Bulkeley is represented as dying without issue, and as having been brother to Thomas, who married Jane, daughter of Sir Jeffrey Warburton. The pedigree of the Eaton branch of the Bulkeley family, as given by Ormerod, is as follows. Where the dotted lines occur, that author had no actual proof of its correctness.

² This pedigree is continued two descents lower in Vincent’s Wales, 135, folio 145, from the match of Thomas B and Jane Warberton. The great grandfather of this Thomas is there said to be “Robert.”—En.

³ Elinor, daughter to Sir Wiliam Brewton, knight, should be Breerton of Breerton.

Breerton, of Malpas; and another daughter, whose name is not given, wife of John Minshall, of Minshall, of the county of Chester. The above Maud is stated by Ormerod to have been a “daughter of Wiliam Bulkeley, Deputy Judge of Chester, 1444;” and Petronel is also called Parnell, and is stated to have been buried at Davenham, and is represented as sister of Sir Wiliam Bulkeley, who married Margaret Molyneux. I have little doubt that she was so, that a generation has been omitted in Lewis Duma’s MS. that there were two Wiliam Bulkeley’s in succession (father and son), of whom the husband of Margaret Molyneux was the last, and that he died without issue. By an examination of the dates above given, this will appear the more probable. If Margaret Molyneux was mother of Thomas Bulkeley, who married Elizabeth Warburton, she must have lived eighty-two years after the date of her son’s marriage settlement. This Thomas, it can scarcely be doubted, was her husband’s brother, not her son. Thomas Bulkeley, who married Eleanor Breerton, is stated by Ormerod to have died in the life time of his father, of whom he appears to have been the only issue. If the date, given by that author of the father’s inquisitio post mortem, taken after his father’s death be correct, the son must have survived him. It is not improbable, however, that the date is wrong, and that Thomas Bulkeley, the elder party to that deed, is the father—the first of the name—who married Elizabeth Warburton. His son Thomas is said by Ormerod to have sold Eaton in the time of Henry VII., and to have been living in the 15th year of Henry VIII., 1523. It also appears, in the pedigree given by him, that this last Thomas had a brother, named Robert, who was his heir; and who had three daughters, Elizabeth, relict of Thomas Bulkeley, daughter of Thomas Venables, Esq., was living, a widow, in 1535.

⁶ She was the natural daughter of William Hill, "parson of Stoke," brother to Sir Rowland Hill, Lord Mayor of London.

⁷ The daughter and heire of Richard Beckley, Esq., with whom Lewis Dwnn's pedigree terminates, married Thomas Mackworth, Esq., of Betton Strange, Representative for the County of Salop in the Parliaments of September, 1656, and January, 1658, and Sheriff of that County in 1669. For more relative to the Bulkeley family, see the pedigree in a future page. Their Arms were Salbe, a chevron between three Bulls' heads, Argent.

² He was instituted to the Rectory of Llanfachreth, on the 18th of June, 1566. The Welsh clergy had formerly very frequently, if not always, the prefix of Sir attached to their names.

⁵ Tegwared y baia wen was an illegitimate son of Prince Llewelyn ap Iorwerth, (surnamed the Great,) who died in 1249.

A^o Ric: 12^o (April 234, 1350.) I am inclined to think that this is the same person as is mentioned in Symond's Switzerland, as Iwan ap Eignion ap Griffith, a valiant Welshman, who had defended Henry of Transmarie and the Throne of Castile against the Black Prince, in the 29th and 40th years of Edward III., (1366.) and who afterwards accompanied Enguerrand de Coney (son-in-law of the English king) in his expedition against the Duke of Austria, under pretence of demanding the dowry due to him (Enguerrand) in right of his mother. See also note, page LIII.—Sir Howel y Fywall, and Rhys ap Howel his son, are the one party, and his grandson, Howel ap Rhys, is witness, to a deed dated at Penmyrch, on the next Thursday after the feast of All Saints, 20th Henry VI., (2nd of November, 1441.)

³ Robert Wm ap Sion ap Wmffre was brother to Dorothy, the wife of Owen ap Elise.

² Ivan ap Gruffydd, called also John ap Gruffydd, died in 1370, and is buried at Llanwchelys, in Merionethshire, where the following inscription may yet be deciphered upon his tomb. He is represented on it in armour, bearing a shield, on which are carved the herallic insignia of his family. "Hic iacet Johannes ap Grifit ap Madoc ap Ierwerth, cuius animæ propitiatur Deus, Anno Dni 1370."

and beheaded in 1283, brother to Llewelyn, the last Sovereign Prince of North Wales.

⁵ Howel ap Owain is feeffee to a deed dated the 3rd of November, 1566.

and herself of Conas Tydaethwy, the preceeing Welsh Sovereign. Essyllt and her husband assumed the government about the year 817.

⁹ Angharad, in Powell, is said to have been herself of South Wales. According to the same authority, Rhodri Mawr had but three sons, between whom their father divided his dominions. Anarawd (generally believed to have been the eldest) had North Wales, Cadell South Wales, and Mervyn the district of Powis. Anarawd died about the year 913, and Cadell about 907.

¹¹ Tudor Trevor, or, as he is generally called, Tudor Trevor, was a chieftain, from whom several families of Wales trace their descent; amongst the most distinguished of whom are the Mostyns and Trevors. The Trevor pedigree is at variance with that in Lewis Dwan's. It appears by it that Tudor married Angharad, daughter of Howel Dda

² Llewelyn ap Seisyllt became, by usurpation, Prince of all Wales, about the year 1016, and was slain in 1021.

³ He became Prince of North Wales upon the death of Iago ap Idrwal, who fell in defending his principality against him, in 1037.

pedigree books, Bleddyn is the head of one of the five Royal Tribes, that of Powis. See Cambrian Biography, and Powell's History of Wales.

⁷ Gruffydd ap Rhys was pro-Eminent Prince of South Wales in 1113, and died in 1136, distinguished, according to Caradoc, "as the bravest, the wisest, the most merciful, liberal, and just, of the Princes of Wales." The following extract from a MS. in the Harleian Collection (No. 1969), differs, as regards his issue, from the descent of the Princes of South Wales, given by Lewis Dwnn:—

Griffith ap Rhys.—Gwennllian daughter of Griffith ap Cynan, King of North Wales.

Several of the principal families of Glamorganshire trace their descent from him. See Vol. I.—Ed.

⁴ See note, page 86.—En.

⁷ Sir Howel y Vwyall (of the battle axe). There may have been two persons so styled: one, Sir Howel of the battle axe, was a son of Griffith ap Howel, in the pedigree at page LII, and uncle to Ieuan ap Einion. See pp. LII and XXVI. In the History of the Gwydir Family, Sir Howel and Ieuan ap Einion are said to have been brothers; that, however, is the only authority in which I find their relationship so stated. He distinguished himself by his prowess, in the wars in France, in Edward III.'s time. His countrymen have ever competed for him, with Denis de Morbecque, the honour of taking the French king prisoner. "This Howel," observes Sir John Wynn in his History of the Gwydir Family, "was knighted at the field of Foytlers, and by our countrymen is reported to have taken the French King; but, however it was, he did such service there, that the Prince bestowed a messe of meat, to be served up daily during his life, before his battle axe, which after was bestowed on the poor, whereof he was called Sir Howel y fwyall." The arms of Sir Howel are said to have been those of France, with a battle axe in bend sinister, argent. It is more probable that they were, as I find also stated, his own arms, viz., sable three fleurs de lys argent, with a battle axe between them, substituted for the original chevron argent.—See History of the Gwydir Family, pp. 40 and 413.—Svo. edition.

⁸ Coel Godhebog is said to have been the 72nd King of Britain, father of Heten, the wife of the Emperor Constantius. He lived about the middle of the third century.—Cambrian Biography.

⁹ The other daughter of Coel was named Gwael.

⁶ The prefix of Sr is appended to his name, from his having been in Holy Orders, he is party to a deed, dated the 20th of January, 18th of Henry VIII., (1527.)

⁷ Thomas Pool was living on the 8th of May, 44th of Elizabeth, (1602.) and his brother, Wmpfre, (Humphrey,) on the 1st of February, 18th of James I., (1621.)

⁹ She was living on the 1st of February, 18th of James I., (1621.) and was then the widow of Ellis ap Robert Wynne.

¹⁰ The wife of Dr. Ellis Price is also called Ellis. There is, probably, some mistake here, as it is unlikely that there were two daughters of the same name, though, at an earlier period in Welsh pedigrees, such is sometimes the case.

¹¹ The Glymms of Glyn Lifon were frequently denominated thus.

¹ Sion ap Heilin's will is dated 5th of August, 1484. In it he mentions Alix, his wife, and three children.

² Llewelyn ap Ierwerth Drwyndwn is the Prince commonly known as Llewelyn the Great. He ascended the Welsh throne in 1194, and died in 1240. See page 101.

³ This, it will be seen, is a branch of the same family as Robert ap Owen, whose pedigree next precedes it.

⁵ Hedd Molwynog was a chieftain of Is Dulais, in Denbighshire, and the stock of one of the Fifteen Tribes. He lived in the seventh century. The arms borne by his descendants are—sable, a hart passant argent, attired Or.

⁷ Robin ap Gruffudd Goch lived about the commencement of the fifteenth century, and was a chieftain of Rhôs, upon the borders of the counties of Denbigh and Carmarvon.

¹ Caw o Brydain, a chieftain of a district in the north, bordering on Strathclyde. He had his territory wrested from him, and in consequence retired with his family into North Wales. His place of settlement was at Trecelyn, in Anglesey, where he had lands given to him by Maclwgn Gwynedd. The greater part of his numerous issue embraced a religious life, and founded several churches. Some of them, however, were warriors. He lived about the commencement of the sixth century. See Cambrian Biography, and Professor Rice's "Welsh Saints."

² Llywarch Hén was a celebrated poet, who flourished from about A.D. 520 to 630. Many of his works are inserted in the Welsh Archæology. He is supposed to have been a chief of some part of Cumberland, and bore a distinguished part in defending his country against the Saxons. He survived the loss of twenty-four sons, who fell in the same cause. According to an ancient tradition, he died at Llanvor, near Bala, at the extreme age of 150. Pennant, quoting an elegy by Llowarch upon the death of his son, states that it was in a battle at Rhiwddog, in this neighbourhood, he lost Cynddelw, the last of his numerous issue. It is said, however, in the Cambrian Biography, that Cynddelw was a chieftain of some district in Powis, under whose protection Llowarch sought refuge. No son named Cynddelw is mentioned in Lewis Dwan, who names but twenty-one of them; yet the following translation, given by Mr. Pennant, of part of the elegy, would seem to warrant his statement—"Cynddelw defendt thou the brow of yonder hill. Let the event of the day be what it will, when there is but one son left, it is vain to be over-fond of him."

⁴ Llywarch Hen was buried at Llanvor, in Penllyn, and there is his grave, which is proved by a stone in the wall of that church.—En.

⁶ Einion Yrth was sovereign of North Wales from 389 to 448. See Cambrian Biography.

Pabo was accounted one of the British Saints. He founded Llan Pabo in Anglesey, where his tomb probably remains to this day. See Cambrian Biography. In Rowlands's Mona Antiqua is an engraving of the tomb.

² Trahaearn ap Cradog obtained the Sovereignty of North Wales, on the death of his uncle Bleddyn, in 1073, and was slain in the battle of Carno, 1080.—Cambrian Biography.

³ Fleon, called by Shakespeare Fleance, son of Banco, ancestor of the Royal House of Stuart. In some pedigrees his wife is named Mary.

⁴ Idwal ap Meirig succeeded to the Sovereignty of North Wales in 933, and was slain by Sweyn the following year.

¹¹ Sir John Wyn, in his History of the Gwydir Family, states Ierwerth to have been the only issue of Prince Eilert's first marriage. Powell agrees with Lewis Dwnn. In enumerating his illegitimate issue, Sir John has copied Powell, and they are given as follows:—Conan, Llewelyn, Meredith, Idwal, Rhun (who died in 1155), Howel, Cadell, Madoc (the alleged discoverer of America; see Southey's Madoc), Einion, Cynoric, Philip, and Ririol, Lord of Clochara, in Ireland. Ierwerth, the eldest son of Owen, was set aside from the succession, on account of a personal deformity, and the throne was usurped, first by Howel, one of the Prince Owen's illegitimate issue, and then by David, his eldest son by the second marriage, who, however, was at last dispossessed of it by the right heir, Llewelyn, eldest son of his brother Ierwerth. David married a sister of King Henry II. In the Great Roll of 20 Henry II., Rot. 2, is the following item:—"Pro pannis & apparatu sororis regis quem David filius Heni duxit uxorem xxviii^o et xliii^o—p^o breve regis et per visum Edwardi Blundri."—Lansdowne 38k, 24d.

¹² Llewelyn ap Ierwerth ascended the throne of Wales in 1194, and died in 1240. His son Gruffydd, it has been maintained, was illegitimate, though the contrary has also been confidently asserted. Gruffydd was killed by a fall, in attempting to escape from the Tower of London, about the year 1241. His body, some years subsequently, was discovered in the English Monarch, at the earnest solicitations of the Abbots of Conway and Ystradgwyllt, who, conveying it to Conway, bestowed upon it a very pompous and honourable entombment.—See Powell.

¹ Llywelyn ap Gruffydd a las y menallt. He was the last Sovereign Prince of Wales of the Webb blood, and was slain at Cefn y Bedd, near Buallt, in 1282. David, his brother, was tried at Shrewsbury and beheaded in 1283. Their mother, in Lewis Dron, is said to have been a daughter of Iannullt, King of Man. This is wrong; she was Sioneta, daughter of Canadoc ap Thomas, great-grandson of Prince Owen Gwynedd, and was living in the 25th year of Henry III.

his nephew," afterwards Prince of North Wales, and known as Llewelyn the Great.—Gwydir History.

² Dinmael is a lordship in Denbighshire, and Llys Dinmael was probably the principal mansion.—E.D.

Parr and the Countess of Desmond. In the above MS. it is stated of his son—"Cado-gan ap Elystan was Loc of the Cuntry between Wy & Severne aforesayd. He founded the abby of S^t Mary's at Com Hir, & 3 churches to S^t michell; that is in Cerry, Kenenallys, & S^t michells on Brin pah Icauf in Buhelli. He lyeth buried at Com Hir."

LXIV.

¹ Madog o'r Hendwr. See also page LXIII. The different pedigrees of this branch of the family of Owen Brogyntyn, (particularly from him to Madog), of which there are several extant, are so at variance with each other, scarcely two agreeing, that it is quite impossible to reconcile them. It will be seen that the inquisition post mortem of Tudr ap Owen Vychan, according to this pedigree fourth in descent from Owen, was taken in the 27th year of Henry VI., and that of Mredydd ap David, represented as fifth from that Chieftain, in the 25th of the same Monarch. Rysys ap David ap Howel also, whom Lewis Dwan, and a pedigree in the annotations to the recently published works of Lewis Glyn Cothi, (which pedigree differs from that in Lewis Dwan's MS. sufficiently to show that the one is not a copy of the other,) concur in representing as sixth in descent from Owen, must, from the date of the inquisition taken upon his death, have died about 1475. How then is it possible that so many generations could have intervened between Owen Brogyntyn and David de Hendwr, who died in 1350?

The following documents are the only authentic evidences known to exist relative to the branch in question of this family. They are taken from old MSS. at Rûg and Hengwrt, in Merionethshire, containing copies and abstracts of Ministers' Accounts, Pleas, Inquisitions, &c., relative to North Wales.

Another, showing that "David de Hendwr, Baro de Edernion," was one "Indicturum Com' Merioneth A' Ric: 2. 60."

Pleas and inquisitions relative to the lands held in capite of the Crown by "David de Hendwr," which prove that he died at "Hendwr," on the 7th of August, 1350, seized of a moiety of the manor of "Hendwr," and a great extent of other property in Edernion; that a feoffment before his marriage with Isabel, or Elizabeth Deneros (Deverex), was dated about the feast of St. John the Apostle, the 7th of Richard II.,

"Iein ap Mad' ap Ior' goch of Berham = Llenki, filia coheres d' ap Gion Iloid de Hendwr."

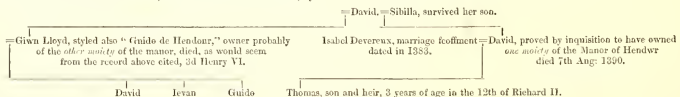

Mr. Vaughan of Hengwrt, the Merionethshire antiquary, it appears by a pedigree in his autograph, supposed David de Hendwr, who died in 1350, to have been the father of Gwyn Lloyd; and Thomas, pronounced in the records above cited, son and heir to the former, to have been a brother of Gwyn by a second marriage. It so good that he was younger than Gwyn Lloyd is proved by the inquisitions, which show that when the one was but three years old the other was father of three children; how could Thomas have been the father's son and heir? Moreover, if Gwyn and he were brothers, by the (25th of July, 1353;) that by her he had a son and heir, named Thomas, who, in the 12th year of the said King, was of the age of three years; that if the said Thomas were dead, (which it is shown he was not,) David, Ivan, and Gwido, the three sons of "Gwido de Hendwr," (Gwyn Lloyd,) were his heirs; that this Thomas "a tempore activitatis sue non vixit fuit in partibus Northwallie sed in partibus Cornubiæ ubi traxit originem;" and that Sibilla, mother of the said David, held in dower a third part of all his lands, the profits of which she had relinquished to him for life. Isabel, or Elizabeth, is called in the inquisitions by both names. It is probable that she is the same person as Sybill Cornwall, mentioned above. Sibill is commonly used in Welsh descents for Isabel; and she might have been called Cornwall as a native of that county, where it will be seen that Thomas, son of Isabel and "David de Hendwr," was born. It should be observed, however, that the mother of David was named Sibilla.

Another, from which the following evidence is extracted, "M'ioneth, Edernion, Vener. Escaets in Comp's Escaets' Com' p' d' et adine Annasidm in o'n' &c:—" "p' v' n'ij de Exit' x'c' aor' ter' arabil' in villa de vaedre v'z (moky) in Com' Edern' in Comp' p' d' de quib' Henky v'z (vereh) d' ap Gion obit seista in d'iceo suo vt de foal' militie remanet in manus d'ni Rs. ab a'o 15o. Then follows the descent of John Paleston, Esq., showing his title to the lands of the above-mentioned Lleuky, (Lacey) to exhibit which instructions are given to frame a bill in the Court of Wardis. It commences thus—law of gavel kind then prevalent in Wales, neither could he have been son and heir, they would have been co-heirs. It will be seen, too, that the three sons of "Gwido de Hendwr," or Gwyn Lloyd, are declared in these inquisitions heirs to Thomas. Gwyn would have precedence of his children in the heirship to the property. It is probable, therefore, that this portion of the Hendwr descent was as follows:—

His grandson, was living in the 12th year of Henry VIII., (1520.)

² She is called Katherine in a pedigree of the Pilsdon family.

³ Lewis Glyn Cothi has two Poems in the Vth Dospital, in which he mentions the wife of this Rhys, Gweryll, daughter of Madog ab Mredydd, of the tribe of Tudur Trevor. In the latter, which is an Elegy upon Gwennilian, wife of Philip ap Rhys of Cenarth, and daughter of Owain Glyndyrdwy, he says that Owain was a powerful prince, having the whole of Wales under his command, with forty dukes for his allies, and in his old age supported sixty-two female pensioners. On the bard's authority, we learn that Rhys had a son named Gruffydd ap Rhys ab Davydd, to whom he addressed another Ode, who, in the 8th line, we are told, married Margaret, the daughter of Rohyn ab Gruffydd gŵch, of the race of Tudur y Glyn.—Ed.

It began thus—“Coste Endenture faite p' entre le p'shant & puissant prince Jo⁶ Due de Gwyn et Lancaster d'un p'te, & Eignon ap Ithel Esq; de auter p'te. The Duke granted to Einion a pension of 20 marks a year out of the manor of Hailto, “for his service in time of peace and war.”—MS. in the autograph of Robert Vaughan of Henegw, Esq., who died in 1667. After the death of Walter Lord Mowsey, he received a grant for life of the Shrievalty of Merioneth. He died about the beginning of the reign of Henry IV.

⁷ Tudur (Vychan) ap Gruffydd was brother to the celebrated Owen Glyndwr, and was a witness in the suit between the families of Scrope and Grosvenor, relative to the armorial bearings of the former. It is proved by his evidence, that he was born about the year 1362. He was slain at Mynydd Pwll-melyn, in Brecknockshire, in 1400.

Several of his sons are mentioned in that work, but neither of them is named Jedyn. If he lived at so early a period, Catherine, the wife of Robert ap John, could hardly have been so near a descendant of his.

³ Adam de Salisbury is stated to have been a younger son of the Duke of Bavaria, and the occasion of his settling in Wales was his being appointed Captain of the garrison of Denbigh. The family of Salisbury became a very powerful one in North Wales, the principal branch of which was seated at Llewenny, in Denbighshire. In the reign of Charles II. Hester, sister and heiress of Sir John Salisbury, Bart. conveyed the estate, by marriage, to Sir Robert Cotton, of Condemere, in Cheshire; and it was sold by the late Sir Robert Salisbury Cotton to the Hon. Thomas Fitzmaurice, whose son, Viscount Kirkwall, again conveyed it, by sale, to the Rev. Edward Hughes, father of Lord Dmorben, the present proprietor. The Rev. Sir Charles Salisbury, Bart. is lineally descended from this house.

⁴ This John Salisbury died in 1280.—Ed.

⁵ Hugh Conwy, of Bryn Euryr, in the parish of Liandrillo, in Rhôs, was a son of Robin ap Griffith Gôch, Lord of Rhôs.

⁶ Harri gôch Salbri was of Llanrhaidir in Kiamerech, in Denbighshire.

⁸ Tudur Ychan should be, ap Tudur ap Griffith ap Einion, (of the line of Cwsgydd, in a future page.) This Tudur Ychan, as appearing from an old MS. at Rôg, containing copies of Ministers' Accounts, Extents, &c., died, seized of a tennement called Y Gyndra, in the township of Abergwern, in the county of Merioneth, upon the 25th of June, 1496, and that Margaret his daughter was his next heir, and in the 11th year of Henry VII., of the age of five years. She was married to the above mentioned Harry (gôch) Salusbury.

¹⁴ The office of Escheator and Sheriff of Merionethshire was patro by Henry VII., on the 22nd of September, in the first year of his reign. ¹⁵ Grto (Piers) Stanley, which office Stanley continued to hold in the first year of Henry VIII. The manor or lordship of Eulo was leased by the latter Monarch, on the 7th of April, in his 26th year, (1535), ¹⁶ Petro Stanley Ar and generos^o hostiare Cam^o ar^o. ¹⁷ Edward Stanley of Hutech is witness to a deed dated on the 22nd of August, 1558. He was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1545, 1553, and 1560. He was also M.P. for Merioneth in the Parliament of 33rd Henry VIII., (1542), and was appointed Constable of the Castle of Harlech by Letters Patent, dated the 26th of March, 5th Edward VI., (1551). Compare that which relates to the Stanley family as above with the pedigree at a future page. I have little doubt that Edward Stanley, represented in the above as son of Piers and Constance Salusbury, is the same person as appears in the other as Edward Stanley of Harlech, son of Piers and Janet Butler; and I have a little doubt that the former is the correct version of his descent.

His son Rbyn, to expiate the murder, gave the lands whereon the Church of Llanrwst was built. The arms which this Tribe have borne are argent, 3 spears' heads inbraced, Sable, pointed upwards.—See Cambrian Register, Vol. I., page 149.

² Elidr ap Rhys Sais was a descendant of Tudur Trevor, page 98, and "was called Rees Sais, because he served in England, and could speak the English tongue." The formerly distinguished family of Eyton, of Eyton, in the parish of Bangor, was descended locally from him.

⁷ Of the line of Cefnawlic.

⁸ Howel y Pedole, descended from Iwan ap Cynudelw, was a chieftain noted for his great strength. He received knighthood from Edward II., to whom he was foster brother. See Cambrian Biography. ¹ William ap Gruffydd seems to have been the first of the family who adopted the surname of Jones. In a bond, to which he is party, dated 21th of May, 23rd Elizabeth (1581). He is styled "Wm. Griffith Jones Esq." He died in 1587, and Margaret, his first wife, in 1583. Their eldest son, whose signature is attached to Lewis Dwnn's pedigree of this house, was afterwards knighted, and at one time Chief Justice of the King's Bench in Ireland; subsequently to which he was a Justice of the same Court in England. He died on the 9th of December, 1640, and is interred under the Chapel of Lincoln's Inn. His first wife, Margaret, a daughter of Griffith ap John Griffiths, of Cefn-awlich, Esq., died in May, 1609, and was buried at Beaumaris, in the church of which town is a monument, with the following inscription, to her memory:—

Her descent is not quite correctly given at a future page. See Marged ferch Gruffydd, &c. It should be thus—Marged ferch Gruffydd ap Sion ap Gruffydd Esq, ap Sion. Sir William married, secondly, Catherine, daughter of Pewis, of Abangdon, by whom he is believed to have had no issue. Griffith, the eldest surviving son of Sir William Jones, had two daughters: Margaret, the eldest, married Sir William Williams, Bart, of Ysconol, and so conveyed the Castellmarch estate into that family. It now belongs to Thomas Asheton Smith, Esq, under the same title by which he holds Ysconol. Lady Williams died in January, 1647. Her sister, Jane, was the wife, first, of Griffith Williams (whose settlement prior to their marriage is dated the 11th of January, 1645), Sir William's younger brother; and afterwards of the Hon. Thomas Bulkeley, second son of Thomas, Viscount Bulkeley. It was during the life-time of Sir William Jones, or his son, that a party of the French, landing near Castellmarch, carried off the master of the house prisoner to France.

² In a return to Archbishop Parker, upon the state of the diocese of Bangor in 1561, appears "Henry Holland the younger, Priest Vicar of Conwy, resident and keepeth house;" and the same person is amongst "such as are able to preche, and may do good," in the same return. The names of William and Hugh Holland are in an assessment, containing a list of the freeholders and tenants within the commot of Isaf (in which Conwy is situated), made in April, 1567, as is that of Hugh Stodart. In the south-west corner of Conwy church is a raised tomb stone, on which are the following inscriptions:—"Edward Holland Armiger positus hic memoriale Hollandorum ad requisitionem Hugonis Holland Ar. p^ris p^ris paulo antebatum, qui obiit 18 die Maii 1534.

By the side of this stone lyeth buried William Williams, Esq., together with his wife, Margaret, eldest daughter and heir of William Holland, of Marl, Esq. she [died] An. Dom. 1641. [and he] 1673.—Beneath lyeth the body of Holland [William] son of William [Williams] M^r Margaret his wife, who departed this life the first day of January 1650, Annos natus 40." Jane, daughter and heiress of Edward Holland, Esq. (who was the eldest son of the above-mentioned Holland Williams, but had assumed the surname of Holland), was married to Robert Williams, of Fwll-y-creddin, in the county of Conarvon. Their grand-daughter, Jane Shirees, relict of Sir David Erskine, Bart. is the representative of this family. The arms borne by them were, Azure, a Lion rampant gardant, between three fleurs-de-lis, argent.

³ See also Gwynnryn, p. 96, of which house this is a branch.

⁶ Ednoew Bendew was the stock of one of the fifteen Tribes of North Wales, and lived about the middle of the 11th century. See page 83.

² Elin; Catrin; ferched, &c. This passage appears as though placed without reference to what precedes or follows it. The wife of Robert Carrig (who died in 1579) was Catherine, daughter of Richard ap John ap Madoc of Bodwrda. That, doubtless, is what is meant.

⁵ This does not appear in the Myllryn pedigree. Perhaps it should be Bron-y-foel,—the first Howel in that descent being generally styled Howel Vyechan.

⁶ Dr. John Davies, author of the Welsh Dictionary, printed in 1632, and of other learned works in that language, was Rector of Mallyd from 1604 to 1644, in which year he died, and was buried in his own Church, beneath the altar, which is remarkable for being in the centre of the building. It probably had been removed from that situation by the direction of Archbishop Laud; for Mr. Pennant observes, that Dr. Davies, in defiance of the Archbishop's orders, again removed it from its imaginary superstitious site at the East end of the Church. In the Cambrian Biography, Dr. Davies is said to have been the son of a weaver at Llanverres, in Denbighshire.

⁸ A branch of the family of Gruffydd Derwas (descendants of his son Gwiliam) were seated for many generations in the parish of Cemas, adjoining to that of Mallyd.

⁹ Robert ap Gruffydd, or Robert Griffith Lloyd, as he was called, was buried on New Year's Day, 1618-9.

¹⁰ Rolant o Llanillyni is witness to a deed dated on the 1st of September, 4th June 1595.

In the will of Bishop Arthur Balesley of Bangor, dated the 10th of March, 7th Edward VI. (1523-5), is a bequest to his nephew, "Richard Fletcher and Grace his wife." The Bishop also bequeaths to "Elizabeth Fletcher a feather bed Covering and two fustian blankets which are in the painted Chamber, and the Testers of the Bed which is also in the same Chamber." ⁵ Robert Gruffydd ap David ap Robert of Bachysaint, is party to a deed dated on the 8th of July, 1578. Robert Gruffydd of Bachysaint, Esq., fourth in descent from Robert above mentioned, married Catherine, daughter, and at length heiress, of Evan Evans, Esq., of Tao-y-llwch, in Merionethshire. Bachysaint was then deserted for that beautiful residence. The heiress of the united houses, Margaret, only child of Evan Gruffydd, Esq., was the wife of William Oakeley, Esq., a brother of the late Charles Oakeley, Bart., and died in 1809. By their son, the late William Gruffydd Oakeley, Esq., Bachysaint was sold, within these few years, to William Ormsby Gore, Esq., of Parkington and Cleveney, the late owner.

⁴ Through the marriage of Catherine Masmore with Peter Maurice, D.D., Dean of Bangor from 1727 to 1750, the Masmore Estates passed into that family. Catherine, daughter and heiress of Peter Maurice, A.M., Prebendary of Penmynydd, and Rector of Llanillechid, (son of the Dean and Catherine) was the wife, first, of John Kyffin of Ucheldre, and, secondly, of Edward Lloyd of Trebant, Esq. The eldest surviving issue of the second marriage, Catherine Mary Margaretta, is the present owner of Masmore. ¹ L. G. Cothi has addressed an Ode to this Gruffydd ab Rhys, who had his patrimony and residence at Crogen, on the Dee, in the Vale of Ednyrnion. The mansions of the tribe of Owain Brogrytyn (now termed Pockington, the seat of Ormsby Gore, Esq.), were in great number in this Vale, being Crogen, Rig, Henl'or, Ddi y Glyn, Maemor, &c. In a MS. pedigree of 1697, he is said to have married Annes, daughter of Howel, of the line of Gruffydd gŏch, and maternally descended from the Coetmors of Nant Gowy. This is corroborated by L. G. Cothi in the Ode just mentioned, which differs from the above of Lewys Dwan. The name of Coetmors was derived from Coedmawr, an ancient mansion near Llan Dega, in Carnarvonshire, which is now part of the estate of Gwyllir. Morgan Lloyd, the son of the last-mentioned Davydd, was the last of the family, and Crogen now belongs to Lord Ward.—Ed.

² Gruffydd ap Ifan ap Einion was of the line of Osborn Wyddel, and was one of the defenders of Harlech Castle, for the House of Lancaster, under his brother David, the constable of that fortress. See notes to Pengwern Ffestiniog pedigree.

⁴ The name of Humphrey's wife, daughter of Sir Richard Herbert, was Annes (Agnes).

David Lloyd Morgan, of Crogen, (doubtless the person who attests the pedigree) = Elizabeth Edwards 2nd wife, married before 12th October, 1597

Morgan Lloyd, of Crogen, Esq. (eldest son, there can be no doubt, of the above David Lloyd) = Margaret Meyrick. See page 127.

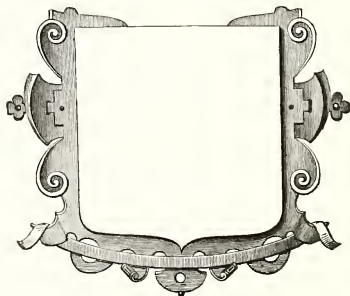

David Morgan bapt: 14 Deer 1606.	Edm ^d . bapt: 30 Sept: 1610.	Meyrick, bapt: 3 ^d July 1614.	Hamffrey, bapt: 20 June 1625.	Elizabeth, bapt: 8 March 1611. Lowry, bapt. 8 Oct: 1620.

It is stated, in Davies's Display of Heraldry, printed at Salop in 1716, that the author had seen "in one book," the pedigree of this house lineally traced through Llewelyn ddu to Tudur ap Rees Sali, and that the mother of Llewelyn ddu was Gweryl, daughter to Llewelyn Vaughan, of the line of Owen Brogrytyn. It would appear, from the way in which the arms of David ap Morgan are given in Lewis Dwan, that those of Llewelyn ddu and Owen Brogrytyn were not the same. One, however, certainly of the houses (that of Henl'or), descended from Owen, changed their paternal bearing. Perhaps the same may have been the case here, and the arms of Owen, afterwards given by this family quarterly with their more modern coat. See more relative to this pedigree, at another page.

⁶ Sir John Pari was collated to the Vicarage of Gwyddelwern, in the diocese of St. Asaph, by Bishop R. Davies, in 1590, and his successor in 1594, by Bishop Hughes.—This family assumed, from their residence, subsequently to the date of the pedigree, the surname of Branas. Humphrey Branas, probably grandson of Waplinge ap Morgan, appears on the Subsidy Rolls, for Merionethshire, of 1636.

² Edmond ap Meirig was instituted to the Archdeaconry of Merioneth about the year 1560, and died in 1605, being then possessed of the Prebend of Bokenhall, in the Church of Lichfield, the Sinecure of Corwen, and the Chancellery of Bangor, together with the first-mentioned dignity. See Willis's St. Asaph. His will is in the Prescriptive Court Registry, 49 Stafford, passed in 1613, long after his decease; and letters of administration of goods not administered, granted in 1617 to Wiliam Green of Bohengill, county of Warwick, during the minority of Gely and Elizabeth Mericke. His executors were—Rowland Meyrick, Esq. son and heir of Sir Gely Meyrick; Sir Simon Weston, Knight; Sir John Conway, Knight; the Rev. Harry Meyrick, A.M.; the Countess of Essex, Rev. Mr. Evans, and a Mr. Snape. His surviving children, Peter, George, Gely, Elizabeth, and Grace, are all mentioned in the will.—Ed.

⁶ Peter son of Edm^d Meyrick, gent. bapt: 12 Feb: (Thursday) 1623-4. Edm^d Meyrick is styled here Gent., though, at an earlier period in the Registers, Esquire; but the same person is intended, as is proved by a pedigree, carrying down the descent of the family to a later period than that in Lewis Dwan's Visitation.

¹⁰ Edmond, son of Edm^d Meyrick, by Joett his wife bapt: 11th June 1636.

The last generation has, probably, been added to Lewis Dwan's pedigree, since it was originally compiled; but there is no reason to suppose that this may not have been done by himself. Ucheldrev continued in the possession of the Meyrick family till about the middle of the 18th century, when it became, as is supposed, by bequest, the property of the Kyffins of Maenan, in Denbighshire. From them it passed by marriage to the Kenricks of Nanteiwyd, its present possessors.

¹² Probably son of Archdeacon Frys. See a future page.

¹³ Margaret, daughter of D^r Meyrick, is probably meant.

¹⁴ Trethraeth, or Newport, in Pembrokeshire.—Ed.

¹⁶ Davydd ap Gwiliam is, doubtless, the same person as is called Gruffydd ap Gwiliam immediately above.

¹⁷ See Gwynfryn.

¹⁸ Probably Llanegwneid, in the county of Anglesey.

³ Ednowain Bendew lived about the middle of the 11th century.

at another page; indeed, the descents of this Han, given at several pages of this work, differ in many respects.

¹⁰ At page XLVII, this marriage is assigned to the son.—Ed.

See Vol. I, pp. 137, 185.³ Henry Meyrick held one of the Prebendal Stalls in St. David's Cathedral in 1589. He was the Incumbent of Rochester, Pembrokeshire, and married a daughter of Rys Bowen of Upton, in the same county.⁴ See Vol. I, page 178.⁵ At Goodrich Court is a coat of arms taken from a little book by Thomas Evans, a bard, who lived at Llansanffraid, near Gelliedrev, and emblazoned argent, a chevron Sable between 3 ragged staves fess, Gules. ¹ Jemwnt Gruffydd, or Edmund Griffith. He was an illegitimate son of William Griffith, Esq., of Penryn, Chamberlain of North Wales, called also Gwiliam Vyechan, and William Vyechan. Edmund Griffith is the same person as is styled Edmund Gwiliam Vyechan at page 131. His wife, a daughter of Meredith ap Iwan ab Robert, Esq., of Gweydir, was married secondly to Sir John Puleston, Knight.

² According to the Trecroston MS., the eldest son of Edmund Griffith was named George.

³ George Sparrow, or Sparrow. A family of this name have been for several generations the possessors of Bodeyben, in Anglesey.

account of his being married, but was restored to the living in 1558. He died in 1587.

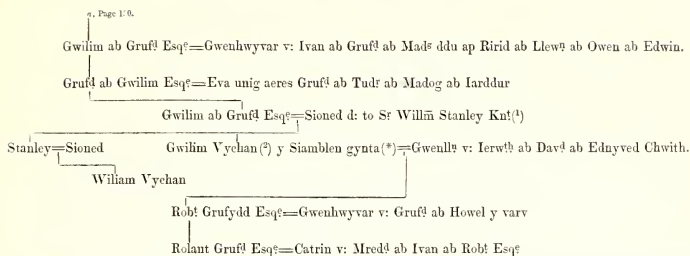

⁵ Owen Owen, Archdeacon of Bangor. See Hobsbail.

⁸ Heilin ap Sir Tudur is grantee in a charter of Prince Llewelyn ap Griffith, dated at Dolwyddelan, on the next Thursday before the feast of St. Lawrence, 1281.

Her will is dated 16 Dec: 1542, & was proved at Bangor 15 Dec: 1543.

Catherine, dau: of Merelith ap Ievan ap Robert. Roland Griffith Esq: of Plas Newydd Sheriff of Anglesey in 1514, 1545, 1555, in which year he died. Annes, dau: of Manrice ap John ap Merelith. Two daughters. John (or=George) of Talyhoat. Elin Bulkeley. Robert, Constable of Carmarvon, M.P. for the Carmarvonshire Boroughs in 1558, married Elizabeth Sparrow. See for his issue, p. 130. Willm, Rector of Llanfawr, 1544, (mar^d Elizabeth dau: of Griffith ap Robert) and, according to Lewis Dwnn, other issue.

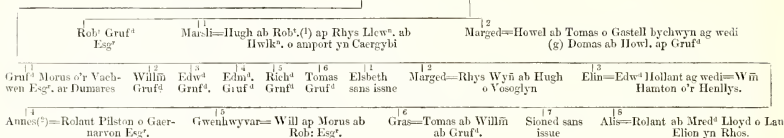

⁴ He was M. P. for Beaumaris in the second Parliament of Edward VI., (1553.) According to the Taicrossion MS., his wife was Alice, daughter of William Bulkeley of Beaumaris. It will be seen that, at another page, his nephew of the same name is stated to have married Alice, daughter of William Bulkeley, Gent.; and the children, which, in the MS. above cited, are given to Morris Griffith, the uncle, are, at that page, made the issue of his nephew. I am unable to say which pedigree is the correct one. In Lewis Dwnn's pedigree, the elder individual is styled of Fachwon, probably in Anglesey; and in the Taicrossion MS., he and his descendants appear as of that place.

⁶ Richard Gruffydd of Cefn-y-firwen, in Anglesey, and is party to a deed dated the 20th of October, 1554.

² Anne, wife of Roland Puleston, was living at Carnarvon, on the 6th of June, 1604. Her father died in 1585, and her brother certifies the pedigree of his family on the 22nd of September, 1588.

³ Morus Gruffydd, o'r Plas Newydd, Esq., was Sheriff of Anglesey, in 1562, and was living on the 4th of June, 1602. He conveyed Plas Newydd, either by sale or mortgage, to Sir Henry Bagnall. The heiress of the Bagnalls was married to Lewis Bayly, Bishop of Bangor, from 1637 to 1633. His legal descendant, the Margaris of Anglesey, whose ancestor, Sir Nicholas Bayly, assumed the surname of Paget, from his marriage with Caroline, daughter and heir of Thomas Lord Paget, is the possessor of this place. Maurice Griffith was seated, but probably not till after the allocation of Plas Newydd to Sir Henry Bagnall, at Llanfair Isawr, on the opposite bank of the Menai. A letter from him is dated at Llanfair, in 1602. Through the marriage of his grand-daughter, Mary, daughter of Robert Griffith, with Edward Wynn, of Talleyddyn, in Merionethshire, the Llanfair estate passed into that family, and from them, again, by marriage, to Hugh Griffith, Esq., of Brynodd, in Llyn, who was born on the 14th February, 1726. He was Sheriff of Carnarvonshire in 1776; his son, John Griffith, Esq., in 1813.

³ Wiliam Bulkeley, of Portham, Esq., represented in Lodge's Pedigree of Ireland as fourth son, was Sheriff of Anglesey in 1544.

⁴ Wiliam Bulkeley, Esq., of Hotoerot, was Constable of Beaumaris in the reign of Henry VI., and is stated in Lodge's to have prevented Richard, Duke of York, from landing in Anglesey, on his return from Ireland to join the Earl of Warwick against the King. According to the same author, he died in 1434.

⁶ Another daughter married Talbot of Balabeith. Malahide is probably meant; but, according to Lodge, the daughters of Rowland Bulkeley were, Ellen, who was the first wife of Sir William Norris, of Espoake (Speke), in Laneshaire; and Margaret, married on the 12th of June, 1531, to George Booth, Esq. of Duesham, in Cheshire, of whom she was the first wife, and died without issue. There was also another daughter, Catherine, whose will is dated the 16th of November, 1559. See page 134. Sir Richard Bulkeley (the second) was knighted at Berwick by the Earl of Warwick, in the first year of Edward VI., (Cotton MS. Claudius C. III.), and was M.P. for Anglesey, in the second parliament of Queen Elizabeth, which commenced on the 11th of January, 1562-3. He was Sheriff for Carnarvonshire in 1550 and 1558, for Anglesey in 1561, and died in 1569. Sir Richard Bulkeley, eldest son of the above, was M.P. for Anglesey, in the parliament which commenced on the 2nd of April, 1571, and in the first and second parliaments of James I. (1603, 1614). He was Sheriff for Anglesey in 1570, and was knighted on Shrove Sunday (17th February), 1579, at Whitehall, the day preceding his wedding. (Cotton MS. Claudius C. III.) He died on the 28th of June, 1621, and was buried at Deonmaris. He was also constable of Bewmaris: letters patent, appointing him to that office, bear date 28th May, 1561. He is styled in those "Rich^d Bulkeley, son and heir of Sir Richard Bulkeley." He was twice married, first to Catherine, daughter of Sir William Davenport, of Bramhall, in the county of Chester; and, secondly, to Mary, second daughter of William, Lord Borough, of Gainsborough, in the county of Lincoln. His second son, of the second marriage, Thomas, was created a Peer of Ireland, by the title of Viscount Bulkeley of Coeshina, on the 6th of June, 1643, which title became extinct on the death of Thomas James, the seventh Viscount, in 1822. The issue of the second, Sir Richard Bulkeley, by his second wife, Agnes Needham, were, according to Lloyd, Llanocet, Arthur, and Tristram, who all died young; George and Edward; Llanocet, Archbishop of Dublin; Arthur, Vicar of Coeshina; and Thomas; and two daughters, as in Lewis Dwn, excepting that Grusel was the elder. Arthur Bulkeley's name, however, does not appear in the list of Rectors of Llan Eilan, with the chapels attached to it of Coedana, &c. in Rowland's Moneta. Coeshina is not a Vicarage. Hugh Bulkeley, of Bewmaris, gentleman, and William Bulkeley, gentleman, sons of Thomas Bulkeley, deceased, are parties to a deed, dated 20th September, 1574. Mary, wife of the said Thomas, is mentioned as living, in a bond of the same date.

¹ Sir Henry Power of Berham, in Denbighshire, Constable of the Castle of Maryborough, and Knight Marshal of Ireland; created Viscount Valentia on the 1st of March, 1620. He died without issue, on the 23th of May, 1642, his wife on the 4th of September, 1641, and she was buried on the 17th, in St. Patrick's, Dublin.—See Lodge.

² Llanocet Bulkeley was instituted to the Rectory of Llanddyfan on the 13th of November, 1593, and to that of Llandegfan on the 4th of March following. On the 11th of August, 1619, he was appointed to the Archbishopric See of Dublin. He died on the 8th of September, 1659, in his 82d year, and was buried in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

³ Should be Rowland Thickens.

⁴ Arthur Bulkeley of Coeshina, Esq., was Sheriff of Anglesey in 1598.

⁵ There is either a word omitted here, or it should be Griffith ap Grono Lloyd ap y Penwyn. Grono Lloyd ap Penwyn was one of the jury for taking the extent of Nant Conwy, on the next Monday after the festival of the translation of St. Thomas the Martyr, 20th of Edward III., (3th July, 1352.)

⁶ Heild Molywyn, called also, according to the Cambrian Biography, Hydd Molywyn, or Hydd ab Olywyn. In the same work, it is stated that he lived about the end of the seventh century; but the following notice of this chieftain, by which it would appear that he lived at a much later period, occurs in the Harleian MS., No. 2288.—

"Heath Molywyn, one of the 15 Tribes of North Wales, Lord of Cwch Dulais in [Dunbigglshire]—His name Heath signifies a Hind [which] he bore for his Arms, & [he] was with Llynein ap Ierwerth in the great expedition he made into England when he burned several towns quite to Leicestershire Anno 1066 as Mr. Vaughan of Heogwrt."

Trevor of Bryckinallt in Denbighshire, wrote the following epitaph on Eva, his grandmother:—

“Here lies by name the world’s mother,
By nature my aunt—sister to my mother;
By law my grandmother—mother to my mother;
My great-grandmother—mother to my grandmother;
All this may be without breach of consanguinity.”

See Historical Essay on the Isle of Anglesey, in the Gwyneddian for 1822, page 25.

¹ In the History of the Isle of Anglesey, by Miss Angharad Llwyd, occurs the following account of this person:—“This Eignon,” says Lewis Dwan, “was usher of the palace of Sheen (Richmond) in the early part of the reign of Henry VI. and this required his absence from his native country for such a length of time that he acquired the name of Sais.” Llywelyu his grandson fought on the field of Bosworth; and his two handed sword and salvejar are still preserved at Bodorgan,² as was his salade, within the memory of several persons. Upon the death of the late Owen Futtland Meyrick, Esq., Bodorgan and its extensive possession passed under his will to his grandson, Owen John Augustus Fuller, only son of his eldest daughter, Clara, by her marriage with Augustus Elliott Fuller, Esq., of Ashdown House, Sussex. He has adopted the additional surname of Meyrick, was Sheriff of Anglesey in 1827. and is the present proprietor.

Amongst the Rectors of Llanbeulan occurs the name of Morgan Hughes, (probably this person), whose successor, upon his death, was instituted to that living January 23d, 1542-3.

⁵ At another page, she is called Jane. She had a sister named Mallt.

² Lewys Glyn Cothi addressed an Ode to her, in which he requests the gift of a covertlet, owing to the inhabitants of Chester having plundered him of his household furniture; in which, alluding to her pedigree, he pays her many flattering compliments. The name of her grandfather, Hwlkyn, is a contraction of Hwlkyn, the diminutive of Hwyl. Her father was the ancestor of the Lewises of Pryswydd, which is still a fine ancient mansion in the parish of Bed Eleyra, to one of whom, Hugh Lewis, the bard has addressed another Ode.—Ed.

⁵ Davydd ap Rhys, Esq. was Sheriff of Anglesey in 1550 and 1567, and died in 1574.

⁶ Wiliam Lewis, Esq. was probably of Chwaen.

⁸ This is a mistake. Davyd Lloyd, who married Dorothy, daughter of Robert Wynn of Brynkir, was not son of Davydd ap Gwiliam, but of his grandson Davydd ap Rhys, though Davydd ap Gwiliam probably had a son of the same name. It will be seen that Davydd Lloyd is styled at a future page, "ap Davydd ap Rhys." At another page he is also improperly represented as a son of Davydd ap Gwiliam.

⁹ Rhys ap Davydd had also another daughter, Annes, who was married to Morris, one of the sons of Ievan ap John ap Merch^d of Brynkir. Her husband died in 1563.

¹⁰ The arms of Tegrin ap Carwed, the founder of this family, were, Or, a falcon surcharged azure, beak^d &c. or.

² The arms borne by this family are those of the tribe of Llowarch ab Bran; namely, Argent, a chevron between 3 crowns, each bearing a "Queen of Ferns" in its bill, sable.
³ Gwenllian was a daughter of Rhys, commonly called the Lord Rhys, who died in 1197, grandson of Rhys ap Tewdwr.

⁵ Sir William Gruffydd was instituted to the living of Llandyvyrydog on the 22nd of March, 1537 (probably 1538), and his successor, appointed on his death, 23rd May, 1569.

William ap Griffith appears to have had a brother, John, and two sisters of the names of Catherine and Annes; but the statement there given, as regards their marriages, is very different from that in Lewis Dwnn: the husband of Catherine is stated to have been John ap Hugh of Bodewryd, and of Annes, Edward Meredith, curate of Llanfachreth. It should be observed, however, that no such person as John ap Hugh occurs in the Bodewryd pedigree.

⁶ Cilnau Droetu was the stock of one of the tribes of North Wales. He lived in the time of Merfyn Frych, King of Man (Merfyn was slain in 843), being his brother's son, and came with his uncle from the North of Britain, when Merfyn married the Princess Elyll. He lived at Gyrllifon. The arms of this tribe are—1st, Argent, an eagle displayed with two heads sable; 2nd, Argent, three fiery ragged sticks gules; the third as the second, the fourth as the first. Over all, upon an escutcheon argent, a man's leg, coupé à la cuisse, sable. See account of the Fifteen Tribes of Wales, in the Cambrian Register, Vol. I.

² See a future page.

⁵ William Glyn was living in the 10th year of James I. (1619).

⁷ The last generation, and the issue of Thomas Glyn, have probably been added to this pedigree since the date of its attestation; certainly the marriage of Lowri, daughter of William Glynne with Robert Owen has, for that did not take place till about twenty years subsequently. These additions, however, may very possibly have been made by Lewis Dwnn. Thomas Glynne was Sheriff of Carnarvonshire in 1627, and died in 1656. Besides the daughters named in the pedigree, he had several sons, the eldest of whom, William, was entered at Brasenose College, Oxford, on the 9th of December, 1621, aged 18. Lowry, the wife of Robert Owen of Ynamogid, died in 1656. Rhys ap Robert, or Rhys Wyn, of Graianog, for he adopted that surname, the husband of Jane Glynne, died in 1656.

² In the magnificent church of Clynog, in Carnarvonshire, is the following inscription to the memory of the second William Glynn:—

"He jaet Wilhelmus Glynn de Llear aroiger, qui sepultus fuit vicesimo die Maii, Anno Domini 1609."

From the effigies of his children, upon his monument, it appears that he had in all twelve. The eldest son of the third William Glynn, Thomas, seems to have died before his father, without issue, for the father's successor was another William, who died in 1610. The daughter and heiress of this last William was married to Colonel George Twisleton, whose tomb is also in the church of Clynog, and upon it the following inscription:—

"Sub hoc tumulo Jacet corpus Georgii Twisleton de Llar in Com. Carnarvan, filii Johannis Twisleton de Aula Barlow in Agro Eloracensi, Armigeri, qui obiit 22 die Maii, A.D. 1667 ætatis sue 49."—In the middle of the tomb are his arms, viz. Azure, a Chevron Sable between three Moles of the 2nd, with a Mullet for Difference, and underneath this inscription:—

"In Spem Resurrectionis sub hoc quoque jacet corpus Mariæ Twisleton uxoris Georgii Twisleton supradicti, filie et heredis Galliceni Glynn de Llear in Com. Carnarvan. Arm. que obiit 8 die Junii A.D. 1676."

Mary Twisleton, third in descent from the above-mentioned George, succeeded to the property of this branch of the Glynn family. She was married to Captain William Rilsdale, of Ripon, in Yorkshire, who sold the estates of his wife to Sir Thomas Wynne, of Glynllifon, and was killed at Dettingen in 1745.

⁷ Sir Roger Puleston, Knight (husband of Angharad, as she is called, but her name was Margeret). His name occurs in the family records, from the 15th of July, 5th

Edward II. (1311), to the 4th of Edward III. He is said to have died in the 13th year of that monarch. His wife was living in the 17th of Edward II.

² Robert Puleston, Esq. was examined as a witness in the controversy between the families of Scrope and Grosvenor, relative to the Scrope arms; and it appears, from his evidence, that he was born in or immediately about the year 1258. His wife was a sister of the celebrated Owen Glyndwr, whose father was Griffith Vychan of Glyndydrwy-Glyndwr; and his brother also gave evidence in the above-mentioned controversy. Robert Puleston forfeited the Ennal estate for joining in the rebellion of his brother-in-law, but it was restored to him.

³ She was sister to Owain Glyndydrwy, on failure of whose issue his armorial bearings were adopted by the Puleston's, viz. paly of 3 argent and gules, over all a lion rampant sable. Her son, Robert Puleston of Ennal, whose father had been slain in the wars of Owain, married Anghard, daughter of Gruffydd Hamner, son of Sir David Hamner, of Hamner-hall, father-in-law of Owain, and ancestor of the present Sir John Hamner, Bart. of Bettisfield, county of Flint. Their son and heir was Roger Puleston, married to Janet, daughter of Thomas Bulkeley, of Acton, Esq.; and, in an Ode addressed to him by Lewys Glyn Cofhi is described as a distinguished and powerful warrior, possessed of great wealth, a noble mansion, and ample territory.—Ed.

⁵ Sir John Puleston was constable of the Castle of Carnarvon, and died in 1551. In the Cambrian Quarterly Magazine, Vol. V., page 276, is a curious inventory of the stores in Carnarvon Castle, taken after his death, on the 25th of February, 5th of Edward VI.

³ See note, page 118. If it be true, as stated in the Cambrian Biography, that Edmowen Bendew lived about the middle of the 11th century, and, as is said, Elystan was born in 933, Edmowen's grand-daughter could not have been one of Elystan's wives. In one pedigree that I have seen, Gwladys is represented as mother of Cadwgan, and Cadwgan's wife named Jane; only one, the daughter of Brochwel, being mentioned.

⁴ Iestyn ap Gwrgan was a Prince of Glamorganshire in the eleventh century, and the stock of one of the Five Royal Tribes of Wales.

⁵ Ierwerth ap Owen Brogryntyn lived in the reign of Henry III., so his daughter could not have been wife of Idnerth, who must have lived at a period considerably earlier; unless it be true, as stated in a note on the face of the pedigree, that Idnerth was not the son of Cadwgan. (In the Talceosion MS. Idnerth is styled "ap Llewelyn Lord of Buellt ap Cadwgan ap Elystan;" but this additional generation makes little difference as regards the anachronism above-mentioned). Nor could Elidir ap Owen have married a great-grand-daughter of Eialon ap Seisyllt, who was certainly contemporary with Llewelyn the Great, who died in 1240, if he was only third in descent from Cadwgan, son of Elystan, and the latter was born in 933.

¹ William Thomas, Esq. ap Rhys, was Sheriff of Carmarvonshire in 1581, and M.P. for that county in the fifth Parliament of Queen Elizabeth, which commenced on the 23d November, 1585. He commanded, under the Earl of Leicester, two hundred of his countrymen in the low countries, and was slain at Zutphen in 1586, in the same skirmish in which Sir Philip Sidney fell. Thomas's widow, Elin, was living in February, 5th of Elizabeth (1585), and was then the wife of Richard Gwynne, Esq. (or Wynne as he is sometimes called), afterwards Sir Richard, of whom the following notice occurs in some memoirs by Sir John Wynn of Gwedi, Bart. of remarkable Welshness, mostly contemporary with him:—"Sir Richard Wynn, of Carnarvon, Knight, of the house of Brynker; captain of a hundred men in Ireland; provost martial of Fushing, under Sir Philip Sydney; sometime page to Captain Borehall, who was slain in the north of Ireland, whose armour he brought to Sir Henry Sydney, then Lord Deputy of Ireland, whose follower he was all his life after; and after his death, and for his sundry good services, being knighted; and, after having got the widow of Captain Thomas afore-mentioned in the country, lived at Carnarvon all the rest of his time. He was one of the council of the marches; keeping a very worthy house, being a religious, honest, and true-hearted man to his friend, having always in his mouth this saying, 'Daw a dwelld da,' which in English is, 'God and a good end,' who's no question God did hear, for he made a Christian and a good end; as Gruffydd Williams, Doctor in Divinity, now living, being his ghostly father at his end, and respecting which, also, the Rev. Father, Lewis, [Lewis Bayly, Bishop of Bangor from 1616 to 1631], now Bishop of Bangor, preaching the funeral sermon of William Glyn, of Glynallfyn, knight, did remember, persuading all to the imitation of him."

² Sir William Thomas, knight, was under age on the 23d February, 25th Elizabeth (1593), and at that time "her Majesty's ward," and owner of property in the counties of Carnarvon, Carmarthen, and Anglesey. He was Sheriff of Carmarvonshire in 1603. In 1610 he was the owner, with other lands, of Coeshelken, now the property of his descendant. His "chief Mansion House" was in Carnarvon. He died in 1653.

⁷ In some pedigrees Gaenor is said to have been married to John Owen, of Machynlleth, after the death of Richard Pugh, of Mathavon; and, according to the Trescowion MS., the husband of Jane was John Gwynne, of Bodwrda, Esq. John Owen is party to a deed, 10th September, 1598.

⁸ He was Rector of Aber and Aberffraw—to the latter of which livings he was instituted on the 29th June, 1601; and his successor, upon his death, March 29, 1643, William Thomas had also another son, Griffith, supposed to have been younger than John, but senior to Herbert, and three daughters, who were all married. Griffith was married to Margaret, daughter and heiress of David Arrowsmith, and is party to a deed, dated 29th December, 1614, to which Herbert Thomas, William Thomas, and John Thomas, are witnesses. Griffith Thomas was alive on the 22d March, 1631.—Eo. He left issue. The present Rice Thomas, Esq. of Coed Helen, is lineally descended from Robert, third son of Sir William. John, the eldest, was disinherited; but his only son, Richard, died without issue, as certainly did one, and probably both the sons of William, Sir William's second son. The arms of Sir William Thomas, it appears from the Harleian MS., 1975, were, argent, on a cross salt, three crescents, Or, in the dexter chief a spear head erect, gules.

¹ Sir William Griffith, Knight, was living in the 12th year of Henry VIII. (1520), and then Chamberlain of North Wales.

² William Gruffydd, Esq.'s tomb is in the church of Llanbellig, and on it is, or was, the following inscription:—

Here lieth the body of Wm, Griffith Esq, the son of Sir Wm. Griffith K^t, who died Nov: 28, 1587, and Marg^t his Wife, Daughter of John Wynne ap Meredith, Esq; who built this Tomb 1695. — He was Sheriff for Carnarvonshire in 1583.

³ John Gruffydd, Esq. was Sheriff for Carnarvonshire in 1583.

⁴ William Griffith, of Carnarvon, Esq. was Sheriff for the county of Carnarvon in 1616.

⁵ William Gruffydd, Doctor of the Law, was M.P. for the town of Carnarvon, in the sixth Parliament of Queen Elizabeth, which met on the 20th October, 1585.

¹⁰ Gruffydd Maelor, Lord of both Breidfflides and Yale, in Denbighshire. His son, Madoc, founded the Abbey of Vale Crucis about the year 1200.

¹⁴ This is very incorrect. The mother of Margaret, wife of Sir William Trowtbeck, was Joanna, daughter and heiress of Sir Robert Goushill, of Hovingham, in the ¹ The title of Sir William Morys has been added subsequently to the date of this pedigree, for he had not then been knighted. (See Sir William Morys, of Carnarvonshire, was "dubbed" knight, at Whitehall, on the 23d July, 1603.—Nichols' Progresses of King James I.) He was born in or immediately about the year 1540; Sheriff of Carnarvonshire in 1582 and 1596; for Merionethshire in 1591 and 1600; M.P. for Carnarvonshire in the Parliament which met on the 19th November, 1592; and in that which began on the 19th March, 1603-4; for Benmaris in the last Parliament of Queen Elizabeth, which met on the 7th October, 1601. Sir William was also one of the council in the Marches of Wales, and it is probable Constable of the Castle of Harlech. He died in August, 1622, and is buried at Penmaen. He was three married, but had issue only by his first wife, Margaret Lacon, of Poringkion. His second lady was Elin, daughter and co-heiress of Hugh ap Llewelyn, relict of John Lewis of Chwasa; she was living in 1598. His third wife, to whom he was married between June 6, 1604, and June 8, 1605, was Jane, relict of Sir Thomas Jones of Abermaris, in the county of Carmarthen, knight, daughter and heiress of Rowland Puleston, Esq. of Carnarvon. She was living in 1622.

² Margaret, sole heiress of John Lacon, was heiress of Poringkion, in Shropshire, and was buried at Slatwyn, on the 25th February, 1571-2. The Lacons, for several generations the possessors of Poringkion, it is believed, were descended from an illegitimate branch of a family of that name, seated at Lacon, near Wen, from a very early period. Sir Richard Lacon, knight, witnessed the Earl of Arundel's charter to Oswestry in the eighth year of Henry IV.

³ John Morys was of Beddgelert, and is styled also John Wyn Morys. A settlement, made subsequently to his marriage, is dated the 10th July, 27th of Elizabeth, (1585). He was living in August, 1622. Morys, the eldest son of John Morys, adopted the surname of Wynoc, and was living in April, 1625.

⁴ Elizau ap Morys was living in January, 1576-7.

⁶ Thomas ap Owen Graffydd, Esq. (of Plasida), served the office of Sheriff for Carnarvonshire in 1609, and was living in 1575.

⁷ Robert Sonli (Sonley), Esq. of Slatley, in Denbighshire, was living in January 1576-7.

⁸ Anne, wife of Robert Wyn ap Elis, Esq., commonly called Robert Wyn Brynker (see Brynker), was under the age of twenty-one on the 23d January, 1576-7. She died in 1625.

⁹ William Morys (eldest son of Sir William), was living in July, 1588, but died before the 7th October, 33th Elizabeth (1590), when his widow was living.

¹¹ He died in 1600, before the 20th of June. His widow, and his son Elin Morys, then a minor, were living on the 1st September in that year. John Morys was ancestor to the Maurics, formerly seated at Ywleth, in the parish of Penmaen.

¹² William Lewis (of Chawen wen) was Sheriff of Anglesey in 1604, and was living in August, 1622.

¹⁴ Elizau Morys was baptised at Slatwyn, 21st June, 1582, and died in 1594, prior to the 11th July.

¹⁵ Elin, wife of John Owen, o Fodstlin, was heiress of Cleanezey and Poringkion; he was a younger son of Owen ap Robert, of Bodstlin, in Carnarvonshire. They were married, probably, in 1595 or 1596. He was living on the 19th February, 8th James I. (1611-12), but dead before the 2nd of June, 1614. She married, secondly, subsequently to the 12th April, 1616, the Hon. Sir Francis Eure, Chief Justice of North Wales, a son of William, Lord Eure, and grandfather, by another marriage, of George and Ralph, the seventh and eighth Lords. Sir Francis died in April 1621; and was buried at Slatwyn; she was buried at the same place, on the 14th of September, 1626. By her first husband she had several children, of whom the eldest son was the celebrated Roghast, Sir John Owen, of Cleanezey, who died in 1660, in his 66th year. Her issue, by her second husband, was a son, Comfort Eure.

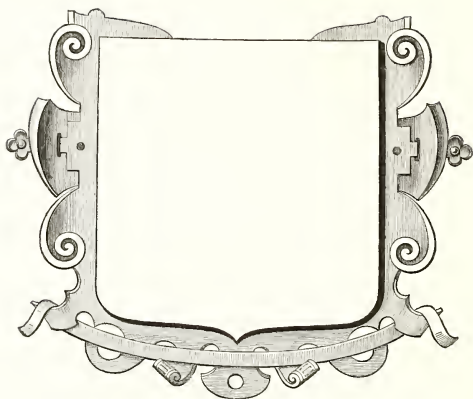

¹⁶ Marged, wife of Elis Brynker. See Brynker. They were married prior to the 24th October, 1598. He died in 1628. She was remarried to William Glyno, Esq. of Llewlar; and was living, a second time a widow, in 1641.

¹⁸ Elizau ap Sion ap Morys's name does not appear elsewhere: perhaps a mistake for Morys ap Sion ap Morys.

¹⁹ The first quartering in the armorial bearings of the Maurice (of Cleanezey) family, were those of Prince Owen Gwynedd—vert, three eagles displayed, in fess, or.

² In the Park pedigree Morwydd is called ferch Iorwerth gach. It should, however, be as here. The will of Morwydd was proved in 1113.

cestrians, and he was one of the Captains, who laid waste the Duke of Yorke's estate in Denbigh land.” He died, “being but one and thirtie yeares of age.”

⁵ See Bron y Foel.

² Morys Wynn represented the county of Carmarvon, in the Parliaments which commenced on October 5th, 1553; April 5th, 1554; January 23d, 1558-9; and January 11th, 1562-3. He was Sheriff of Carmarvanshire in 1555, 1570, and 1578. He died on the 10th of August, 1589, and was buried at Dolewyddelan. He had been thrice married: first, to Jane Bulkeley; secondly, to Ann, daughter of Edward Greville, Esq. of Mileston, county of Warwick; and, thirdly, to Catherine, daughter and heiress of Tudor ap Robert, of Berain, the celebrated Catherine of Berain.—See Peasant.

³ Sir John Wynn, Knight, represented the county of Carmarvon in the Parliament which met on the 29th October, 1589; was Sheriff for that county in 1588 and 1609; for Merionethshire in 1589 and 1601; and was created a Baronet in 1611. He was also one of the Council in the Marches of Wales. He died on the 1st March, 1626 (probably 1626-7), aged 73, and was buried at Llancarvai. Sir John was author of the History of the Gweird Family, edited by the Hon. Daniel Barrington, and published in 1770. His widow, Sydney, died on the 8th June, 1632, and was also buried at Llancarvai. "Dawson's Downshire.

⁴ John Wynn, the eldest son of Sir John, died before his father, at Lucca, in 1614, in his thirtieth year. Catherine, the daughter of John Wynn, probably died young, for in no other place than in this pedigree have I seen her mentioned.

⁵ Richard Wynn, the second son, succeeded his father in the Baronetcy. He was Gentleman of the Privy Chamber to Charles I. when Prince of Wales, and attended him to Spain in 1623. He was afterwards Treasurer to Queen Henrietta Maria; and, though married, died without issue, on the 19th July, 1642, in his sixty-first year, the title and estates devolved upon his next surviving brother, Owen.

Lord Lieutenant of Carmarvanshire, through his mother, eldest sister and heiress to the last Duke of Ancester.

⁷ Robert Wynn, fifth son, entered into holy orders, and died in 1617, in his twenty-fourth year.

⁸ She died about the year 1657, and was buried at Llancarvai.

⁹ Elsbeth was married to Sir John Bodvel, Knight, of Bodvel, in Carmarvanshire. William Wynn was Prothonotary of North Wales. (See another page). He married Jane, daughter and heiress of Thomas Lloyd, of Gwern-y-bredwyn and Garthgynan, and by her had issue. His male descendants became extinct in the second generation. His eldest surviving daughter, Sydney, was married to Edward Threlwall, Esq. of Plas-y-ward, in Denbighshire; their eldest daughter and heiress, Jane, to Sir William Williams, Bart. of Llanwrda, in Shropshire; and the eldest son of this marriage was Watkin Williams, Esq., to whom Sir John Wynn of Wynastay, the last inheritor of the Baronetcy, conferred upon Sir John Wynn in 1611, bequeathed his estates. Mr. Williams assumed the additional surname of Wynn, and, succeeding to his father's title, was the first Sir Watkyn Williams Wynn, Bart. He was killed by a fall from his horse in 1749.

¹¹ Ellis is buried at Whitford, in the county of Flint.

¹² He married Catherine, daughter and heiress of Ellis Lloyd, Esq. of Rhiwgoch, in Merionethshire; and, dying on the 27th July, 1671, was buried in the Temple Church, London. Sir John Wynn, the last Baronet of this family, was the son of Harri and Catherine Lloyd. He married Jane, daughter and heiress of Eytton Evans, Esq., of Watstay, the name of which place he changed to Wynastay, but by her had no issue. He died in 1718, at the age of 91, and bequeathed all his property, acquired both by inheritance and through his marriage, to his kinsman, Watkin Williams, Esq., as is before mentioned.

¹³ He was buried at Cowsay, 30th November, 1528.

² See Bromy-Foel.

⁶ Catrin, here stated to have married John ap Davyd ap Madog of Trezaron, and to have been mother of Thomas John Gent (Twan Sion Catt), is generally supposed to have been an illegitimate daughter of Sir John Wynne of Gwynir. It appears, however, by the above, that she was the issue of Sir John Wynne's great-grandfather. Mredydd ap Iwan ap Robert, which agrees with the account given by Thomas Jones himself. See Vol. I., page 16. Cathrine was most probably born when her father was considerably advanced in years, and allowing about twenty-four or thirty years to intervene before the birth of her son, ample time would be given for him to have reached years of maturity, and to have acquired celebrity as an accomplished Welsh herald, before the period he furnished Lewys Dwan with his pedigree, 1588. Sir John Wynne and Thomas Jones were contemporaries: the former died in 1626, aged 73, and the latter was alive in 1613.—Ed.

⁷ See also Parke and Massmor.

⁸ Iwan ap John ap Meredith, and Robert, his son and heir, are parties to a deed, dated 5th of August, 17th Henry VIII. (1525).

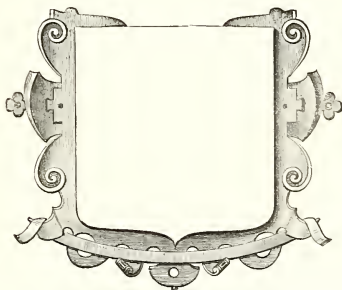

⁹ Elize ap Robert Wyn died in May, 1568. His mother was Margaret Wynn, daughter of Robert ap Griffith ap Rhys, of Dinmael.

¹⁰ Robert Wynn ap Iwan is here meant.

¹¹ Robert Wynn, who certifies the pedigree, was the first of his family who adopted the surname of Brynkr, and was latterly always called Robert Wynn Brynkr. He was under the age of 21, on the 25th January, 1576-7; Sheriff of Carmarthen in 1585, and died in 1616. His second son, William, was entered at Oxford in 1589, graduated B.A., was Rector of Llancristyn and Llancangen, and died about 1627. Robert Wynn Brynkr had also a daughter named Ann, who was born probably after this pedigree was compiled.

 JOHN DAVIES.

¹ This passage must have been added long subsequently to the date of the pedigree, for at that time the wife of Ellis Brynkyr could have been but a mere child. In no other account of this family have I seen it stated that he had a son named Richard. His issue, according to the best authorities, were as follows:—Robert, who married Winifred, daughter of Thomas ap Rees Wyno of Giler, and died in the same year as his father, leaving an only daughter, Mary, who died an infant in 1631; James, born about 1600, who succeeded to the estate on the death of his niece, and died on the 29th June, 1644, leaving issue; William, who was killed at Newbury during the civil wars; John; and Jane, who was married to William Glyn, Esq. of Llear: she, unless there was another daughter, was born on the 24th of May, 1616—certainly the wife of Ellis Brynkyr gave birth to a daughter on that day. Ellis Brynkyr was Sheriff for Carmarthen in 1624, and died in 1628. His widow, Margaret, daughter of William Maurice, Esq. of Cleneaney, was remarried to William Glyne, Esq. of Llear (father, by another wife, of William Glyne, mentioned in the text), and was living, again a widow, in 1641. It is hardly necessary to state that this Ellis was the eldest son and successor of Robert Wyn Brynkyr.

² The son here named John is called James at another of Elizabeth, the former name is given to him.

He died in 1563, and was buried at Penmorfa. John ap Morris Iwan, second by birth, but eldest surviving son of this Morris, was born in, or immediately about the year 1538. In 1562, he joined, with 100 men, the army sent by Queen Elizabeth for the occupation of Havre (then called Newhaven), and was living in May 1585. From him was descended the family of Jones, or Jones, of Wera, in the parish of Penmorfa, the heiress of whom married, about 1680, William, fourth son of Robert Wynne, Esq. of Glyn, in Merionethshire, and died in 1715.

⁶ Robert Wynne, Esq., was Sheriff for Carmarthen in 1591, and buried at Conwy, on the 30th November, 1598. The curious old mansion, in the town of Conwy, called Plas Mawr, was erected by him in 1555.

Recd of HUGH HOOKES 3^o iiii^o

² Johannus Hookes, Arca: hunc tantum fieri fecit in memoriam celeberrimi viri Hugonis Hookes Arca: patris sui, qui obiit 27 die Julii A.D. 1600."

"Impiger errantis oculos converti victor,
Fumera lamentis spargere nostra piis;
The tua res agitur, mortalia funera curas
Volvere præcipiti pulvere disce memento"

³ The name of "Helen (Elin) Hookes," appears in a record of the 22d year of Henry VIII., in which year she was living.

⁴ John, son of Hugh.

⁵ William Hookes's name appears in an assessment, furnishing the names of the freeholders and tenants of the vicar of Castell, in the comtee of Naph, on the 18th of April, 1567.

⁷ Robt of ap Richard o Aber Conwy was the second husband of Gaenor, daughter of William Hookes; also, Mary, wife of Graydydd ap Robert ap Richard, it would seem was a daughter of William Hookes; but from the pedigree of Robert ap Richard, at page 164, she appears to have been a daughter of Thomas Porter.

⁸ I have little doubt that this Nicholas is the person commemorated in the very remarkable inscription in Conway Church:—

"Here lyeth ye body of Nich: Hookes of Conway Ge^o, who was ye 41st child of his Father Wm.
Hookes Esq^r by Alice
His wife, and y^e Father of 27 children, who dyed ye 20th day of March 1637.

N.B. This stone was reared in ye year 1720, att y^e charge of John Hookes Esq^r
& since by Tho^s
Bradney & W. Archer Esq^s.

Though Lewis Dwan's pedigree of the Hookes family does not quite tend to confirm the truth of this inscription, yet it does exhibit William Hookes as having been the father, by his four wives, of a most extraordinary number of children.

² Thomas Vaughan, of Pant Glas, was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1604.

³ Some additions have probably been made to this pedigree subsequently to the date of it.

Orate pro animabus Meiric ap Llewelyn ap Halkin, and Margareta uxoris, & Obseci Meiric & Elenor, Forci Roberti Meredith de Glyn-Illan, Armigeri, uxoris sine, qui hanc ecclesiam fieri fecerunt.

⁶ Sir William Owen was instituted to the Rectory of Hen Eglwys, on the 25th September, 1583, and resigned it on the 17th October, 1605.

⁷ John Owen was Secretary to Sir Francis Walsingham, and was living on the 15th February, 3rd James I. (1611-12). His wife was heiress of Pokington and Cleremy. Mary Jane, the wife of William Ormsby Gore, Esq., M.P., is sixth in descent from John Owen and Ellen, and their representative. See notes to the pedigree of the Family of Maurice of Cleremy. In a MS. in the Harleyan Collection, only one daughter of Owen ap Robert is given, and she is said to have been wife of William, son of Robert Griffith of Carnarvon. This pedigree, however, is certified by a son of Owen ap Robert, and, consequently must be estimated a better authority.

⁸ Angharid died in 1605.

⁹ Mann Angharid, Ewson. This Gwen appears also to have been wife of Hugh ap Owen ap Dhoiric of Boslon.

Their eldest daughter, Bridget, was married on the 11th January, 1766, to Colonel Glyne Wynne, a younger brother of the first Lord Newborough; the issue of which marriage were three sons and a daughter. PIERS GRIFFYTH 8:

¹ See a future page.² She was daughter of John Puleston, Esq. Chamberlain of North Wales, and sister to Sir John. She had previously been the wife of Robert ap Meredith, of Glynallion.³ He was Sheriff of Carmarvonshire in 1567, and was living in 1575.⁴ According to the account of the families of Penryn and Coelwillan, appended to Williams's Observations on the Snowdon Mountains, John Grifth, of Kicheley, was fourth son by the first wife. He served the office of Sheriff for Anglesey in 1582 and 1593.⁵ William Griffith is the person represented at a future page as the son of a preceding Sir William Griffith, by Jane Troutbeck. The pedigree, headed Ach y Penryn, is the correct one. In that at another page, it will be seen that the summary of the descent of John Griffith, and the pedigree which follows it, do not agree: a generation (one of the Sir William Griffiths) being omitted, evidently by accident, in the latter. William Griffith, of Carnarvon, died on the 25th November, 1587, and is buried at Llanelhelig, where his tomb remains.⁶ This is an error; the husband of Grace was Sir William Stanley, of Howton, Knight, who was upwards of forty-six years of age in 12th Henry VIII.⁷ John Philip, of Fleton Castle, in the county of Pembroke. See Vol. I. page 115.⁸ Margaret, wife of Peter Mutton, died in 1594. Her second husband, according to Williams's account of this family, before referred to, was Thomas Griffith, and Simon Thelwall her third.⁹ Mary, wife of Sir Randle Breton, married, secondly, Sir Hugh Cholmeodeley, Knight, of Cholmeodeley, in the county of Chester; and was buried at Malpas on the 21st day of October, 1588.¹⁰ Sir Nicholas Bagnall was Marshal of Ireland during the government of Sir Henry Sidney, and Sheriff for Anglesey in 1590. His wife, Elin Griffith, died at Penryn in 1574.¹¹ A Memoir of Pyrs Grifth will be found in Williams's account of the Penryn family, and in Pennant. He bought and fitted out a ship at his own expense, and was present at the defeat of the Spanish Armada. He also accompanied Drake and Raleigh in a subsequent expedition against the Spaniards. In the following reign, complaints were made against him, by Cosat Gondomar, that he had procured his pirates after the proclamation of peace; and he was so harassed by prosecutions on that account, that he was obliged to mortgage his property to defray their expenses. In 1616, the estate of Penryn was sold to one of the mortgagees, Ievan Lloyd, Esq., in conjunction with Sir Richard Trevor. In 1622, it was purchased by the celebrated Lord Keeper Williams, a descendant, through a female, from his former possessors. Piers Griffith was buried in Westminster Abbey.¹² All underneath this refers to the earlier portion of this pedigree, page 130. Sir William Troutbeck died about the fourth year of Edward IV., and was buried at St. Mary's, Chester. His wife's Christian name was Margaret. She was daughter of Thomas Lord Stanley, and sister, as is stated by Lewis Down, of Thomas, Earl of Derby. It should be observed, that the descent of this family, as given by Williams, differs very materially from that in Lewis Down's visitation. The following pedigree is compiled from Williams's work:—

---	-------------------------------	---	---------	---------	-------------

Penrlyn, as above stated, having been purchased by the Lord Keeper, Williams, continued in that family for several generations. Upon the death, without issue, of Sir Griffith Williams, Bart., it became vested in his eldest sister, Frances, wife of Lord Edward Russell. She also died without issue, and Lord Edward either gave or left the estate to her sister, Anne, wife of Thomas Warburton, Esq. of Warrington, in Cheshire, and Gwen, wife of Sir Walter Yonge, of Escot, in Devonshire. So says Williams—(See Observations on the Snowdon Mountains, page 184)—but Pennant observes that Lord Edward "generously resigned his part of the estate to the surviving sisters." Mrs. Warburton's moiety descended to her grand-daughter, Susanna, Anne, daughter of Hugh Warburton, Esq. She was married on the 6th December, 1765, to Richard Pennant, Esq. afterwards created Lord Penrlyn, by whose father, John Pennant, Esq., the other moiety of the Penrlyn estate had been purchased from the Yonge family. Lord and Lady Penrlyn dying without issue (she on the 1st of January, 1815), these estates became, by bequest, the property of James Hay Dawkins, Esq., who assumed the additional surname of Pennant. By him, probably the most magnificent modern baronial mansion in these kingdoms was erected on the site of the ancient castle of Penrlyn. Mr. Dawkins Pennant died on the 17th of December in the last year, leaving his princely landed possessions to his eldest daughter, Juliana Isabella Mary, the wife of Lieutenant Colonel the Hon. Edward Gordon Douglas, who has received her Majesty's permission to bear the additional surname and arms of Pennant.

¹ Thomas Williams was by birth the third son. His elder brothers were William ap William, of Coelwylan, and Robert party to a deed of 24th August, 1549, who died in the following year.

² William ap Willara (or Williams), son of William ap Gruffydd, was Sheriff of Carnarvonshire in 1542, 1547, and 1553; and is party to a deed, dated 24th of August, third of Edward VI. (1549).

³ William ap Gruffydd ap Robin espoused the cause of the Earl of Richmond (afterwards King Henry VII.), and brought a troop of cavalry to the field of Bosworth. On the 23d of September, in the first year of that Monarch, he was appointed Sheriff of Carnarvonshire for life, and continued to hold the same office at Michaelmas, 1496.

⁴ According to Williams, before quoted, he was the youngest son.

⁶ Harri Williams is party to a deed, dated 18th December, 1567.

⁵ The latter, Sion (John), is the celebrated Lord Keeper Williams, successively Bishop of Lincoln and Archbishop of York, born on the 25th March, 1582, and who died on his birthday, 1650.
⁶ Mary, daughter of Owen Wyn, died in child-birth of twins, on the 10th October, 1585. There is a monument to her memory at Conway.
⁷ He is party to a deed, dated the 11th of March, 10th of Elizabeth (1573-4). An omission occurs in the pedigree here, Thomas Williams had another and younger son, Simon, of Weeg, who, with his brother William, is party to a deed, dated 31st August, 1593. This is the person mentioned as Simwal Williams underneath, who, from his name not previously occurring as one of the children of Thomas Williams, would seem to be intended for Simon, mentioned above, son of Arthur. William, the eldest son of Thomas, was created a Baronet on the 15th June, 1622.
⁸ The children of William, eldest son of Thomas Williams, are here meant.
⁹ Sian was daughter of Sir William Stanley, of Heoton, in Cheshire, and sister of Sir Rowland, who died on the 5th April, 1613, in his 96th year.
¹¹ This is a repetition of a passage above, excepting that Elen is here omitted. The children of Arthur Williams must have been added to this pedigree subsequently to the date of it; for a settlement, prior to the marriage of his wife to her first husband, Owen, son and heir of John Wyn Owen, of Ystyngedid, is not dated till the 26th of October, 1584, and she had issue by him. See Ystun Cegid.

¹² Sir Thomas Williams, the last Baronet of this house, left his estates, by will, dated the 25th of June, 1655, subject to an annuity of £240, to Charles Allanson, Esq. to Sir Bourchier Wrey, for life, with two other remainders, and then to King William III. in fee. The King granted his interests, under the will, to John Smith, Esq. Speaker of the House of Commons; and, under this grant, the Smith family became possessors of Ysgol and the extensive property attached to it. They are now enjoyed by Thomas Ashton Smith, Esq. late M.P. for the county of Carnarvon.
¹⁴ This is a branch of the same family as Parkes. See page 60.
¹⁵ A Feoffment from John ap Meredith, to Owen his son, and Ellen the daughter of Hugh Lewis, and the heirs of the said Owen and Ellen, of his lands in the townships of Pennant, Berkin, Treffevren, Troforwith, and Treffys, bears date the 12th January, 1485 (second Richard III.) This Ellen was daughter of Hugh Lewis ap Llewelyn ap Heikin, of Presadvedel.—John ap Owen Arm. is party to a deed, dated 20th January, 1531 or 1532.—A feoffment of the capital messuage, called Istyngedid and other lands, upon Owen ap John ap Meredith, for life, with remainder to Owen ap John Owen and his heirs; and, in default, to Maurice ap John ap Owen, and his heirs, bears date on the next Monday after the festival of the conversion of St. Paul, scilicet Henry VIII. (1st February, 1516-17). The settlement prior to the marriage of Owen ap John ap Owen, is dated the 20th January, 1531 or 1532; and Lowry, his widow, was living on the 29th October, 1554.

JOHN WYNNE OWEN 10^r

¹ Gruffydd Glyn of Pwllheli was Sheriff of Carnarvonshire in 1564, and son of William Glyn, Bishop of Bangor, who died in 1558 (5th of Queen Mary), aged 54.

² John Wyn ap Owen is party to the settlement, dated the 20th of October, 1584, made prior to the marriage of his son and heir Owen ap John Owen, called here Owen Wynne. Jane, his wife, was then living.

³ In another pedigree Anne is called Annes (Agnes).

⁴ See Cefn Treflaeth.

⁵ Hugh Gwyn ap Wmhprey (Humphrey), was living in 1600.

⁷ Sian, daughter of Roland ap Dafydd, was living in 1626.

⁸ John Wynn, or John Wynn Owen, as he is also called, died without issue, and his widow, Dorethy, was remarried to Harry Hanffrey, of Naulle, gent. She was living on the 22d January, 22d James I. (1625). Robert Owen, the second son of Owen ap John Owen, or Owen Wynn as Lewis Dwan names him, succeeded to the estate. A settlement, made subsequently to his marriage, and to the birth of his two elder daughters, Catherine and Anne, is dated 12th August, 10th James I. (1612). His wife was Lowry, daughter of William Glynn, of Plasnewydd. She died in January, 1635 (probably 1635-6). Robert Owen was Sheriff of Carnarvonshire in 1621. His will is dated on the 20th February, 1625-7, and was proved at Bangor on the 6th of April following. Catherine, his eldest daughter, heiress of Ystymgeid, was married when a mere child, to Robert Wynne, of Glyn, in Merioethshire, Sheriff of that county in 1657 and 1669. She died 30th June, 1675. By this marriage, the estates of Glyn and Ystymgeid became united, and so continue to the present day. It was through the heiress of the latter place that the Wynnes of Glyn, Owens of Fockington, and subsequently their representatives, so long claimed and exercised the hereditary offices of Constable of the Castle of Crickcaeth and Mayor of the Borough.

⁹ It is doubtful whether Robert Owen, who died in 1627 is here intended, or the person denominated Robert ap Owen, earlier in the descent; if the former, this sentence must have been added subsequently to the date of the pedigree. He certainly had daughters, named Katherine, Ann, and Jane, but if so, they died very young; for he had no son when the settlement subsequent to his marriage was executed (12 of August, 1612) nor when he made his will, the 20 of February, 1626-7. At the former period, his daughters, Katherine and Ann, must have been mere infants, and Jane probably not born.

² In the History of the Gwydir Family are published Letters Patent, bearing date the 28th of August, 20th Henry VI. (1442) addressed to John ab Gronwy and others, of the comtee of Ewioneth, commanding them to arrest certain outlaws.

⁶ John, the eldest son of Richard ap John, is party to a deed, dated the 1st of September, 1696. The family, subsequently, adopted the surname of Wynn. Mary, daughter of John Wynn, grandson of John above named, married David Ellis, descended from Sir Howel y Pocolan. David Ellis, Esq. Barrister at Law, and Attorney General of the North Wales Circuit, fourth in descent from them, assumed, upon succeeding to the estates of his maternal uncle, the Rev. His nephew, Owen Jones, Esq. who has added to his paternal name, those of Ellis Nanney, eldest surviving son of his only sister by John Jones, Esq. of Brynker, in Carnarvonshire, is the present owner of Gwydryn. ¹ The following notice of John Wyn, Esq. occurs in "Memoirs," by Sir John Wynn, of Gwylid, of several of his contemporary countrymen. "The memorable services of John Wynn ap Hugh, born at Bodvel, in Llyn, whereof he was Lord, now in this tract [are] not to be forgotten. He was standard-bearer to John Earl of Warwick, and afterwards Duke of Northumberland, in the great field fought between him and Kett, and the rebels of Northfolk and Suffolk, near Norwich, in Edward the Sixth's time [in August 1549]: his horse was slain under him, and himself hurt, and yet he upheld the great Standard of England. There is mention of this (the) act made at the great standard of England in the Chronicles of that time, for which service the Duke of Northumberland bestowed upon him two fine titles in Llyn, viz.—the title of Bersley and the domestic house of the Abbot of Bersley, near Aberdaron, called the Courtwin. The honorable mention made of his service in the grant, which I have seen and read: a rare matter to find so good a master." (See John Wynn ap Hugh was Sheriff for Carmaronshire in 1551 and 1560.

² Hugh Gwyn Bodvel, Esq. is partly a bond to Robert Earl of Leicester, dated 24th May, 23rd Elizabeth (1561), and was Sheriff for Carmaronshire in 1559 and 1597.

³ See Plass du.

⁴ Thomas Bodvel, Esq. was Sheriff for Carmaronshire in 1609. Lowri was his second wife, and by her he had more children than are here named, born probably after the date which appears under the name of their mother.

⁵ Jane and William Griffith were married on the 27th November, 1563.

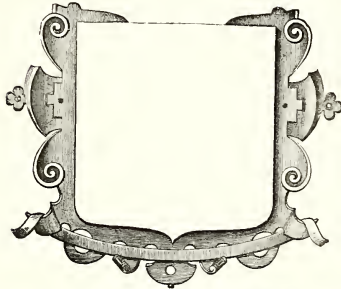

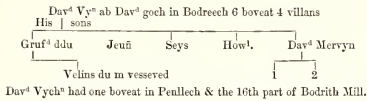

⁶ Sion Bodvel, afterwards Sir John Bodvel, Knight, was Sheriff of Carmaronshire in 1625. Mary Bagnall was probably his first wife, and it is believed died without issue. He was also married to Elizabeth, daughter of Sir John Wynn, of Gwylid, Baronet, by whom he had a son, who died without issue, and two daughters, Sarah, wife of Robert Roberts, Earl of Radnor, and Mary, wife of Hugh Cholmondeley, Esq. By him, who was baptized at Power, in the county of Chester, 24th July, 1591, and died at Bodvel, 11th September, 1655, she was mother of Robert, the first Viscount Cholmondeley.

² Gruffydd ap Sion ap Gruffydd was alive on the 1st day of June 1510.

⁴ John Griffith, son of the preceding, was Sheriff for Carmarvonshire, in 1604, and was probably living in 1618, as his son John is described, when Sheriff of Carmarvonshire in that year, as "John Griffith, Junior." (He is also described as John Griffith, Junior, Esq, in February, 1625-6, but as John Griffith Esq, in March, 1627-8.) The last named person represented the County of Carmarvon, in the Parliaments called on the 30th of January, 1620-1, the 6th of February, 1625-16, and the 6th of March, 1627-8.

⁵ Amongst the records of the late Welsh Audit Office, is a License from the Crown to Hoel ap Griffith ap David Vychan, to build a Mill on his lands and waters, in the ville of Llangan, dated the 10th of May, 4th Henry VIII. (1512)

ings of Prince Rhys ap Tewdwr. It will be seen that a portion of this pedigree is rendered somewhat confused, from its being repeated, probably for the purpose of inserting the names of the younger children, which are not given in the original of that part of the pedigree which occurs twice.

The last possessor of Cefn Amwlech in the male line of this very ancient family, dying without issue, bequeathed his extensive property to his kinswoman, Jane, wife of the Honourable Charles Finch, second son of Henrey, third Earl of Aylesford. She was the eldest daughter and coheir of Watkin Wynne, Esq., of Voelas, in the County of Denbigh, was married the 28th of December, 1778, and died in 1811. The Cefn Amwlech and Voelas Estates are now vested in her eldest son, Charles Wynne Griffith Wynne, Esq., who has adopted the surname of his mother, instead of his patronimic of Finch. He for some time represented the County of Carmarvon in Parliament.

³ Gruffydd ap Dafydd Vychan of Cefn Amwlech is doubtless here intended, and this passage should follow the one commencing, "Mam yrhain Sabel," but it does not agree with the Griffith of Cefn Amwlech pedigree. The wife, however, of Dafydd Vychan must be incorrectly given in that pedigree. He was living in 1451, and his wife could not have been fourth in descent, as there stated, from John ap Robert ap Llewelyn ap Ithel of Castellmarch, who was Sheriff of Carmarvonshire in 1549. This is probably a correct statement of the part in question of the Cefn Amwlech pedigree, excepting that one generation, Tudor ap Ierwrth, is omitted.—See Castellmarch.

⁴ Thomas Madryn, Hugh Madryn, &c.—The former is the same as the person called before, Thomas ap John ap Madog.

² There is an error in the first passage of this pedigree. The line should run thus—John ap Howel Vychan (Vychan) ap Howel ap Madog Vychan, &c.

³ A foefment to Howel ap Madog Vychan, and Margaret verch Ieuan ap John ap Meredith, his wife, made, probably, shortly after their marriage, is dated on the next Monday succeeding the feast of St. Katherine the Virgin, 4th of Henry VIII. (November 29, 1512). The foefor professes to have lately received the lands included in this deed, by the gift and foefment of Madog Vychan, father to the above-mentioned Howel, and he reconveys them to Howel and his wife. In Sir John Wynn's History of the Gwydir Family is an account of the murder of Howel ap Madog Vychan by John Owen of Ystymkegild, "for noe other quarrell, but for the mastery of the country, and for the first good morrow."—History of the Gwedir Family, octavo edition.

⁴ A deed to Madog Vychan, from the Crown, relating to certain lands in the township of Aberkin, bears date on the 6th May, second Richard III. (1485).

⁵ Madog ap Ieuan is party to a deed, dated in the third year of Henry V. (1416). His son Howel ap Madog was living on the 28th August, 1442.

⁶ Elize ap Howel Vychan was living on the 3d November, 1506.

⁷ "Elsbeth gwynig Rowland ap Owen ap Thomas."—This agrees with another pedigree of the Vaughan's of Aberkin; but amongst the records at Peniarth, in Merionethshire, is a foefment, dated 3d November, 1566, from "Rowland Owen ap Madoke," of certain lands, which he grants to the foefees, to hold to the use of himself and Elizabeth verch Howel Vaughan, his wife, and their heirs.

⁸ See Talcherbot.

⁹ "Marged ferch Owen ap John ap Mredydd," should be Marged ferch Ieuan ap John ap Mredydd. She was married, secondly, to John Wynn ap Robert Vaughan.

² John ap Madog Vychan is party to a deed, relative to lands in the parish of Llandeck-in, in the county of Merioneth, dated 20th July, 1558. Owen and Robert are witnesses to a deed, dated 20th April, 20th Henry VIII.

⁸ Elin, second daughter and co-heiress (last eldest that left issue) of John Vaughan, of Aberkin, gentleman (which John Vaughan died on the 6th of July, 1700), was wife of the Rev. Griffith Williams, of Llandegwain, in Carmarvonshire, who deceased on the 15th May, 1741, in his 48th year. Their eldest son, Griffith Williams, of Llandegwain and Aberkin, Esq., died unmarried, and his sister, Elinor, inherited these estates: She was married, first, on the 8th of June, 1744, to William Wynne, Esq.

of Wern Penmorva, and, secondly, to Ecan Evans, Esq. of Penbryn, in the county of Carmarvon. She died on the 14th February, 1804, and was buried at Llandegwain. Her grandson, the late William Wynne, of Peniarth, Esq. succeeded to her property. He sold Aberkin, about the year 1821, to the trustees of the late Thomas John, second Lord Newborough, then a minor.

"Pis Memoria duorum Episcoporum in hac Ecclesia proxime succedentium, qui fuerunt contiguae nati, Coetanei, sibi invicem cari condiscipuli, consanguinei; ex illustri Familia Vaughanorum de Talhenbont in Erioseeth Priory; Filius Primus ap Robert Vachan Generosi, de Nifryn in Llyn, Qui sedem hanc per Bienenium tenuit, deinde Cestresem per septem Annes; postea Londinensem per Triennium tenuit, ubi vitam Mensis Martii ultimo Aet: Dom: 1607 immatura morte commutavit. Cujus Virtus post funera vivit. Posterior, Henricus filius Bolandii ap Robert, Armigeri, de Talhenbont, qui annuum consecrationis suae jam agit decimum octavum, multosque agat feliciter ad honorem Dei & Evangelii propagationem Mutuo amore alter utriusque hoc struxit Monumentum mense Maii, Anno Dom: 1616.

"Oritur vicissim Moritur Qui non processerit sequitur."

² This is the same person as Richard Vychan, in the second passage of this pedigree.

⁴ Harry Parry was not instituted to the Rectory of Treddineth till the 30th December, 1606: an addition, therefore, has been made here subsequently to the date of the pedigree. He died in 1616. See a Biographical Notice of him in Willis's Bangor, of which Cathedral he was a Canon.

² According to the MS. just quoted, the wife of Rowland ap David was Janet, daughter of Evan Lloyd ap Ellis of Rhagatt, in the county of Merioneth; and it was as grandson, Rowland Wynm, "living 1290," who married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Meyrick, Esq. of Bodorgan, by Jane, his wife, daughter of John ap Rhys Wynm, of Bodeychen. In the pedigree of the Bodeychen family, in the same volume, she appears to have been daughter of John Bodeychen ap John ap Rhys Wynm. See also Lewis Dwnn's Genealogies of the Meyrick family (pages 129,—138.) which also differ from that in the Taircresion MS. and from each other. Perhaps the same is intended to be expressed here, and that the sentence referred to has been added subsequently to the date of this pedigree, and accidentally misplac'd. It would seem, from page 138, in this volume, that Elizabeth Meyrick was not married on the 22d September, 1594.—Thus

⁴ This is a clerical error between three single books, numbered, 27, 28, 29.

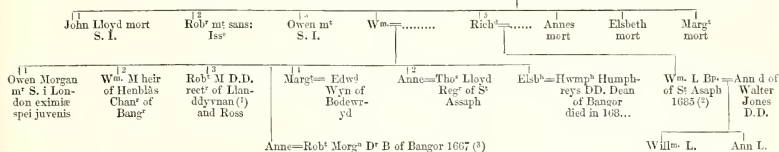

⁵ The house of this house, Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Wynm, Esq. was wife of Francis Edwards, of Plas-y-n-oesel, near Overton, in Flintshire; and their daughter and heiress was married, first, in 1722, to Maurice Wynm, Esq. of Pengwern, in Merionethshire, and Llywyn, in Denbighshire, who was born in 1690; and, secondly, to Edmund Meyrick, of Uchbryn, in Merionethshire. ² Her father was upwards of 40 years of age, 12th Henry VIII.; and her brother, Sir Rowland, died on the 5th of April, 1613, in his 90th year.

⁵ The church of Llanvaes is dedicated to St. Catherine. Here stood the monastery of Llan Foes, or Friars, erected by Prince Llewelyn the Great over the grave of Joan, his Princess, who died in 1237. It was granted, at the dissolution, to Nicholas Brownlow, and afterwards, in October 1552, purchased by Richard Whyte (the name is thus spelt in all the signatures of the family that I have seen), of Beaumaris, gentleman, from Ellis Wynne, gentleman. It will be seen that Richard Whyte is stated to have been four times Sheriff for Anglesey. The years in which he served that office were 1568, 1582, 1589, and 1594. Consequently, twice out of the four times was after the date of the pedigree; but the statement above referred to may have been added by Lewis Dwnn himself.

² Robert White was in holy orders, D.D., Prebendary of Penmydydd, and of Worcester, Siacure Rector of Cynnog, Archdeacon of Merioneth, and Rector of Llanginwyn and Newborough, to the former of which he was instituted March the 6th, 1603, to the latter June 20th, 1610. He was married at Llansaffo in Anglesea, on the 4th of September, 1657.

³ A settlement prior to the marriage of Harry White, with "Anne, daughter of Sir Richard Bulkeley, Kt. deceased," and sister of Richard Bulkeley of Beaumaris, Esq. then living, bears date the 6th of June, 1639. She married secondly to Price, and was living on the 6th of August, 1670. Besides the brothers and sisters of Harry White named in this pedigree, there were, Rowland, (who in the Taliesion MS. is made to have been senior to Herbert) witness to his brother's marriage settlement as "Rowh White, Junier," and Sidney married on the 7th of April, 1657, to Edward Wynn, D.D. of the House of Bodelwydd. It can scarcely be doubted that all the children of Rowland White have been added subsequently to the date of the pedigree.

⁴ Robert Wynn was of Trefan in Evioneth, and is testified to a deed dated the 2nd of November, 1565. Another son was Griffith White of Noydd. (In one place in the Taliesion Collection, he is represented as second son, in another he is said to have been fourth,) the third Richard White above. There was also, according to the heraldic collection just quoted, a son named Owen John (Owen ap Jehn) of Nysgyn, who it would there seem was senior to Harry, made here the fourth son.

⁶ The Glynnes of Glyn Llŷon are frequently so styled.

⁷ The heiress of the Whyte family, Jane, grand-daughter of Harry White above-mentioned, was married to John Holand of Berw, Barrister at Law, whose father Thomas Holand, Rector of Llanginwyn, died the 12th of October, 1746. Friars was sold, probably somewhat before the year 1739, to Edward Williams, Esq. afterwards of Peniarth in Merionethshire, a younger son of John Williams, Esq. of Chester and Bedelewyddan, a younger son of The Right Honourable Sir Williams Williams, Bart, Speaker of the House of Commons in 1680 and 1681. Mr. Williams died on the 10th of February, 1792, aged 82, leaving his estates in Anglesea to be sold for the benefit of his two younger daughters. Friars was purchased either by Sir Hugh Williams, Bart., or for his step-son, Thomas James, late Viscount of Bulkeley, during the minority of the latter, whose property by purchase, eventually, it certainly became. It now belongs with the rest of Lord Bulkeley's estates, under his will, to Sir Richard Bulkeley Williams Bulkeley, Baronet, grandson of Sir Hugh Williams. Over an archway near the present house, at Friars, are the arms of Whyte.—Sable a chevron between three leure de lys, argent, with the initials, "R. W. 1623. L. B."

³ It is more probable that Ellen Griffith's father was William, a natural son of William Griffith of Penrhyn, Esq, and half brother to Sir William.

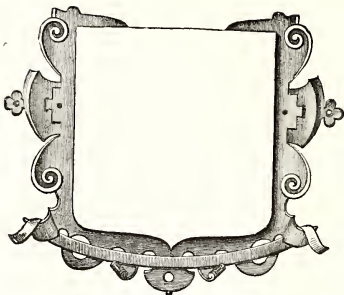

⁴ The pedigree is very obscure here; it is impossible to make out which William Hampton is intended, but I think the first is the descent. A family of the name of Elcocke appear to have been connected with the neighbourhood of Beumaris at a much later period. Perhaps the sentence should stand "Gwraig William Hampton," and that the brother of Richard first mentioned is intended.

⁵ This is Richard the elder.

⁶ This is Richard Hampton, whose name first occurs. His father-in-law, Robert Wyn ap Cefwladr, &c, was party to a deed dated the 28th of June, 1590.

ELLEN THOMAS.(11)

⁴ Francis Lloyd of Llanswalle, in the County of Carnarvon.

⁸ Morus ap Iwan appears, from his elegy by Griffith Hirathog, to have served in the army in Ireland and France. He died in 1593, and was buried at Penmorfa.

His son, John, second by birth, but eldest, it is believed, by survivorship, was born in 1538 or 1539, joined, with 100 men, the army sent by Queen Elizabeth for the occupation of Havre (then called Newhaven), in 1562; and was living in May, 1586. He was direct ancestor of the family of Jones, of Wern, in the parish of Penmorfa.

¹⁰ See Park.

¹¹ Ellen Thomas was the wife of Sir Richard Wynn, mentioned above, and relict of William Thomas, Esq., killed at Zutphen in 1586. It is singular that after her second marriage she should use the name of her first husband. The Hirfaig estate passed, by marriage, into the family of Lloyd, of Llanswalle, in Carnarvonshire. Margaret, sister and heir of John Lloyd, Esq., was married to Francis Langford, Esq. of the Kingdom of Ireland, and their daughter and heiress, Annabella, or Arabella Langford, to her second cousin, Richard Lloyd, Esq. of Rhosborio, in Anglesey. (His father, Francis Lloyd, Esq. M. B. Sheriff of Anglesey, in 1701, was son of Richard, a younger son of Francis Lloyd, of Hirfodraig, Esq.) The issue of the last-mentioned marriage was an only daughter, wife of the late Richard Edwards, Esq. of Nankorun, Colonel of the Carnarvonshire militia, by whom she was the mother, with other children, of Richard Lloyd Edwards, Esq. of Nankorun, in whom the Hirfodraig estate is now vested.

² Tudyr ap Gronwy, the grandfather of Merfyll, died in 1267; his father, Gronwy, in 1331; and Tudyr ap Gronwy, his father, in 1311. From Tudyr ap Gronwy sprang, in a direct line, the Royal House of Tudor. See page 103.

² Richard Owen, of Penmyydd, Esq., was Sheriff of Anglesey in 1565 and 1573. A person of the same name, and of the same place, probably grandson of the former, was Sheriff in 1623.

³ Richard Owen Tudyr appears, from this pedigree, and one of the same family in the Talceocion MS., to have had three sons named William. The second William Bold, is stated to have been called by the latter name from his grandmother. Perhaps a slight mistake has been made here, that the William who left none was the youngest of the three, and that the other two died young. According to the Subulnary MS., at Wynosty, William Owen, who married Agnes, daughter of Mathe ap Llewelyn (see a future page), was third son of Richard Owen Tudyr, and appears, from the pedigree of the Bold family in the Talceocion MS., to have had a son called Rhys Bold, whose wife was Elin, daughter of William Bold, of Carnarvon. The names of the other children of William Owen, as given in the pedigree just cited (excepting that there are two daughters named Margery), exactly agree with those in the passage commencing Plant William Owen, at that page. There is some difference between Lewis Dwrn's pedigree and that of the house of Penmyydd in the MS. above referred to, with respect to the names of the children of Richard Owen Tudyr. The former, being certified by his grandson, David Owen, should be the more correct.

¹ In an account of the Fifteen Tribes of North Wales, in the Cambrian Register, Vol. I., Llywarch is said to have married a daughter of Grono ap Owen ap Edwin, sister to the wife of Prince Owen Gwynedd: as authority for which marriage, an old parchment MS., written four hundred years previously, is cited; and at another page in this volume, the mother of Ierworth appears to have been Anne ferch Aron (doubtless a mistake for Grono) ap Owen ap Edwin. This account of the Welsh Tribes is stated to have been written about the middle of the seventeenth century.

² Argent, two foxes counter saliant, the dexter surmounted of the sinister, gules.

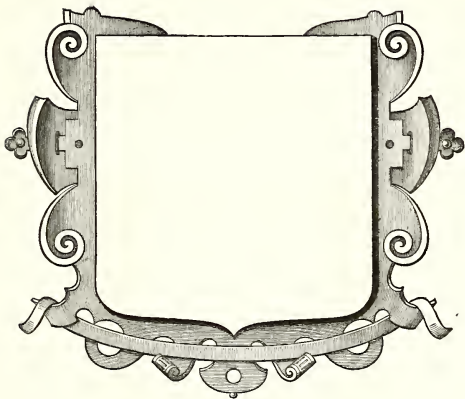

The representative of this family, Anne, daughter and sole heiress of Richard Williams, Rector of Llanyddlad, espoused William Mason, M.D. now of Carnarvon. He was seventh in lineal descent from John Wyllyam, who certifies the pedigree.

³ See Bodom.

⁴ These are the children of Rhys ap William.

³ See preceding pedigree.

⁴ Tegwared y bais weñ, as is stated in a note to this pedigree, was a son of Prince Llewelyn the Great, but an illegitimate son.

⁵ The above-mentioned Hugh Lewis, Esq., by Jane, his second wife, daughter of Richard Whyte, of Friars, and relict of Griffith Lloyd, of Caroe, had two daughters. The eldest, Anne³, died unmarried; the second, Marguloke, was married to John Wood, Esq. (living in 1656), second son of Owen Wood, Esq. of Llangwyfen, and by him had as only daughter, Jane, wife, first, of Lewis Powell, Esq. of Gwaredog, who died without issue; and, secondly, of John Griffith, of Carreglwyd, Esq. who died in 1695 or 6, and by whom she had issue.

⁶ Pyrs Lloyd was Sheriff for Anglesey in 1595 and 1603.

² Sir Randle Bereton was Chamberlain of Chester, from 23rd Henry VII. to 23rd Henry VIII., a Banneret, and Knight of the Body to Henry VII.

³ Jenkin, son of Sir David Hamner, was slain at the battle of Shrewsbury in 1405. But Jenkin, described as son of Edward, is probably here meant. In the pedigree of the family of Lloyd of Llynyn y maen, however, Margaret is stated to have been wife of Griffith Hamner.

⁴ She was not mother of Griffith son of Jenkin, but another Griffith, I think, is meant, who has been omitted previously, and that he was father of Jenkin, here made in G. Edward.

⁷ At one or two of the three lions' heads collected, of the first.

⁸ Gules, a chevron between three lions' heads collected, argent.

⁹ Thomas Lloyd, Esq., was in descent from Gwyn Lloyd, who attests this pedigree, with various legitimate issue; and the Llucy¹ a late wife sold, and gave away to his wife, as in 5. 11. in the History of the County of Merioneth, London.

¹¹ Gwynedd, p. Rhys Lloyd, the great-grandson of one of the Fitzin Trines of North Wales, is mentioned in the History of the County of Merioneth, London.

about the beginning of the 12th century. The armorial bearings of this Tribe are, Argent, on a level saddle, three lions' heads collected, of the first.

¹² This John was Sheriff for Anglesey, in 1613.

¹³ See Hobyden.

¹⁴ There is evidently an omission here.

¹⁵ Elin v. a second wife of Edward ag Hugh Gwyn.

¹⁹ The settlement paper to her marriage is dated 20th October, 1651. She was married, secondly, to Arthur Williams, A.M., who was called to the dignity of Provoost of Bangor Cathedral, on the 6th February, 1612; and died, Rector of Llanidlofan, on the 5th July, 1621. She was living on the 22d January, 22d of James I. (1625). Her sister, Jane, is described in it as "Jane Lewis," and was then living.

² Gules, a chevron between three lions rampant, or. Hwva, the stock of one of the Fifteen Tribes of North Wales, is said to have enjoyed, by inheritance, the office of hearing the Prince's coronet, and placing it on his head, when the Bishop of Bangor melted him. It is doubtful when he lived. According to the Cambrian Biography, he flourished to the middle of the 11th century; but in an account of the Tribes of North Wales, in the Cambrian Register, (Vol. I, page 145), which is taken from a MS. written not earlier than about the middle of the seventeenth century, he is said to have lived in the time of Prince Owen Gwynedd, who began to reign in 1137. Rowlands, in his Mens Antiqua, says, "that Hwva ap Cynddelw, of Presaddled, held his estate, in fee, by attending on the Prince's coronation, and hearing up the right side of the canopy over the Prince's head at that solemnity, and cites the following extract, from a MS. of one Lewis Dun, out of the Gooddith Library:—Yr Hwfa hwn cy Eiddafalon hynaf a wisant y Delath am ben y Twysog gyla ac esoch Bangor, ac y dybl cyntaf y cysegru y Twysog yu y Delath yr oedd i Hwfa, y par dillad a fal am y Twysog wrth wice y Delath am ei ben. A hyn oedd wasanaeth Hwfa ap Cynddelw."—Cambrian Register, Vol. I, page 145.

² See also Bodeon and Bodaon.

³ Jane, wife of John Merick, of Bodeychen, appears by the Talbotson MS., to have been wife of John Bodeychen, son, Esq^r, whose mother was Margaret, daughter to Richard Myrick, of Bodorgan.

⁶ Of Methlan, in Llyn.

⁸ Of Hwlk, in Angle.

⁹ It is presumed that this family is now extinct. Richard Wood, of Llangwyfan, Esq. died in descent from Owen, elder brother of Hugh, who attracts the pedigree in this visitation, was arrived on the 22^d of October, 1625, to Catherine, third daughter of Richard, Viscount Budeley, and died without issue. Thomas Wood, the next brother of Richard, married Ann, daughter of Pierce Lloyd, of Llwyg, Esq. and relict of Geary Tudor, Esq. of Methlan, to whom she had been united on the 8th November, 1622. John, the third brother, appears to have died unmarried. There were also two sisters, Florence, the eldest, was wife of William Wynan, Esq. of Tre^e ddiol, who assumed the name of Bodei, and whose will is dated 18th January, 1688; Ann, the youngest, was married to a person of the name of Canon. The male descendants of Hugh Wood, in the direct line, are believed to have become extinct in the second generation, in the sons of William, Chancellor of Worcester, the eldest of whom, William, had three daughters. The name of this family is found written with and without the final s.

¹⁰ See Bodeon.

¹¹ Sir Richard Williams was instituted to the Rectory of Llangadwaladr on the 14th March, 1572 (probably 1572-3), and to that of Rhoselyn on the 13th July, 1583, and died about the year 1601.

¹² William ap Williams, or Williams, of Cochwilan, does not appear to have had a son named Morgan (see Vaenol, &c.); but a son of that name is mentioned amongst the children of Williams ap Griffith ap Robin, in the account of this family appended to Williams's "Observations on the Snowdon Mountains."

¹⁴ Son Brynwyn was an eminent poet of Mona, who flourished from about 1506 to 1509.

⁵ Llewelyn ap Gruffydd, the last Sovereign of the Welsh, of the ancient British Gruffydd, to whom this note refers, is represented as having been his contemporary, and to have married a daughter of Ririd Flaidd, a chieftain, who Mr. Vaughan of Hengwr, the eminent Merionethshire Antiquary, states, was "slaine about the later dayes of Hen: 2." One of these statements must be erroneous.

⁵ Mrcd¹ ap Rhys, of Bolowin. See also Trefoeth.

⁶ In the Taliesin MS. she is stated to have been wife of Fulk Salubury, of Llan-rst, and Sioned is not named. This pedigree, however, it should be recollected, is certified by Owen ap Hugh, the nephew of these ladies.

⁷ Of Plas-newydd.

¹¹ According to the Taliesin MS. the second husband of Gwen was Thomas Price, of Bodolan.

¹² Thomas Vychan, of Pant Glas, in the Taliesin MS. (see Pant Glas). But Lewis Darn is probably correct. Lletcher Cadvan is in the parish of Llan Gtalen, Carmarthenshire.

¹³ Dorothy, wife of John Owen, of Orleton, Esq. was a daughter of Rowland Llanrharn, of St. Brakes, in Pembrokeshire. See Vol. I, page 247.

¹⁵ John Owen, Alderman of Chester, was one of the Sheriffs of that city in 1599.—Ormerod's History of Cheshire.

¹⁹ Which Owen? Neither of them appears to have been married to Margaret ferch William o Benarag.

² A generation (Ierwerth) has been omitted in the line of her descent. In the line of Mallt, wife of Rhys, three generations lower, Jestyn, a chieftain of Glamorgan, and founder of one of the Royal Tribes of Wales, lived about the close of the 11th century.

Hughes afterwards, in the same letter, alludes to the young man as his "wife sister sonne."

¹⁸ Owen Wyn, only son of Hugh Gwyn, or Wyn (with whom the pedigree in Lewis Dwan terminates), by Annes Madryn, his wife, was married on the 22nd of August, 1628, to Grace, daughter of Sir William Glyne, of Glynllifon, Knight, and died without issue. His sister, Elizabeth, by her marriage with Hugh, a younger son of William Owen, of Bodon, Esg. conveyed the Mawson estates into that family. See note, page 206. ¹ If it be true that this family is descended from John, Duke of Exeter (who was beheaded on the 9th of January, 1st of Henry IV, 1409), the first marriage in the tabular part of the pedigree must be incorrectly given, for Hoegsyn Holland, represented as fourth in descent from that nobleman, is there stated to have married Margaret, daughter and heiress of David Chwith, who was living in the reign of Edward I. It cannot be correct, also, that John Holland, the husband of Elin ferch ag aeres (see below), from the time at which she must have been living, was only fourth in descent from David. Since the above was written, I have found in the emblazoned collection of pedigrees at Wynnstay, by Saltreary, of Ebbwstock, a Welsh genealogist of eminence, one of the Holland family, in which their lineage, as traced to Sir Thomas Holland, agrees with the pedigree in this Visitation; but Saltreary's pedigree does not ascend higher than Sir Thomas. According to it, Meredith, the father of Agnes, wife of Robin Holland, was descended only in the fourth degree from Prince Griffith ap Cynan; but if Hoegsyn Holland's wife was seventh in descent from Prince Owen Greynech, more than four generations must have intervened between Griffith ap Cynan, the father of Owen, and the wife of Robin Holland, son of Hoegsyn. There is another error in the earlier portion of this pedigree: two generations are transposed. Sir Thomas Holland (created Earl of Kent, and who died on the 29th December, 1590) was the father, and Sir Edward Holland, the third son, of the Duke of Exeter. The Earl of Kent's widow, Joane, "the fair maid of Kent," only daughter of Edmund of Woodstock, Earl of Kent, sixth son of King Edward I, was remarried to William Montacute, Earl of Salisbury, and afterwards to Edward "the Black Prince." By him she was mother of King Richard II. She died on the 8th July, 1385. John de Holland, probably a member of the same family, was Escheator of the county of Merioneth upon the 4th September, 1390.

² Her half brother, Ievan ap Rhys, (see Glyn ar Sifften,) is party to deeds dated upon the 1st October, 15th Henry VII. (1499), and 4th March, 4th Henry VIII. (1513).

¹ Thomas, son of Owen Holland, was M.P. for Anglesey in the tenth parliament of Queen Elizabeth, which met on the 7th October, 1601, and Sheriff for that county in 1600. He afterwards received the honour of knighthood, and again served the office of Sheriff in 1622.

³ Their eldest son, Thomas, was entered at All Souls, Oxford, on the 24 November, 1621, aged 19; therefore, unless he was born several years after the marriage of his parents, their marriage must have been added to the Holland pedigree subsequently to the date of it. See Clwyd Esqr. Margaret was married previously to William ap Hugh Gwyn, of Pengwern, in Llanovalley, and, thirdly, to Richard Williams, of Llyslydau, Esq. See Pengwern, where she is represented as daughter of Howd Holland, certainly a mistake.

⁴ Sir John Savage, of Clifton, in Cheshire, styled the younger, 13th Henry VIII, died in July 1527 or 1528. His widow, Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Charles Somerset, first Earl of Worcester, was living 23d Henry VIII., and afterwards was married to William Breton, of the bedchamber to King Henry VIII. Breton was, "for matters touching Queen Anne," beheaded on the 17th May, 1536.—Ormerod's Cheshire, Vol. I. page 528.

⁵ William Harbert died on the 16th July, 6th Henry VII. (1491), at which time his daughter, Elizabeth, was upwards of thirty years of age.

 Ievan, the brother of Howel Yehan, was living upon the 28th August, 1442.

⁷ Rhys ap Ievan ap Einion should be Rhys ap Ievan ap Gruffydd, but they were of the same tribe. See Ystynlegid.

⁸ Thomas Holland, of Berw, fourth in descent from Owen, with whom this pedigree terminates, was Rector of Llangiuewen, to which living he was instituted on the 2d August, 1708, and died on the 12th October, 1746. He had two sons, who appear to have died without issue. His sister, Jane, was wife of Ellis Anwyl, Rector of Llanysteyn, in Llyons, and by him had several children, of whom the only one that left issue was Elizabeth, wife of Richard Trygarn, Esq. of Trygarn. By him, to whom she was married in 1723, she had a daughter, Mary, who, by her marriage with John Griffith, of Caregelyd, Esq. conveyed the Berw and Trygarn estates into that family. The Holland family, in the direct line, is believed not to be extinct.

⁹ This pedigree does not agree with that of the Bulkeley family at page xxxvii., but both are very incorrect; as is that in Lodge's Peerage of Ireland, and another in Burke's Extinct Peerage. In each of these pedigrees many representatives of the family are omitted, and in this some members of it misplaced, as will be seen by the following extract from Ormerod's History of Cheshire, in which work there are genea-logies of several branches of this house, compiled from, or corrected by authentic documents:—

Sir Richard Bulkeley, with whom the above pedigree terminates, was grandfather of Sir Richard Bulkeley, at page XXXIX of Lewis Dwnn's Visitation. The latter died upon the 28th of June, 1621. For his marriages and issue, see page 93.

* By the Inquisition of 14th Richard II. the three daughters are found heirs to the father, by that of 15th Richard II. this Richard is pronounced heir. He was, probably, therefore, a posthumous child, and born after the first inquisition had been taken. In 1394, the King presents to the living of Chedle, as guardian of the lands of Richard de Bulkeley, deceased, probably on account of the minority of the owner.

⁴ See Peryn (Aberkin). Madog Yrchan was living on the 8th February, 1485.

⁸ Einion Yrth was Sovereign of North Wales from 389 to 443.—Cambrian Biography.

¹⁰ See Pen Hesyn.

¹¹ A chieftain of Arvon, in the beginning of the tenth century.

³ Hugh ap Llywelyn is sometimes styled "of Bodowir."

⁶ Cynwric ap Ednyvet Vychan's name does not occur amongst the children of Ednyvet named at page 101.

² Sioned (or Catrin). In the embazoned pedigree of Wynnstay, by Salesbury of Ebbwstok, the former name is given to her. Her husband is there styled, of "Llan Elian yn Rhôs."

¹ David ap Ievan ap Einion was constable of the Castle of Harlech, and held it for several years for King Henry VI. against the hostile faction of the Yorkists. It was, during his custody of that fortress, that the unfortunate monarch, accompanied by his intrepid Queen, found a refuge within its walls, in 1403 (see Lingard's History of England). An account of David's gallant bearing, when constable of Harlech, will be found in the Autobiography of Lord Herbert, of Chertsey; and a petition, and other proceedings consequent upon his refusal to surrender the Castle, in the Rolls of Parliament for the first and fourth years of King Edward IV.

² Margaret, daughter of John Puleston, of Emlral, in Flintshire, was married subsequently to the 20th of February, 22d Henry VI. (1443-4), as is proved by her father's will of that date.

⁴ He is witness to a deed, dated at Festiniog, 24th March, 33d Henry VIII. (1542), and died in 1531.

⁷ Morys (Maurice) Lewis was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1596, and died in 1606.

⁸ Ellis Pyrs, LL.D. of Plas Iduyn, in Denbighshire, one of the Council in the Marches of Wales.

⁹ John Lewis, second son, according to a pedigree in the Harleian MS. 1071. He was born in 1615, married to Anne, daughter to Griffith ap John ap Griffith Wynn (or Griffith William), and died in 1649. The latter part of the pedigree of the Lewis family, in this Volume, must therefore have been added subsequently to the date of Maurice Lewis's signature.

¹⁰ Robert Lewis, in the Harleian MS. above referred to, is styled of Pengwern, and represented as eldest son. If this be correct, he probably died, unmarried, before the end of the year 1626, as John Lewis was, prior to that time, owner of Pengwern. He is also represented as eldest son in the Salebury Collection of Pedigrees at Wynant, and is styled of "Gray's Inn and Pengwern."

¹³ His will is dated 2th August, 1484.

There appears also to have been a son named Richard, who married Mary, daughter of ... Richard Thomas's Welsh Pedigree in the College of Arms. In Thomas's Pedigree of this family, Evan, son of Robert and Catherine, is not named; but the second son of John ap Robert and Margaret is named Evan. He appears to have been married, and How would seem to have been third son. Two daughters of John and Margaret are also mentioned.—Ed.

⁴ Richard Thumbleby (Thimbleby) Knight. "Richard Thymmellicke K^t." was one of the bailiffs of Harlech in 1570. It is recorded, I think in Camden's Britannia, that in the chapel of the town of Harlech (now standing, though converted into a dwelling), lies buried Sir Richard Thimbleby, who settled in that country for the purpose of enjoying the sports of hunting and hawking.

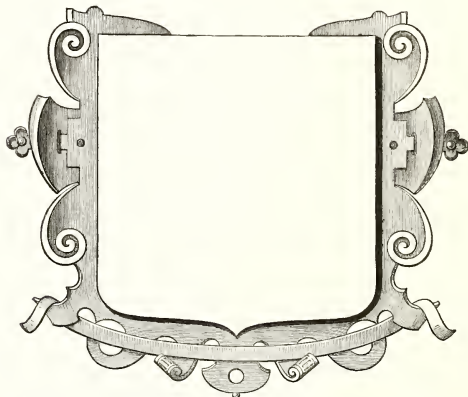

⁵ The contraction of Armiger, that is Esquire, to King Henry V.—Ed.

¹ Richard Vaughan (son of Rhyss) was Sheriff for Carmarthen in 1579; and is party to a bond, dated the 24th May, 23d Elizabeth (1581). A contemporary Elegy upon his death, by Sion Philip, is extant, and from it we have compiled the following pedigree, differing but little from that in Lewis Dwnn's Visitation:—

* Only two named by Robert Vaughan, of Hengwrt, the Merionethshire Antiquary, agreeing with Lewis Dwnn, and with a Pedigree compiled in the life-time of Richard Vaughan.

³ See preceding pedigree.

⁴ Dafydd Lloyd ab Hugh was a younger son of Hugh ap Ievan, of Mathavarn, in Montgomeryshire, and from him were descended the Levans, of Dol-y-gelynn, in Merionethshire.

⁶ See Nanny.

⁸ His first wife was Lowry, daughter of Thomas ap John ap Llewelyn Vaughan, of Harlech; his second (according to Mr. Vaughan of Hengwrt), Elin, daughter of John Robert ap Howel, of Dol-y-moch; but the marriage is not noticed in the pedigree of that family, nor does John ap Robert appear to have had a daughter named Elin. See Dol-y-Prwydd.

This marriage is, however, given in a pedigree of the Roberts of Dol-y-moch family, in Richard Thomas's Collection in the College of Arms.

⁹ See Egryn.

¹⁰ John Wgan, Esq. of Stonehall, in Pembrokeshire. See Vol. I. page 106.—Ed.

¹² Edward Edwards, of Llwydau. See Llan Aber.

¹³ Of Gelligoch, near Machynlleth. Additions have doubtless been made to this pedigree since the date of it.

¹⁵ Sheriff for Carmarthen in 1618, who was killed during that year, in a skirmish between the Royalist and Parliamentary forces.

was under the age of fourteen years, and it is contended that the parties shall be married before the ensuing 1st of May. He died on the 14th of July, 1636, leaving a son, William, of the age of five years and thirteen days, and a daughter, Elean. His widow, Elizabeth, is supposed to have married, secondly, John Havers, or Haners, of Whittlebury, in the county of Northampton, Esq., and to have died before the 2d of August, 1641.

¹⁷ See "Rhyl Goch."

²⁰ Griffith Vaughan was one of the defenders of Harlech Castle, under his cousin, David ap Ievan ap Einion. In an account of this family, by the eminent Merionethshire Antiquary, Mr. Robert Vaughan, is the following notice of him:—"This Gr Va¹⁹ was in great credit wth Jasper Earle of Pembroke, who lay in his house at Corygeol when he fled to France in y^e tyne of Ed: 4, and as some report, Harry the Earle of Richmond wth him, who afterwards was King of England."

An old house in Harlech, called "The Gwynn yn Bermo," is said to have been erected by Griffith Vaughan, in the purpose of holding communication with the chiefs of the Lancastrian cause, being nearer the sea, and consequently more easy of access, and secure for escape, than his mansion at Corygeol.

²³ Party per beol sinister ermine and ermines, a lion rampant or.

²⁵ Quarterly, gules and or, four lions passant guardant, counterchanged of the field.

²⁶ Argent, two bends wavy, sable; on a chief gules, three besants.

³ See also Llwyn Griffin.

⁴ Robert ap Ieman ap Morgan was alive, and residing at Talercuddyn, on the 20th of October, 1606.

⁵ Ieman ap Morgan is witness to a deed, dated 24th July, 1531.

⁸ Jeun Colier, who came from Powis to Harlech in the time of Edmund Charlton, Lord Powis, because he had slain the steward of Powis. This Jeun assumed the above surname, himself having been previously called Ieman ab Jenkin ab Meredydd ab Alex.⁹ "John Colier" appears as one of the jury on the inquisition, held at Harlech, on the next Sunday after Ascension Day, 7th Henry V. (May 28, 1419). Edward Charlton, Lord of Powis, died in the 9th year of Henry V. (1422); but the family of Colier appears to have been settled at Harlech long before that time, for I find "John le Coliere, of Harleclugh," a petitioner to Edward, Prince of Wales, afterwards Edward II., and a person of the same name one of the bailiffs of that town, the 20th year of Edward II.; and on the 15th April, 1327, "Robert le Colier" witnesses a deed of "Robert de Ozonia," confirming "Domino Viviano Capellano" a language in Harlech, and some other lands on Harlech Marsh, described as the burgage of ----- le Colier, the elder, on the one side, and that of William le Tylour on the other. Other records, in which the name of this family occurs, are known to be extant. By a deed, dated the 23d October, 1379, Christina, daughter of Walter Colier, relictess to Vivian, son of John le Colier, Clerk (Clericus), the moiety of a burgage, or cartilage, in Harlech; and, on the feast of St. Gregory, the Pope (12th March, or 2d September), 13th Richard II., "Vivian Colier the younger," is party to a deed.

He died before his father. His will is dated 15th August, 1595, and was proved on the 25th August, 1597. His second wife, Gwen ferch Dafydd Lloyd, was living upon the 15th August, 1595.⁸ Elin, youngest daughter of Robert Wynn ap Ievan ap Morgan (or Robert Morgan, as he is also styled at another page), was married to Thomas Jones, of Maes-groedd, in the parish of Lishebet, near Harlech, and by him was mother of Colonel John Jones, the regicide, brother-in-law of Cromwell.⁹ See Chwilog.¹⁰ Probably of Talhenont.¹¹ Henry Pryce, of Esgirweiddan. (See Plas Newydd.) Her mother was Gaeoer, daughter of William Thomas, Esq.: Mary appears to have been born after the date of the pedigree at the above page. Her brother, William, probably died young; Richard, the other brother, was married, but died without issue. By the marriage of Jane, daughter of William Wynn, Esq. of Talereuddyn, with Hugh Griffith, Esq. the united estates were conveyed into that family. Mr. Griffith was born upon the 14th February, 1726, and was Sheriff of Carnarvonshire in 1776. Additions have certainly been made to this pedigree subsequently to the date of it.¹⁵ See also preceding pedigree.¹⁶ "John Vainio le Colier," a burgess of the town of Harlech, is party to a deed, dated on Trinity Sunday, 18th Henry VI. ¹ In a MS. amongst the collection of the late David Pennant, Esq. of Downing, in Flintshire, the line of this John is thus defaced:—John ap Ieuñ (of Llanaber) ap John ap Howel ap Ierwerth ap Meredith ap Griffith Vychlan ap Griffith ap David (aeb ap David, Lord of Denbigh).—See Llan Rwest.

² It appears, by an inquisition taken at Bala, on the next Monday after the feast of St. Michael, sixth of Henry VI. (6th October, 1427), "quod quidam Eignion ap Seissyllt fuit scitans in dominio suo et de feudo de tota terra que fait et est inter agnes de Davi et Dewlas, tempore Llewelyn ap Ierwerth super principis, et quod terra illa tunc fuit pars et parcella Comiti de Estuniar in Comitatu Merioneth, et adhuc de jure esse debet." The powerful family of Faghe, of Mathrawan, near Mochynallth, now extinct, were the representatives of this chieftain.

⁵ This does not agree with the pedigree at a future page, where the mother of Elin is stated to have been a daughter of Llewelyn ap Rhys.

⁷ See Caer Runweh.

⁸ See Dalgely and Peniarth.

⁹ The armorial bearing of the family of Edwards of Llwyn du appears, from the Harleian MS., No. 1974, folio 41, to have been sable, a lion rampant argent; that, however, of Alo ap Rhwiall, the chieftain to whom they traced their descent, was, or, three lions' heads erased, gules, within a bordure engrailed, azure.

¹⁰ See Pengwern, Festiniog.

¹¹ See Bro-y-fod.

¹² No such person as William ap Hugh ap Howel has been previously mentioned in this pedigree: probably the person called above William ap How ap Ieuñ, is intended. William ap Hugh ap Howel, a Burgess of Harlech, is party to a deed, dated on the next Monday after the Feast of St. Dunstan, the Bishop, 1st Richard III.

² William Cynvel, out of whose collection this pedigree is stated to have been taken (probably not the whole of it), was an eminent poet of Penmachno, who flourished from about 1560 to 1600.—See Cambrian Biography. In a collection of pedigrees at Wynnstay, by one of the Salesburies of Erbistock, an eminent Welsh genealogist, the line of this family is thus given, from Adda ap Ierwth upwards:—¹ Adda ap Ierwth ap Meredith, otherwise Macho, of Ewionoid, ap Kynon ap Cradock, ap Iwgon, second son of Merwydd goch, otherwise Meredith goch, ap Collywn.—Salesbury's pedigree, however, differs from every other of this branch of the tribe of Collywn that I have seen.

⁷ Ian ap Robert commonly styled Evan Evans, oldest son and successor of Robert ap Ievan, by Elizabeth, daughter of John Wynn ap Cadwalader, of Rhiwias, was Sheriff for Monmouthshire in 1635. His marriage must have been added subsequently to the date of this pedigree, for at that time his wife was a mere infant, as her father's first marriage did not take place till 1578, and she was the third daughter of a second marriage. Catherine, eldest daughter, and at length heiress, of Evan Evans, Esq. grandson of Evan last mentioned, was wife of Robert Gruffydd, of Bach-y-saint, in Carmarvonshire. He was living in 1723. Their descendant, Margaret, only child of Evan Gruffydd, Esq. conveyed the Tany-bwlch estates, by marriage, to William Oakley Esq. of an ancient family in Shropshire, and elder brother of the late Sir Charles Oakley, Bart. She died in 1809, and he in 1811. They left an only child, the late William Gruffydd Oakley, Esq. who, dying in December, 1855, left this beautiful place, and its ample possessions, to his widow, the present much and very deservedly respected Mrs. Oakley. For the armorial bearings of this house, see note page 121.

Sir John Wyn, in his History of the Gwydir Family, thus alludes to the marriage of Dafydd ab Llywelyn with Margaret, daughter of this Rhdyderch: "whom Ieuan ab Robert's mother was of the house of Kofn melgode in the county of Cardigan, whose mother was sister to Rhdyderch ab Ieuan Lloyd then and yet the greatest family in that county." In another place, Sir John states her to have been daughter to Rhdyderch, which agrees with this pedigree.

² See note, page 88. In a pedigree of some of the descendants of Ririd Flaidd, by Mr. Vaughan, of Hengwrt, the Merionethshire antiquary, "Madoc ab Ririd Flaidd" does not appear to have had a son named Rhys. ³ Rhadrŷ Vach, styled also Raddifach or Radfach, was ancestor to the ancient family of Lloyd, of Llwynmao, Llanvards, and Treweydd, in Shropshire. The possessions of this chieftain were in the neighbourhood of Hafodunos, Denbighshire, which, it is supposed, was his mansion house.

⁸ At page 221, the line of this family, without, however, the surname of Palkws (Palgus) being mentioned, is deduced from Fivion ab Ieuan Colier. This would make Jenkyn ab John ab Fivion, and Reinald ab John ab Fivion, in the pedigrees of the Tal Treuddyn and Llwyn Galfri families, sons of John Palkws ap Fivion Palkws, in the pedigree of that house; but in it, John Palkws does not appear to have had sons of the above names. The Palgus family may have been lineally descended from one of the earlier Coliers, of Harlech (see page 220), but not, I suspect, from the person to whom it is traced at page 221. "Jankyn ap John Vian," and "John Palgous," are the one party, the other witness to a deed, dated in the first year of Richard III. If the former was one of the latter, would not he have been styled Jankyn ap John Palgus? "John Vivian le Coler," and "Vivian Palgus," also, are the one party, the other witness to a deed, dated in 1440; and John, son of William Palgus, is also witness, with the latter, to one dated in that year. I have little doubt, from what follows the first passage in this pedigree, that that passage, in the frequent repetition of the Christian name of John, is very erroneous; and that John Philip, who certifies the pedigree (brother of Mary tereb Philip, whose name occurs at page 221), is the person intended. See passage beginning "Rhys ap Ieuan a broiddol." &c.

¹⁰ Richard Palkos ap Robert Palkos is witness to a deed, dated 1st September, 1st Henry VIII. (1569).

¹¹ John Philip, or "Sion Philip," according to his poetic designation, who certifies this pedigree, was a Welsh poet of some eminence. He died in 1620, at the age of 80. William Philip, also, not unlikely his brother, was an eminent poet of Hendre Vechan, in Ardyfyn (a hundred of Merionethshire, in which stands the town of Harlech, where, or in its neighbourhood, the Palgus family appears to have been seated), who flourished from about 1570 to 1590. Another, probably, of this family, Griffith Philip, was author of some poetry, written in and about the year 1658, and Philip John Philip, author of a poem in 1674. For the armorial insignia of the Palgus family, see a future page.

¹² See also Park, Gwydir, and Clenenny, and notes to the pedigrees of those families.

³ See Nannau. She was married, secondly, to Lewis Gwyn, Esq. of Dolauwyn, in the parish of Toxyn.

⁴ John Lloyd succeeded his brother in the Rhiwaeod estate; was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1616, and died in November 1616, without issue.

⁶ Vert. three eagles displayed, in fess, or.

⁸ Huw Nannau, Esq. was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1557, and was living on the 1st of February, 4th of Elizabeth (1563).

⁹ Gryffyd Nannau, Esq. father of Hugh, was living in the 33d year of Henry VIII.

¹⁰ Howel Nannau, or Howel ap David ap Meurig, appears in a roll of Minister's accounts, for the county of Merioneth, for the year ending at Michaelmas, 2d Henry VIII; as then squire for William ap Jenkin ap Iorwerth, "farmer" of the Mills of Llanvachreth and Llanerwyn.

23d Henry VI.; and the "farm" of the Mill of Llanvachreth granted to them both at Michaelmas 33th Henry VI. for four years.

¹⁷ In a pedigree, by Robert Vaughan of Hongrwt above-mentioned, the wife of Ynyr Vychan is stated to have been a daughter of Gryffyd ap Owen ap Gwyno ap Eneoc ap Seisyllt. Gwenvynwyn, (son of Owen Cwyllog, Prince of Powis), was not descended from Einion ap Seisyllt, who was contemporary with Owen, and lived in the time of Prince Llewelyn ap Iorwerth.

¹ Edmund Prys was instituted to the Rectory of Ffestiniog upon the 14th March, 1572 (probably 1573-3), to the Archdeaconry of Merioneth 5th November, 1576, and to the Rectory of Llanaeddywn upon the 16th April, 1580. The following notice of him occurs in Willis's Survey of Bangor:—"He was a very learned man, and had great skill in his own native language, as appears by his version of the Psalms into Welsh metre, which is still in use. Before Dr. Davies's Welsh Grammar (which is dedicated to him) is an elegant copy of Latin verses wrote by him in praise of the performance, wherein he styles himself Archdeacon of this place, and mentions his being then 80 years of age. Those verses are dated Anno 1621, soon after which he died, and was bury'd at Maestrog, a chapel belonging to Ffestiniog, but without any Monument or Inscription that I can hear of." He resided at Tylidan do, not far from Maestrog, upon the road to Dolgelly.

² See Egryn.

³ Gruffydd Nannau, Esq. (son of Hugh), was born upon Friday the 11th June, 1568, and was M.P. for Merionethshire in the Parliament which met on the 10th November, 1592. See Riwlais.

⁴ Lewis Gwyn (of Dolauwyn). See Ynys-y-maengwyn. She was his first wife, and by her he had an only daughter and heiress, Jane, wife of Griffith Nannau of Nanney, Esq. (who died in 1655), son of Huw, whose name appears at the bottom of the pedigree.

⁶ John Hughes, of Maes-y-pandy. Gwen was married, secondly, to John Pugh; and her sister, Mary, was wife of Edward Tanat, of Neuddeuwin, in Montgomeryshire.

⁷ Huw, eldest son of Gruffydd Nanney, last mentioned, was born upon the 23d of October, 1588; was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1627 and 1638, and died in 1647 or 1648. This last generation, therefore, must have been added subsequently to the date of the pedigree; probably, however, by Lewis Degan. His wife was Ann, daughter of Griffith Vaughan, of Cerysgold, Esq., and she was "aged 48" in 1652. John, the second son, was born about 1596.

⁸ Anne was born about 1591, and died, without issue, probably unmarried.

¹⁰ Robert Nanney was a merchant in London. His wife was Joyce, daughter of ¹¹ Rhys Nanney died without issue.
¹² Richard Nanney was born in, or immediately about, the year 1575; was in Holy Orders, and Rector of Llanegrynion, and Vicar of Towy, in Merionethshire. He was married to a daughter of Hugh Gwyn, of Penarth; died about the year 1634, and left a widow, Eleanor, who was living upon the 10th of January, 1646.
¹³ Edward Nanney was born in, or immediately about, the year 1675; married to Elizabeth, daughter of Lewis Gwyn, of Dolauwyn, and was ancestor to the Nanneys of Maes-y-pandy, in the parish of Taly-llyn.
¹⁴ John Eaton (Eyton), of Elyton, in Denbighshire. He was Steward, or Seneschal, of the Lordship of Bromfield, in 1477.
¹⁵ Sir Roger Kynaston was Sheriff for Shropshire in 1462; and the office of Constable of the Castle of Harlech was conferred to him in the Parliament of the 12th and 13th Edward IV. (1472-3). He also received a grant of the same office in the first year of Richard III. Through Elizabeth, Sir Roger's wife, his representatives have in modern times advanced a claim to the ancient barony of Powis. It would appear, from Blakeway's Sheriffs of Shropshire, that a generation is omitted in this pedigree, in the line of Kynaston, and that Gruffydd was son of Madox, son of John (or Jenkin, which is the same), who was living in 1398.
¹⁶ Harri, Earl of Tankerville, in Normandy. He was living 26th Henry VI.
¹⁷ Antigon was an illegitimate daughter of Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester.
¹⁸ She died 4th Henry VI. (1426). Her father, Edward Charlton, was summoned to Parliament as "Edwardus de Charlton de Powys," from the 34 Henry IV., to 5th Henry V., and died in 16th Henry V. (1422). He was the fifth Lord Powis of that family.
¹⁹ "Hawys Gadarn gwaig Edward." Her name was Eleanor. She was daughter of Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent, and was married, first, to Roger Mortimer, Earl of March, and, secondly, to Edward, Lord Powis. She was half-sister to King Richard II., through her mother, Joane, the "Fair Maid of Kent," who, after the death of the Earl, was wife of Edward the Black Prince. Hawys Gadarn was heiress of Powis, and wife of John de Charlton, summoned to Parliament 7th Edward III. She was living 9th Edward III. (1335).

years of age in 1667. He died M.P. and Colonel of the Militia for the county of Merioneth, and Vice-Admiral of North Wales, in the last year of King William III. (Monument at Llanvachreth.) By Katherine, his wife, daughter of William Vaughan, of Coes-y-godol, Esq. and relict of Griffith Wynn, Esq. of Bekeon, in the county of Carnarvon, he had four daughters. Anne, the eldest, died unmarried in 1729, in her 37th year. Katherine, the second, was married in 1732, to William Vaughan, of Coes-y-godol, Esq. Lieutenant, Custos Rotularum, and M.P. for the county of Merioneth. They had an only child, Anne, married to David Jones (Swaine, Esq. of Talisier, in Carmarthenshire; but she died, without issue, on the 1st September, 1767. Janet, the third daughter of Colonel Nanney, was wife of Robert Vaughan, of Hengwrt, Esq. by whom she had several children. The eldest, Hugh, succeeded, eventually, to the Nanney estates, but died unmarried. The next brother, Robert Howel Vaughan, of Nanney and Hengwrt, Esq. was raised to the dignity of a Baronet in 1792, and was father of the late highly respected possessor of Nanney, or, as it is now spelled, Nannau, who, for more than forty-four years, represented, uninterruptedly, the county of Merioneth in Parliament. He was also father of Griffith ap Howel Vaughan, now of Rig and Hengwrt, Esq. Commandant of the Merioneth Militia, and Edward William Vaughan, Colonel in the Guards, who, upon inheriting the Rig estates, assumed the additional surname of Salisbury, and died in 1807. Mary, the youngest daughter of Colonel Nanney, is believed to have died unmarried.

² Robert ap Rhys was chaplain to Cardinal Wolsey, and is party to a deed, dated 25th November, 1525. His tomb, as also that of his father, Rhys ap Meredith, to whom, at the battle of Bosworth, Henry VII. entrusted the standard of England, after the bearer, Sir William Brandon, was slain by Richard, (Penman's Wales), is still to be seen within the church of Ysgytty, in Denbighshire.

³ Marchweithian, "a chieftain of Is-Dulas, in Denbighshire, who lived about the beginning of the eighth century. He was head of one of the Fifteen Tribes of North Wales, from whom the families of Is-Dulas trace their descent."—Cambrian Biography. If it be true that Marchweithian lived at so early a period, there must have been many more generations than are here given between him and Rhys ap Meredith. In an account of the Tribes of North Wales, in the Cambrian Register for 1796, it is stated that the lands of this chieftain were "Carwed Fynydd, Dincaedfael, Pres, Berain, Llyweni, and many other townships within the hundred of Is-Aled, as appears by the extent of the Lordship and Honour of Denbigh, made in the eighth year of Edward III. at what time Cynwric Fychan, being the ninth in descent from Marchweithian (in this pedigree, not reckoning the chieftain himself, he is the eighth), lived."

⁴ Marchudd was of Uch-Dulas, in Denbighshire, and is said to have lived about the middle of the eighth century.

⁶ Hsi I Wely, of Ial, a chieftain who lived in the middle of the twelfth century, and married Elen, daughter of Prince Gryffydd ap Cynan.

⁴ Of Tanybwlch.

⁵ See preceding pedigree.

⁶ John Prys was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1609.

⁸ Elsbeth was married prior to, or upon the 12th October, 1597.

⁹ Jane was married, first, to George Puleston, of Euraul, Esq.; secondly, to Ellis Sutton, Esq.; and died 8th March, 1664 (probably 1664-5).

²² Argent, a rose gules.

²³ Vert, a chevron between three wolves' heads erased argent.

²⁴ Howel Vyechan is lessee in a deed, dated 8th November, 2d and 2d Philip and Mary (1555), and grantee in another one of 13th September, 10th Elizabeth (1568).

²⁶ Celynn, of Llywdiarth, in Powisland.

³⁰ John Owen Vyechan, Ar. of Llywdiarth.

⁶ Ellis Vychan is party to a deed, dated 24 May, 1626, and is styled in it, "of Brimblech," in the county of Merioneth.

⁸ Jane, daughter of Ellis Vychan, was married to Cadwallader Watkin, of Garth-Wedy, gentleman, who was buried at Llanrdderfel, 27th May, 1622, and by him was mother of Grace, the first wife of Edmund Meyrick, of Ucheldre, Esq. Sheriff of Merionethshire in 1633.

¹⁵ There was also another son, named Griffith, ancestor to the Vaughans, of Cors-y-gedol; which see.

¹ There was another son, Ednyved, who was living in the 36th year of Henry VI.
² Jenkin ap Iorwerth was party to a deed, in the 19th year of Edward IV., and was living in 1494. He was farmer (lessee under the Crown) of the Mills of Keyrog and Caethley (Caethley), and of the Ferry of Aberdovey, in the 36th year of Henry VI.

³ According to Robert Vaughan, of Hengwrt, the Merionethshire Antiquary, Jenkin had three sons, Howel, William (living in the 4th year of Henry VIII.), and Morgan (Deputy Escheator of Merionethshire in the 24 year of Henry VIII.), and six daughters, Mathilda, Elizabeth, Angharad, Gwos, Margaret, and Gwendolynfar.

⁵ Howel ap Jenkin died of the plague in 1494.

⁶ Sir Roger Kynaston, of Herdley, in Shropshire, and Constable of the Castle of Harlech, and Sheriff of Shropshire in 1462.

⁹ Humphrey ap Howel died in 1545. His wife was Anne, or Agnes, daughter of Sir Richard Herbert, of Montgomery, Kalgati.

¹⁰ "Humfrey ap John Wynne, of Towyn, gent." doubtless this person is party to a deed, dated the 24 December, 1571.

¹² She married, secondly, Harry Vaughan, of Machynlleth, gentleman. Edward Powys is party to a bond, dated 15th January, 16th Elizabeth (1574). See also note at another page.

¹⁴ Of Dolgelly: of the same line as Vaghan of Cae Ranwch.

¹⁵ Edward Nanney was born in, or immediately about, the year 1578. See also Nanney.

² Paydyl Lloyd purchased the mansion and demesnes of Ghanlyth, in the parish of Llanuwchllyn, from Joskin ap Rice of Howel, in the 13d. year of Henry VII.

³ The Pryse estate is believed to have been sold in 1740, together with Cergwl, by the Rev. Henry Mainwaring, and Mary Elizabeth, his wife, daughter, and at length heiress of John Vaughan, Esq. Sheriff of Merionethshire in 1709, to Sir Watkin Williams Wynne, Baronet. It belongs to the present Sir Watkin.

This chieftain, "by his valour in battle obtained from his prince, Gruffydd ap Madoc, lord of Dinas Brân, the honorable distinction in his arms of four bloody strokes, or in the heralds phrase, pale of eight, or & gules." For, while he was talking to his Prince after the fight, with his left hand smared with blood, he accidentally drew it across his sword, & left on it the marks of his four fingers. The prince, observing this, ordered him to carry them on his shield; & at the same time bestowed on him the township of Gelligyan in this neighbourhood, as a more antient mark of his favor.—By grant, dated in Yale, on the Vigil of St. Egidius, 1256.

¹ He was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1639, at which time he was 47 years of age. Jane, one of his daughters and co-heiress, heiress of Maes-y-neuadd, of which her mother was also heiress, was wife of Maurice Wynne, second son of William Wynne, of Glyn, Esq. From them John Nanney, the present youthful possessor of Maes-y-neuadd is, in a direct line, descended; the name of Nanney having been assumed by his grandfather, William Wynne, Esq. who died 4th April, 1795.

² Cadwallader, eldest son of Maurice ap Robert Wynne, of Glyn, Esq. He is party to a deed, dated 7th May, 1602, and died before his father, without issue. His widow remarried William Tudor, of Egryn, and had no issue by him.

⁴ Gwen Lloyd was wife of Lewis Nanney, of Cefn-den-dwr. See next pedigree.

⁵ Richard Nanney was alive, probably, on the 2d of April, 16th Edward VI. (1522). His next brother, according to a pedigree in the Harleian MS. No. 2299, was Hugh. This MS. I believe to be a transcript of one at Nannau, in the autograph of the Merionethshire Antiquary, Robert Vaughan, so frequently mentioned in these notes.

⁷ This again differs from the pedigree in the Harleian MS. No. 2299, where the wife of John (who is there called "John Wyn"), is represented as Sioned, daughter of Thomas ap Llewelyn Vychan, of Harlech; and to Ieuan, the younger brother of John, no wife is given.

⁸ See Dulgelly.

⁹ Ellin, according to other pedigrees. See also Rhiwgoch.

¹⁰ Gwraig Richard Nanney, son of Lewis.

¹¹ Son of Richard, last named, by Elizabeth Lloyd. He was living upon the 20th August, 1655. His wife was Gwen, daughter of Robert Lloyd, of Rhiwgoch, Esq.

¹³ The last lineal representative of this ancient family died in the present century, when his estates passed, under his will, to his nephew, David Ellis, Esq. of Gwynfrin, in Carmarvonshire, who assumed, in consequence, the additional surname of Nanney. He died without issue, in 1819, leaving the united properties of Gwynfrin and Cefn-den-dwr, to his sister's son, Owen Jones, Esq. of Brynker, in the county of Carmarvon, who has taken, after his own surname, those of Ellis and Nanney. Cefn-den-dwr is converted into a farm house, Gwynfrin being the residence of the present owner of these estates.

³ William Kyffin, of Meenan, in Denbighshire.

⁴ Anne died in 1541; Humphrey Jones, her husband, is party to a deed, dated 15th June, 1617; and died in January 1619 (probably 1619-20). He was "Receiver of the King's Revenue in North Wales." His father, Morris Jones, Baron of the Exchequer of Carnarvon, and Clerk of the Peace for Carnarvonshire, died in 1604.

⁵ She was wife of Rowland, son of John Wyn Owen, of Llanfachellty, in Anglesey. See another page.

⁶ She was married to Robert Bulkeley of Gronant.

⁷ Owen Mredydd was instituted to the Prebendaryship of Bangor Cathedral, 21st October, 1605; and was also Rector of Llanystyn, in Ely, to which he was instituted 19th September, 1599. He was buried at Llanystyn on the 22d November, 1612.

⁸ She had previously been the wife of William ap Hugh Gwyn.

⁹ Thomas, son of Owen Mredydd, was entered at All Soul's College, Oxford, on the 23d November, 1621, aged 19. According to a pedigree, in a MS. of Ellis of Talerpon, before referred to in these notes, the other children of Owen Mredydd were, besides Humphrey and John, Richard, and Ann. Lewis Owen's account of the family certainly rests upon better authority. Perhaps the two last may have died young, and therefore were not named to him.

¹⁰ See Poole.

¹¹ See Penarth.

¹² Margaret, in the "History of the Gwydir Family." See Gweadir.

¹³ See Cyfa-awelch.

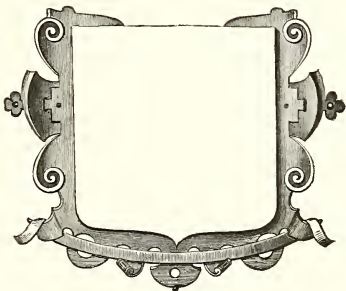

¹⁴ The heiress of this family, Anna Maris, only child of Meyrick Meredith, Esq, was wife, first, of John Mostyn, Esq, of Segrewyd, in Denbighshire, and, secondly, of Watkin Edwards Wynne, Esq, of Pengwern, in Merionethshire, and Llwyn, in Denbighshire. By her first husband she had two children, a son and daughter. Portions of her estates, including, it is believed, those in the parish of Clynog, were sold under a clause in her will; the remainder are vested in trustees, for the use hereafter of her grandson, Bertie Mostyn, Esq, the representative of that branch of the Mostyn family. For the arms of the Meredith family, see Rhigogoch, the Lloyds of which place gave the same bearing, being descended from a common ancestor.

¹⁵ Edward Powys is party to a bond, dated 15th January, 16th Elizabeth (1573-4).

¹⁶ John Powys, father of Edward, was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1543. The site of the dissolved Monastery of Vanner or Cymmer, with the greater portion of its possessions, was granted in perpetuity, or leased to him, on the 19th April, 1550. He is styled, in a charter of the reign of Edward VI, "John Powes de Hospicio suo gent." (the King's household); and in the accounts of the Chamberlain of North Wales, for 1st and 2d Philip and Mary, (1554), "Johannes Powes, ar' ball' nup Mon' Cymmer." He was alive in the 4th and 5th Philip and Mary. The line of ancestry of this family, as here given, differs materially from that in Davies's Display of Heraldry. "Griffith ap Gwyn ap Grifffydd," here occurs twice, there but once. Beli is here made the son of Brochwal ap Aeddan; there, the son of Selyf, and grandson of Brochwal, and Elizau, who in this pedigree is represented as son of Selyf Sargh Cadan, is in Davies's book made to have been son of "Gryllwag ap Beli (another of the latter name) ap Mead Myran, alias Myronion ap Selyf Sargh Cadan." &c. According to Davies, Brochwal Ysgithrog flourished early in the seventh century; but in the Cambrian Biography, Selyf Sargh Cadan, his grandson, is stated to have lived about the middle of the sixth.

¹⁶ Of Dolgellau.

¹⁷ Robert Vaughan of Caerwynch, Gwent, third in descent from Tudor Vychan above mentioned, was buried at Dolgellau, July 30th, 1693. His wife, Margaret, one of the daughters of Robert Vaughan of Hengwrt, Esq., "the Antiquary," had previously been the wife of William Pryce, B.D., Rector of Dolgellau, who was buried there October 25th, 1646. This William Pryce was graduated A.M. on the 21st of June, 1618, and instituted to the above mentioned Rectory on the 10th of February, 1631. He was the first Merl Philosophy Reader at Oxford, after the foundation of that lecture by Dr. Thomas White. Grace, daughter and heiress of Robert Vaughan of Caerwynch, must have been of full age upon the 20th of August, 1676, as she executes a deed on that day. She was married at Dolgellau, on the 9th of November, 1659. Her husband was John Humphreys, (who had been previously married, and had issue,) fourth son of "Captain William Humphreys," of Maerdy, in the parish of Gwyddelwera, by Dorothy, his wife, daughter of Peter Merriek of Ucheldre, Esq. Captain William Humphreys was one of the Commissioners for assessing the subsidy in the County of Merioneth, in 1677. Peter Merriek, Esq. died 9th November, 1690, in his 66th year, and was buried at Ruthin on the 10th of the same month. The great grandchild of the above mentioned Grace, Catherine, only child of Robert Vaughan Humphreys, Esq., Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1769, was wife of that learned and highly respected layman, the Right Hon. Sir Richard Richards, Knight, Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer. By him she had a numerous and talented family. Her eldest son, Richard Richards, Esq., one of the Masters in Chancery, is the present owner of Cerynwech. He was created to represent the county of Merioneth in Parliament, upon the resignation of Sir Robert Williams Vaughan, Bart. in June 1836, and is the present occupier. The old mansion of Cerynwech, now used as a farm house, is curious as a specimen of the residences, in former days, of the Welsh gentry of the class to which it belonged. It covers a considerable extent of ground, but down stairs has only one sitting room, square, and about eight feet high, adjoining to which is a hall, apparently of the same size. Over this is what appears to have been a drawing-room, handsomely paneled with oak, but open to the "valley" of the roof, and the rafters coming so low, at the sides of the room, as not to admit of a person standing upright. The rest of the house consists of a few bedrooms and the offices. The whole building is very irregular, and seems to have been erected without any plan, and probably at different times. The present mansion is a spacious modern one, at a short distance from the former.

JOHN DAVIES.

¹ He was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1566, 1573, and 1590; represented that county in the Parliament which met 8th May, 1572, and is party to a deed, dated 10th October, 1603.

² Lewys ap Owen was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1546 and 1555, and M.P. for the same county in the Parliaments which met 8th November, 1547, 1st March, 1552-3, and 12th November, 1554. The following account of his murder, in 1555, written by his great-grandson, Robert Vaughan, of Hengryst, affords a fair specimen of the then lawless state of society in the district where it occurred.—Lewys Owen, esq. vice-chamberlain and Baron of y^e Excheq^r of Northwales, lived in great credit and authority in y^e time of King Hen. 8. Edw. 6. and Queen Mary, as it appears by their letters under these Signe mancell directed to him & John Wynne ap Meredith of Gweldr Esq^r touching matters that concerned the peace & quiet government^s of the country, as the apprehending of and punishing of felons & outlaws, (which from y^e civile warres betwene Yorke and Lancaster abounded in y^e country, and never left resting, burning of houses, & murthering of people, in soe much that being very numerous they did often drive great droves of cattell some times to y^e number of a hundred & more from one country to another at midde day, as in the tyme of warre wth out feare, shame, pittie, or punishment^s to the utter undoing of the poorer sort;) And in y^e performance of y^e dutie required by some of those letters, (being authorized to call to their ayde the power of the Cantons, and also to keepe Sessions of Good delivery when occasion required) raysed a great company of felle & lustie men, and on a Christmas eve tooke above 80 felons and outlaws, whom they brought according to the nature of their delinquencies: as y^e noble Sr Jo^h Wynn of Gweldr K^t (author of the History of the Wryvdyl Family, died 1st March, 1625, probably 1295-7), & Baronet grandchild of y^e former John Wynn often told us. The letters aforesayd I have seen & read, and are yet extant in the house of Gweldr. Afterwards the sayd Lewis Owen, being high shiriff of y^e County of Merioneth, & having occasion to goe to Montgomery shire assizes, to treat wth the Lord of Mowtheath, about a marriage he had betwene Johⁿ Owen, his sonne and heire, & y^e daughter of y^e sayd Lord of Mowtheath, was in his returne met by a dammed crew of thieves & outlaws, who in the thick woods of Mowtheath lay in wait for his coming, & had cutt downe long trees to crosse y^e way and hinder his passage, & being come to the place, they lett fire at him wth a shower of arrows, w^{ch} were lighted in his eye, the which he took out with his hand & leake it, then they fell upon him with their bills & sawings & killed him: his men upon the first assault fled & left him only accompanied with his son in law John Lloyd, of Keswyn, Esq^r, who defended him till he fell downe to the ground as dead, where he was found having above 30: Moely wounds in his body. This cruel murther was committed about allhallowe in y^e year of our Lord 1555. And the murtherers soone after were for y^e most parte taken & executed, some few fledd the land, & never returned. And soe, with the losse of his life, he purchased peace & quietnes to his country, the wch. God be prayed, we enjoy even to o^r dayes." Baron Owen was murdered on the 11th of October, 1555. The place where he was assassinated is known as "Llan-y-Elindryd-Baron, the Baron's gate"; and the woodland adjoining, as Felldy-y-Groes, the enclosure of the cross, a cross having probably been erected to mark the spot, as I believe is common in Roman Catholic countries.

⁴ Llywelyn ap Gruffydd ddu, "so called his lands & tencments in Kevyn ryss, called Llwyrog, Tyllyn Fawr Gwyn, & divers other lands in Estmanner, to Thro^t ap Ieuan ap Thro^t ap Gruff. of Castell, as by y^e Records & evidences of y^e house is manifest."

⁷ In another pedigree I find these generations reversed, Cadwgan ap Gruffydd.

¹¹ Rhys Ychlan, "paternally descended of Edngwen ap Bradwen"—A MS. in the antograph of the Antiquary, Robert Vaughan. He calls Gwnealvyr, daughter and heir of Meiric.

¹⁴ Lewis Owen, son of John. He was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1598, and is party to a deed, dated 13th March, 9th James I. (1612). He died without issue.

⁶ See Rhilwas.

⁸ Edward Owen is party to a deed, in which he is described as of Hengwrt, dated 20th November, 1st Elizabeth, probably 20th November, 1559, though the 20th of that month, in the first of Elizabeth, was in the preceding year; but Elizabeth did not ascend the throne till the 17th November, 1558, and the news of her accession, in those days of slow travelling, would hardly have reached Merionethshire by the 20th. He was alive on the 10th May, 1601. His son, Robert (the only one who left issue), living upon the 24th November, 1608, had an only daughter, who was twice married. Her first husband was a gentleman of the name of Foster, residing near Northampton; who the second was is uncertain, but probably she died without issue. The Hengwrt estate passed, it is supposed by bequest, to Margaret, second daughter of Edward Owen, or her descendants. She married Howel Vaughan, of Gwengraig, gent. here described as Howel ap Gryffydd. He is party to a bond, as "Howel Vaughan ap Griffith ap Howell, gent.," dated 24th November, 1608. Their eldest son was the antiquary Robert Vaughan, from whom the late Sir Robert Williams Vaughan, Bart., was fifth in descent. Hengwrt belongs to Lieut.-Colonel Vaughan, younger brother to Sir Robert.

⁹ Gryffydd Owen was of Tal-y-bont, in the parish of Llansgrynny, which place, with extensive privileges attached to it, under the name of the demesne lands of Llansgrynny, or manor of Tal-y-bont, he obtained by purchase from the Crown. He was living in the 12th year of James I. Through his marriage with Elizabeth, one of the sisters of William David Lloyd, of Peniarth, Esq. Lewys, his eldest son, who died in 1633, he came possessed of that estate. Upon Huw, son of Gryffydd Owen, his father settled Tal-y-bont. Huw died in March, 1651; and was founder, by will, of the free-school at Llansgrynny. The son named Robert I. had found in the pedigree by Lewis Dwnn only. There was another son, named Henry, who was in holy orders, and father of the celebrated Dr. John Owen, Dean of Christ Church.

¹⁰ See Peniarth.
¹¹ Robert Owen was of Dedy-son, and an Attorney in the Court of the Marches of Wales. A MS. in the autograph of his grand-nephew, the above-mentioned Robert Vaughan, of Hengwrt, states his issue to have been, Humphrey, Harry, Symon, "Mr Jon Owen a preacher of Gods word," Lodowic, and three daughters. It is probable that John, Owen, here should have been written John Owen, one person, and that he died young; for it seems unlikely that this pedigree, certified by the brother of Robert Owen, is incorrect, or that an indefatigable genealogist as Robert Vaughan should be so on a point relating to a family closely allied to himself.

¹² Lewis and Robert, the sons of Simon Owen, were living in 1636. The former was of Hafodysyllt, in the parish of Dolgelly. ¹³ Hengwrt in Herefordshire.—Etc.

¹⁴ Sir John Burgb was Sheriff for Shropshire in 1442, and died about the 11th year of Edward IV.

¹⁸ Rice Hughes, Esq. was Sheriff for Merionethshire, 1582, and died before the 19th November, 1608.

² Dafydd ab Ilywŷn was Prince of North Wales from 1240 to 1246. He is said to have left ab Ilywŷn.—(Wynne's History of Wales). Probably his son, David, was illegitimate.

⁴ He was alive upon the 19th November, 1608.

⁵ Roderick Hughes was instituted to the Vicarage of Maelynllyth in 1580, and to the Rectory of the same parish in 1585. His successor was instituted in 1612, so probably Hughes died about that year.

⁷ See Ynys-y-maenwyn.

⁸ Rhys Hughes had another daughter, named Eilwŷ, who was married to Lewis, son of Richard Nanney.—See Cefn-ddwr.

⁹ Pais Cariadog, Aco=Aure, a Ben rampant party per fess and argent, in a bordure of the third, some of annlets sable; but in another MS. (I think in the Harleian Library), the arms of this house are represented as the same as that borne by the Owens of Dogelley (see Note, page 297). The heiress of this family, Jane, daughter of John Hughes, Esq. married Lewis Nanney, son of Edward, a younger son of Hugh Nanney, of Nanney, Esq. He was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1584. She was married, secondly, to John Lloyd, of Ceiswyn, Esq. Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1652 and 1667. The Maes-y-pandy estates, after having been vested for several generations in his family, passed into that of Wynn, of Maes-y-nedd, through the marriage of William Wynn, Esq. to Llewŷ, eldest sister of John Nanney, Esq. Their only son, William Wynn, Esq. Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1728, assumed the surname of Nanney. He died on the 4th April, 1795; and his grandson, John Nanney, a minor, is the present owner of the united estates of Maes-y-nedd and Maes-y-pandy.

¹⁰ Dafydd Lloyd ab Williams's will is dated 11th July, 1570, and was proved upon the 18th of September in the same year. William Dafydd Lloyd is party to a deed, dated 1st July, 40th Elizabeth (1568).

¹¹ John ap Rhys was living in the 2d year of King Henry VII.

¹² In William ap John is party to a deed, dated 20th June, 9th Henry VIII.; and was alive upon the 20th June, 8th of Elizabeth (1568).

¹⁴ In another pedigree, in my possession, the line of this Llywŷn ap Tudor is detached, as in the next note. The extent of the county of Merioneth, taken in the 7th year of Henry V. mentions a "Welle," called "Welle Wynion Llywŷn ap

Tudor," the domicile of the grandchildren of Llywŷn ap Tudor, and that the freeholders in the said "Welle" were "Eigia ap Aron, Gruff ap Aron," and others. "Welle," says Watton, "seems to have been an estate, descending to a child or children, from the same common stock; and what confirms this notion is, that a paragraph in the Laws of Howel Dda, which treats of dividing the inheritance first among brothers, secondly between cousin german, and lastly between second cousins (which is the last subdivision), concludes with these words—"Am Dir gwelyo y dylwr mal y dywelcanas ni. i. e. thus a paternal inheritance shall be divided."—Record of Carnarvon, page 8.

"Edmowen ap Bradwen is by many writers called Lord of Merionidy, but I apprehend erroneously, for the Princes and their issue were always Lords of Merionidy. How he R, it might be that he (as others) took the same to farm, and therefore might be called Lord thereof. Yet certain it is that he & his issue were possessed of all Talbont (a comot or hundred of Merionethshire), save Nanney, & the Princes demesnes, & for the most part of the hundred of Estimerin in like manner. He is said to have lived in Gruffydd ap Cymantime." [It has, however, been doubted whether he lived at so early a period; Prince Griffith ap Cymantime died in 1157]. "The ruins of his house, Llys Bradwen, are to be seen in the township of Gregman in the hundred of Talbont Iseregonan. Llywelyn ap Tudor ap Gwyn ap Pŷreulur ap Edmowen ap Bradwen, living in the time of Edward the first, and did him homage with the Lords & gentry of Wales, as by the said King's records is manifest." Appended to the foregoing account of Edmowen, in the Cambrian Register, is a note giving the following description of his residence, the foundation of which may still be traced, but not even the fragment of a wall is standing:—"These ruins, which I have seen, consisting of large stones, as usually laid to form the foundations of buildings, mark the form as well as the simplicity of the habitations of the ancient Regelli of Wales, agreeing exactly with the account given of them by Whittaker, in his History of Manchester, who says, 'they were commonly placed in the hollow of a valley, & either upon the margin of one stream, or the confluence of two, for the convenience of water & security from winds. And the followers lived immediately about the person of this chief, or in little bodies along the windings of the valley, to be within reach of the usual signals of the Lord, the striking of the shield or the blowing of the horn.'"

The antiquary of Llys Bradwen presents nearly this figure the outward circular apartment being the audience hall & court of judicature, the oblong building the chief's own retirement: around this principal building there were the traces of others of various forms and dimensions."

¹⁷ John ap Dafydd is party to a deed, dated 22nd February, 15th Elizabeth, (1573-3).

¹⁸ John ap Gruffydd ap Harri was living in July 1570. A generation is omitted in the line of his descent. Harri was the son of Griffith ap Edwŷet ap Aron. Edwŷet is said to have mainly assisted in concealing Owen Glyndwr, during the recesses of that chieftain, in a cave upon the sea shore, in the parish of Langwyll, still known as Ogŷaf Owen.

¹⁹ See Dolgelle.

²⁰ Nest is synonymous with Agnes, which was her name.

²¹ In another pedigree she is named "Gweuldyr, or Catharine."

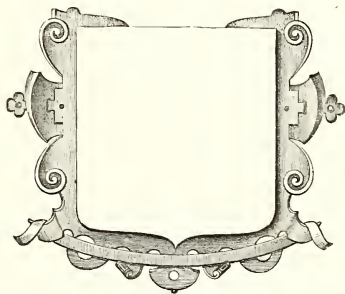

²² In another pedigree of this family, this Gwentiŷvraig is stated to have been a daughter of Howel ap Ievan Vychan.

³ His tomb is yet standing within the church of Towy, in Merionethshire.

⁴ In some pedigrees, Cadfor ap Ceallin ap Gwaithvoed, and in one, Cadfor ap Gwilym ap Ceallin, &c. Gwaithvoed is said to have been Lord of Cardigan and Glamorgan from about 900 to 950. See Cambria Biography. If this be true, more generations than are given in the text must have intervened between him and Aaron ap Ednyfed.

⁵ See a notice of Gwyddno Garanaur in the Cambrian Biography. To those who believe in the inundation of "Cantref Gwaelod," it may be interesting. However, that a person of this name existed, and that his territories suffered from some great inundation, may be true; and upon such a calamity has probably been founded the fable of the submersion of the district above mentioned. See Davies's Mythology of the Druids. In one pedigree, I find the descent of Gwaithvoed deduced from Gwyddno in a totally different string of names, making nine generations between them.

⁷ See Cier Ranwah.

⁹ The armorial bearing attributed to Ednowen ab Bradwen, is gules, three snakes bowed in a triangular knot, argent, and the same coat was given by this family.

¹¹ Upon the death of William David Lloyd, Esq. the Peniarth estate descended to his nephew and heir Lewis Owen (son of his sister Elizabeth, by Griffith Owen—see Dolgelte), who executes a deed, and therefore must have attained the age of twenty-one upon the 1st of July, 1598. He died in 1633, leaving no male issue. Margaret, the eldest of his two daughters, succeeded him. She was married, first, to Richard Owen, of Marben (who died about 1627), son of John Owen, of Marbyllesh, Esq.; and, secondly, to Samuel Herbert, a cousin german of the celebrated Edward Lord Herbert, of Chisbury. Her eldest son, by her first husband, Lewis Owen, of Peniarth, Esq. M.P. for Merionethshire in the Parliament of 1639, was owner of the original 3ks. of Lewis Owen's Visitation (see note, page 63.) In his family the estate continued for three subsequent generations. Jane, eldest daughter and heiress of his grandson, Lewis Owen, Esq. of Peniarth, Custos Rotulorum for Merionethshire, was married, first, to Richard Viscount Bulkeley, of Cashell, and, secondly, to Edward Williams, Esq. a younger son of John, one of the younger sons of the Right Honourable Sir William Williams, Bart. Speaker of the House of Commons in the reign of King Charles II. By her first husband she had to issue, by her second three daughters. Lady Bulkeley died in March, 1765, and was succeeded by her eldest daughter and heiress, Jane, married in December, 1772, to William Wynne, Esq. of Wern, in the county of Carnarvon (see Glyn & Sully's). Their eldest son, the late William Wynne, of Peniarth, Esq. Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1812, died on the 8th February, 1834, and his estates in that county (including the mansion and demesnes of Peniarth) and Montgomeryshire, are vested in trustees, under a deed dated in September, 1827, for the benefit of all his children equally.

³ He is party to a deed dated on the 10th of March, 1605-4. His son, Harri, married Jane, one of the daughters of Humphrey Jones of Cefn Caer, Gwent.

⁷ See Taltreudyn, where Harri Prys is called "Harry ap Rys." Lowry was the only child, by the first marriage, of Edward ap Robert Wyn of Taltreudyn.

⁹ See Ynyssmaengwyn. I do not find in any pedigree that Jenkin ap Iorwerth had a son named Rlys. Perhaps he was illegitimate.

Robert) Middleton," who was Receiver of North Wales, in the reign of Edward IV., but he left male issue.

¹² Compare this with the pedigree of Taltreudyn. The latter is correct. See also Y Tyrfyne.

¹³ Partly per cross, Gules and Or, four lions passant gardant, counterchanged on a chief azure, a boar's head of the first.

⁸ Rice Lloyd of Dol-y-gelynin, Gent., was living upon the 1st of July, 1609.

² Upon the partition of the estates of Sir John Brough (Burg), amongst his four daughters, two of whom were certainly named Elizabeth, the youngest, wife of Thomas Mytton, Esq. had the Lordship of Mowddwy, which remained vested in their descendants till alienated by the late John Mytton, of Halstone, Esq. to John Bird, Esq. of Birmingham, the present proprietor. Thomas Mytton was Sheriff for Shropshire in 1172, and was living on the 12th May, 16th Henry VII. (1501).

³ Sir Hywel y Pedolau was so strong a man, that he could, it is said, straighten horse shoes with simply his hands; and he was so represented in his monumental effigy in St. Peter's Church, Carmarthen, destroyed within the last thirty years. Hence his name. His mother was King Edward II.'s nurse, on which account he was knighted.—Ed.

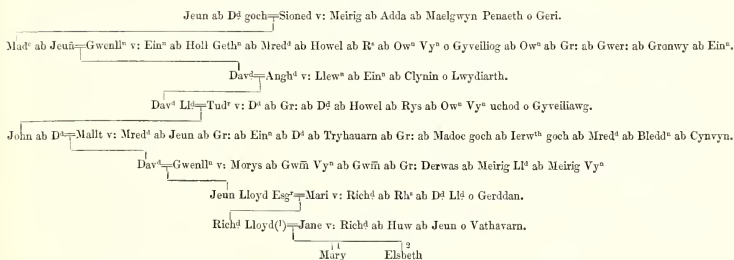

⁴ Ievan Lloyd ap Bwddal was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1576.

Carnarvon, Sheriff in 1634. Their descendants, in the direct line, becoming extinct, the Elerion estate passed, by bequest, to Catherine, wife of William Wynne, Esq., of Wern, in the same county, daughter, and eventually heiress, of Gabriel Goodman, of Beaumaris, merchant, by Elizabeth, his wife, one of the daughters of the above-mentioned William Glyne and Margaret Evans. This Catherine died in 1743; and, during the life-time of her grandson, William Wynne, Esq., of Wern and Peniarth, in Merionethshire, who died in 1794, Elerion was alienated.

¹ He was Vicar of Machynlleth in 1585, and was deprived of that preferment, wherefore, it does not appear.

² Richard Vaughan was Bishop of Bangor for two years, of Chester for seven, and of London for three, of which see he died Bishop on the 31st of March, 1607.

³ He is supposed to have held the Archdeaconry of Merioneth about the year 1422.

rect, as contemporary with the generations where such contradictions occur, and as signed by the representative of the family.—Dees 1654 mean 1654 or 1694?—Ed.

⁶ Harri, son of Rowland ap Robert. He was Archdeacon of Bangor in 1598, and died in 1615.

⁷ Son of Rowland ap Robert.

⁸ Daughters of Rowland ap Robert.

⁹ Dwydd ap Rowland died in 1630.

¹⁰ Of Speake, in the county of Lancaster.

Their grand-daughter and heiress, Mary Coyntmore, was wife to Edward Phillip Pugh, of Penrhyn, Esq.; James Coyntmore Pugh, Esq. the only son of this marriage, born in May, 1768, was Sheriff for Carmarvonshire in 1775, and died without issue. Bridget, the eldest daughter, married upon the 14th of January, 1766, to Colonel Glynne Wynne, brother to the first Lord Newborough.³ Cadwaladr ap Mrebydd was dead upon the 4th of June, 1578.⁴ Thomas Ychion, Sir Henry Halford, Bart. is supposed to be lineally descended from him, and to be his representative.⁵ Her name was Marselle, and she was the first wife of Maurice ab Robert Wynne, of Glyn (see Svlloen). ³ Sir John was collated to the Rectory of Llanyeddi in 1537.

⁵ Founder of the third Royal Tribe of Wales, see page 99. His son Meredith succeeded him as prince of Powys.—Ed.

⁶ Eis was the second wife of Meredith. His first consort, the mother of Madoc ap Meredith, was Hunydd, daughter of Elydd Gwern, Lord of Dyffryn Clwyd. Meredith died A.D. 1132.—Ed.

⁷ Prince of Powys from 1183 to 1189. He married Susanna, daughter of Gruffydd ap Cynan, king of North Wales, and had four sons, I. Gruffydd Madoc, ancestor of Owen Glyndwr; II. Recd of HWMPHREY HUGHES.

² He married Agnes, daughter of Malcol, Baron of Main yn Meifod, in the county of Montgomery.—En.

⁴ This is a mistake: Ievan ap Llewelyn married Maredd, "Laiye of Crogen and Branas," under age 44 Edward III. daughter and heiress of Ievan ap Llewelyn, Baron of Crogen and Branas, in Edeyrnion.—En.

⁷ Sixth Baron of Kymmer yn Edeyrnion. His wife was Margaret, daughter of William ap Meredith, of Garth Ery. Llanrhaidr yn Mochnant, derived from Ffion Eidd, Lord of Cynlloeth, son of Madoc, late Prince of Powys.

⁸ Of Meli and Frenholch, in Denbighshire, descended, through Gronwy Llywyd y Powys, in the time of Edward I., from Marvdydd ap Cynan, founder of the eighth Noble Tribe of North Wales.—En.

¹¹ He succeeded his brother Humphry, as tenth Baron of Kymmer yn Edeyrnion, and a son and successor, William Hughes, Esq. of Penyclawdd, who married on the 27th of March, 1560, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Davies, Esq. of Trefynat, in the county of Denbigh, derived from a younger branch of the Davies's of Gwynesey, in the county of Flint. By this Lady, who died on the 4th of April, 1544, Mr. Hughes, who died on the 18th of January, 1536, left issue; 1. William Hughes, Esq. representative in the male line of the Hughes's of Gwerclas, Barons of Kymmer yn Edeyrnon, born on the 15th of April, 1501, who married on the 11th of July, 1535, Eliza Anne, daughter of William Henry Worthington, Esq. of Sandiway Bank, in the county of Chester, and has issue; 1. William O'Farrell Hughes, born on the 18th of February, 1538; and 2. Frances Elizabeth Margareta. 11. Thomas, M.D. of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, born 22 August 1503; H. John, of the Inner Temple, Barrister at Law, born on the 6th of October, 1505, who married on the 6th of July, 1532, his relative, Dorothea, eldest surviving daughter of Richard Hughes Lloyd, Esq. of Plymng, Gwerclas, Kymmer yn Edeyrnon, and Bushall, and has issue, one child, Talbot de Bushall Hughes, born on the 15th of December, 1536. The Armorial Ensigns of this eminent house are those of their Ancestors, the Sovereign Princes of Powys; viz. Argent, a Lion rampant sable, ("The Black Lion of Powys.")—En.

² In the Pedigree of Pwylly Llanfair, &c. page 222, she is described as sole heiress of Gruydydd, and appears to have been wife of Gruydydd Lloyd ap Meurig Lloyd, of Nanman. She could not have been her father's heiress, as he had sons; and with regard to her marriage, the account given of her in the pedigree now under review is probably correct.

³ Gruydydd ap Ednyfet is witness to a deed, dated 1st September, 1st Henry VIII. (1503).

⁵ Urien ap Tegwared was Raglor of the comout of Ardywly, at Michaelmas, 1st Edward III. (1327).

⁶ This name is in deeds spelt Palgus and Palgusot.

⁷ In another MS. he is called Elinon, probably a false transcript for Euan.

⁸ In another MS. Ievan ap Rhys.

¹⁰ In another MS. he is named Edmond. The latter is, probably, a false transcript.

¹¹ Gronowy Lloyd was one of the Jury for taking the extent of the comout of Nantconway in 1352.

¹² The representation of this family, and the inheritance of the Egryn estate, passed, by marriage, to the Owens, of Caeberillan, is the same county, in whom both are now vested.

EVAN GRIFFYTH CLERK.

¹ There appears to be no such parish as Peneryg.

² This Pys (Piers) Lloyd, or a descendant from him of the same name (probably a son), was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1628; and sold Plas yn Dal, his estate and mansion in Edmeston, to Humphrey Jones, the King's Receiver for North Wales, by whose descendant the late Richard Parry, Esq. it was again sold to Lieutenant Colonel Vaughan, of King and Hengwt, the present owner.

⁴ Sr Ieuan ap Gruffydd was collated to the Rectory of Betws Gweryll Goch in 1589.

¹ John Fox Fitz Giffard Mytton, Esq. of Halston and Haberley, born 20th November, 1323, is the local representative of this very ancient family.

² Hankyn, or Haskyn Mytton. His son, Reginald de Mutton, was representative in Parliament, for Shrewsbury, in 1373.

³ This place was so called from the battle of Shrewsbury, which was fought in 1403; and, if the pedigree be correct, Richard Hush must have lived at a much earlier time.

⁴ There does not appear to have been a Lord Talbot so soon as, according to this pedigree, the person here named must have lived.

⁵ This Pedigree I had of George Owen, Lord of Kemmas, at the time I visited Pembrokeshire, Anno Domini 1588. This shows that wherever Lewys Dwnn found a spare place, he there inserted whatever came to hand. The short notices of various families which follow, were extracted, by Lewys Dwan, from the collections of Sion Brynog, Gruffydd Hirnabog, and William Llyso.—Ed.

⁶ Tonfane. See Peniarth and cote.

⁷ Rhys Ychan was living in the 5th year of Henry VIII.

⁸ John ap Gruffydd ap Harri was living in July 1570.

⁹ Gruff, ap Ednyvet ap Aroo, "gent. de Llanvedogid," here named, was Raglor of the comote of Talbot, in the 32d year of Henry VI.

³ "Hugh ap John." In the next sentence the same person is called "Robert ap Sion" (John).

⁴ In another pedigree, this line runs, "Huwa ap Ardderch ap Eiddon," &c.

² See more under the next head: Llachylched, part of this pedigree, being incorrectly placed there.

³ Madog ap Iarddar, and others, held in villanage one carucate of land in Bodcon, in Anglesey, about the year 1306.

⁴ See preceding pedigree.

⁵ Rowland Gruffydd died, Sheriff for Anglesey, in 1553.

⁶ In a pedigree of her family, she is called Anghard, and one of her sisters Elin.

⁸ Probably Morgan Ynad.

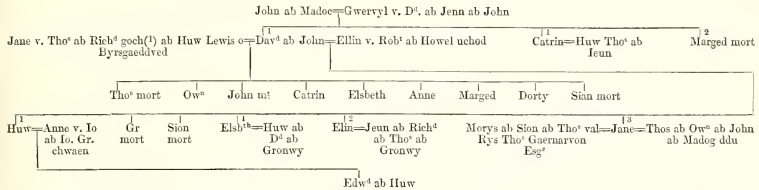

⁹ Maltt is in one pedigree named Gwenhwyar, in another Anghard, which name is also given to her in this volume. See Iron y Fard.

¹⁰ Gruffydd ap Madog Gloddath was the heir of four carucates of land in the Ville of Nantvaghan, in Anglesey, in the 26th year of Edward III.

¹ Rhys ap Howel ap Madog was living in the 31st year of Henry VI.

² Sion and Sion ap Rhydderch were married on or before the 5th August, 1525, and both of them were then living.

⁴ Huw ap Owen is grantee in a deed, dated 12th February, 4th Edward VI. (1550).

⁵ Owen ap Sir Dafydd is grantee in a deed, dated 8th December, 4th Henry VII. (1512).

⁷ In another pedigree, Jeun ap Forwerth ap Adda.

⁸ Called also Adda ap Einion Velyan, and others, coheirs, in Lent, 20th Edward III. (1322), held a "Wyley" named Wile Kenenor ap Ican, in the ville of Kinocelyn, in Anglesey.

¹⁰ Nest must certainly have been a more remote descendant than Cadrod Harld than is here stated, if she was grandmother to Sr Hugh Clement, who lived about the time of Henry VIII., and the mother of a person, so few generations from Cadrod, who is said to have resided at Bodowyn, in Anglesey, in the 10th century, could not have been descended at all from Hwya ap Cynddelw, as he lived in the time of Prince Owen Gwynedd, who died in 1169. Llewku ferns Howel is stated to have been so through many descents. There certainly appears to be some very important omission in this genealogy.

¹¹ Under the head of Llacheleth, Tegwared ap Ieuan ap Ririd.

¹ The direct line of this family is supposed to have become extinct, upon the failure of male issue in the Lloyds of Pencylan, in the county of Denbigh, late in the eighteenth century. A great portion, if not the whole of the estates of the Lloyds, of Ceiswyn, including, it is believed, the farm so called, and certainly the ancient mansion of Aber-lewey, being vested, by descent, through two heiresses, in the late John, Lord Cowder, during whose life they were alienated.

² See also Yngs y Maerwyn.

⁴ Einion ap Ilywelyn should be Einion ap Griffith ap Ilywelyn.

⁶ Afterwards Sir John Lloyd, Knight. See preceding pedigree and notes to it.

⁷ Stodirt, probably Stoddart. There was a family of that name settled in the neighbourhood of Caer Rhân.

⁹ Ieuan Vychan ap Ieuan was a Grand Juror for the county of Merioneth in the 32d year of Henry VI.

¹⁰ Sion ap Ieuan was farmer, under the Crown, of the mills of Cefn and Caille, at Michaelmas, 21st Edward IV. (1451), and in the 4th year of Henry VII.

¹¹ Jenkyn ap Sion was living in the 17th year of Henry VII.

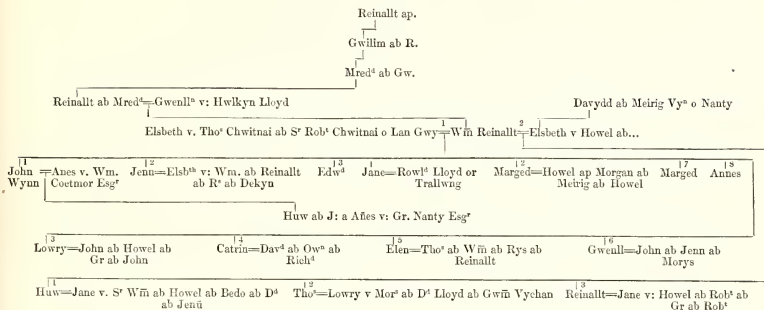

¹² According to another pedigree, she was wife of Jenkyn ap John, below.

¹³ Jenkyn ap John, grandson of Jenkyn ap Sion above, and Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1542.

² Apparently the person called Gronwy ap Einion ap Howel, above. It should be stated, that the account of this family, as here given, does not agree with a notice of it by the Merionethshire Antiquary, Robert Vaughan, of Bengert, which is as follows: "Griff ddu (see Dolgellu), had 2 sons, Llewelyn, & Einion, & a daughter called Nest, mother to Gweddian, daughter of Howel ap Griff; ap Owen, & daughter called Griff; ap Einion, called Iestir Morgan, father of Captain John Morgan, of Keswy deunant, two stout and valiant soldiers." He is also styled Morgan ap Griffith ap Einion, in an account of the Fifteen Tribes of North Wales, in the Cambrian Register,

Vol. I, page 153. Lewis Dwm's pedigree, however, is (certainly in parts of it) the more accurate than authentic dates. ³ Written also Rialldach and Rialldich.

⁴ Called howe Ieuan ap Llywelyn ap Rhys Gethlin.

⁷ Sir Rys Cynwal was collated to the Vicarage of Llangwin in 1591.

² Hugh ab William died in 1623.
³ According to the Teisrocrosion MS. before referred to, she was daughter of Ane Holled: and married, secondly, Owen Meredith, B.D. (see Clynog Fawr yn Arfon). This family adopted the surname of Wgoe; and the heiress of it, Anne, daughter of William Wynne, Esq. married Richard Garnons, Esq. of Pant dn. The issue of this marriage were William Wynn Vanghan Garnons, who died unmarried in 1794: the late Richard Garnons, Esq. who was born 29th December, 1775, and died, universally respected, a few years since, without issue; and Miss Catherine Jones Garnons (now living) of Colomeedy, near Mold.

⁴ See also Cosygodol and Pco Gvern, Festiniog.

⁵ Elise ab Robert Wynne had the Sylfaen estate, and was living on the 1st April, 1615. He died without issue.

⁶ Robert Wynn ap John was living on the 29d April, 1592.

⁷ He was living upon the 24th November, 1545.

⁸ Ieu⁹ ap Rhys was married, probably, before the 1st October, 1499, and was living upon the 4th of March, 4th Henry VIII. (1513).

¹⁰ Ieu⁹ ap Einion was one of the Jury, in an inquisition held at Bala, 6th October, 1427.

¹² Llywelyn ap Cywric was Sheriff, or farmer of the office of Sheriff of Merionethshire, in 1378.

¹³ Though Osborn was certainly a branch of the Fitz-Gerald family, and of the Desmond branch of it, yet his father could not have been Earl of Desmond, for he lived at a time long before the creation of that Earldom. Gwythlath is not a Christian name, but a designation of country, signifying an Irishman, as Sasneach does an Englishman. Osborn is called by the Welsh heralds, Osborn Wyddel, the latter word bearing the same meaning as Gwythlath.

¹⁶ Richard Banbil, or Banville, was alive in the first year of Richard III., and died probably before the 1st October, 1499.

¹⁷ He was living upon the 9th February, 1609-10, and dead upon the 16th of April, 1611.

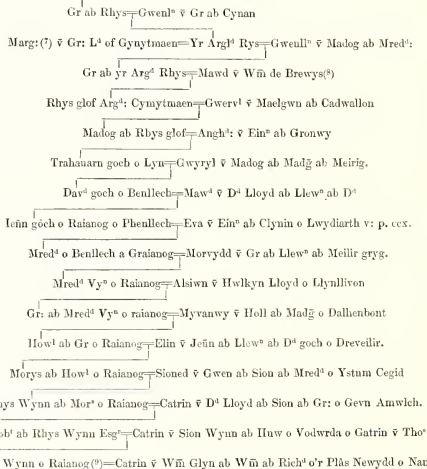

¹⁸ She was born in 1557, died in 1623, and was buried at Machynallth.

¹ William Wynne was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1618 and 1637, and died in December, 1655.

² See Park. She died on the 23d February, 1638-9, aged about 44.

³ It would seem, from a contemporary elegy, upon the above-mentioned Annes, that Edward Wynne was second husband of Elin.

⁵ Evan Evans, of Tan-y-bwlch, Esq. Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1635.

⁶ Margaret, eldest daughter and heiress of Owen Wynne, of Glyn, Esq. grandson of the above-mentioned William, married Sir Robert Owen, Knight, of Parkington, in Shropshire, and Clemeney, in the county of Carnarvon. Margaret, heiress of these united families, eldest daughter of William Owen, Esq. was wife of Owen Ormsby, Esq. of Willowbrook, in the county of Shrop, and by him had an only daughter, Mary Jane Ormsby, heiress of Parkington, Glyn, and Sylvania, with other extensive possessions of her paternal and maternal ancestors. She is the wife of William Ormsby Gore, Esq. of Parkington, one of the representatives in parliament for North Shropshire, who assumed, by Royal sign manual, her surname, before his own. The male line of the Wynne family was continued by William Wynne, Esq. (a younger brother of the above-named Owen), who married his first cousin, Elizabeth, only child of Maurice Jones, of Wern, in Carnarvonshire, gentleman: was Sheriff for that county in 1656, and was buried at Penmorra, 4th January, 1704, probably 1701-2. Third in descent from them was William Wynne, of Wern, Esq., who acquired the Penfarth estates, in the counties of Merioneth, Montgomery, and Carnarvon, by marriage with Jane, eldest daughter and heiress of Edward Williams, Esq. by Jane, Viscountess Dowager Bulkeley, his wife. The present direct representative of the Wynnes, of Glyn, is W. W. E. Wynne, Esq. grandson of William and Jane Wynne, above mentioned.

² See Bron y Fael, under which head her husband is called Gruffudd Wyn, and it is not improbable that he did adopt the surname of Wyn. His son was certainly styled by that name.

Howel, &c. to have been "Gwenhwyar, daughter to William ap of the hundred of Oswestry."

⁴ He was instituted to the Archdeaconry of Merioneth in 1524, and died in 1562.

STANLEY OF HARGLEIGH⁵

Sir Wm Stanley kn⁴...

4, Page 284.

² There is probably a mistake here, for, according to every other account of his family that I have seen, Dafydd had only danglers. This should perhaps be Ieuan ap Giwn.

³ He was collated to the Rectory of Newtown in 1553, and to that of Llangar in 1592.

⁵ This pedigree of Stanley does not agree with that in Vincent, No. 155, fol. 298, which is brought down to 1622, which is—given in the same work. The name of this place was changed to Rock-Savage. It also differs materially from other pedigrees of the Stanley family.

² See Malborough.

³ A person of this name was appointed Sheriff for Merionethshire, for life, upon the 23d September, 1st Henry VII. (1485).

⁴ Edward Stanley was Sheriff for Merionethshire in 1545, 1553, and 1560.

⁷ The Peak, in Derbyshire.

⁸ Baron of Cirew, of which castle Sir Rhys was mortgagor in possession.

⁹ This fact should be Mali, gwraig, &c. She was daughter of Dafydd ap Howel, &c. above. Dafydd ap Gwyn Lloyd was living in the 21st year of Richard II. and probably at that time a young man.

⁵ This is probably the same person as Griffith ap John, who, in Willis' Survey of St. Asaph, appears to have been collated to the Vicarage of Gwyddelwern in 1540.

⁸ Brampton Brian, Herefordshire.—En.

⁹ Cadwaladr Owen was collated to the Rectory of Llanvechain in 1601, and to the Vicarage of Llanbrynmair in 1608.

¹⁰ He was instituted to the Archdeaconry of Merioneth upon the 5th November, 1576, and died about 1621, in which year he was 60 years of age. See page 227.

² Her name was Janet, and she was one of the daughters of Owen ap John ap Meredith, of Ystrnkegud.

³ Sion (John) Williams, whose pedigree is here given, "was an antiquary of considerable eminence, and furnished Drayton with many of the particulars relative to Wales which he hath taken notice of in the Polyolbion." He was father to Sir John Williams, of the Isle of Thanet, Bart., Edmund Williams, of Marnehill, in Dorsetshire, created a Baronet on the 19th April, 1642, and to Sir Morris Williams, "Physician to the Queen." (Query—Elizabeth, Atne of Denmark, or Henrietta Maria?) See History of the Greydr Family, page 99, and Table III.—Edition of 1827, 48s.

⁹ This is an addition.

¹² The modern additions here are "Robert" and "Cath^e ux: Elis Price of Plas Yolyn LL.D." Nor do any of these additions appear in R 22, College of Arms.

⁵ Sir John Conwy died without issue in 1641, aged 69 years; his estates passed over to his brother William, who married one of the Mostyn family; the son, Harry, was created a Baronet; and, upon his death in 1669, his estates descended to his son John, at whose death, in 1721, the title became extinct. Sir John Conwy had two daughters, only one of whom married, and from whom William Shipley Conwy, Esq, the present possessor of Bodryddan, is descended. See note to the Hollands of Aberconway, page 115.

⁶ Caerwys is a small borough town in Flintshire, surrounded by a beautiful country, and originally a Roman station. From the twelfth century, to the time of Queen Elizabeth, it was celebrated for its Eisteddfodau, or sessions of the bards and minstrels, where prizes were given in order to produce competition, and which were revived in the year 1798. But it is known as having produced the Rev. John Lloyd, the companion and assistant, in historical research, of Mr. Pennant, in his valuable Tours; and more especially at the present day, for being the residence of his daughter, Miss Angharad Lloyd, whose indefatigable genealogical collections are only surpassed by all who are anxious to avail themselves of this kind of literature.

⁹ He lived at Wigwair, near St. Asaph, and attained much celebrity as a Welsh poet. He died in 1692.

⁵ Llan Elwy derives its name from the river Elwy. The Bishopric was founded here by Cyndeyrn ab Owain ab Urico Rheged, generally called St. Kentigern, about the year 550, upon his retirement into Wales from the Diocese of Penrhyn Rhionydd, or Glasgow. Having presided for some years over this Bishopric, he was recalled to his original diocese, in his native country, by Rhydderech Ius, King of the Strath Clyde Britons. He then appointed his disciple, Asaph, son of Sawayl Bennachel, as his successor at Llan Elwy, which, from this circumstance, has ever since been known in English as St. Asaph, though in Welsh it retains its original appellation. See Professor Rees's Welsh Saints.

⁴ Richard ap Howel was a partizan of Henry VII., who, when Earl of Richmond, was crowned at Mostyn Hall: and, after he became King, sent the sword and belt he had worn at the battle of Bosworth to Richard ap Howel, as an acknowledgment of the land services he had rendered him. The Gwyns MS. before referred to has the following note:—"The manors and possessions which descended to the said Richard ap Howel ap Ieuan Vychan, and the occasion of them.—I. The First Court called Pengwern, in Chirkland, being part of the possessions of the aforesaid Adda ap Ierwerth Dda, and Elizabeth his wife, who was daughter of Gruffydd Vychan, ap Gruffydd, of Rhiddlad, which Elizabeth was whole sister to Owen Glynweddyr; she was also the mother of Ieuan ap Adda, ap Ierwerth dda.—II. The Second Court was Tref Castell, in Môn, in the Hundred or Cwmwd of Tindaethy, and Tref Gwechlyth in the Cwmwd of Llŷon, and was part of the possessions of Angharad, dr and heir of Ednyfed ap Tydyr ap Gronwy, ap Ednyfed Vychan. The Fourth Court is Tref Gwynedd, in Môn, in the Cwmwd of Mynydd, and The Nant-y-chan in the Cwmwd of Tref Kelyn in Môn with their appurtenances. All these were part of the possessions of Morydd, dr and heir of Sir Gruffydd Lloyd, Bart. This Morydd was the wife of Madoc Gloddait.—V. The Fifth Court is the Court of Gweddait in the Cwmwd of Cweddyn, which was the possession of Margaret, dr of Gruffydd ap Rylas, ap Gruffydd ap Madoc Gloddait. And the said Margaret was the mother of Richard ap Howel, ap Ieuan Vychan, and she was also the mother of Harry Salsabri, ap Harry, ap Thomas Hen Salsabri."

⁵ Thomas ap Richard assumed the name of Moiston, or Mostyn, by the advice of Rowland Lee, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry, and Lord President of Wales, temp. 11th or 12th.

⁶ Hugh Pennant, of Bychton, in Flintshire. The issue of this marriage were six sons and six daughters.

⁹ Catherine Mostyn was third wife of Edward Dymock, Esq. son of Rowland Dymock, Esq. of Hammar Wellington. See a future page.

¹¹ She died about the year 1657, and was buried at Llanrwst. See page 159.

¹² William Hughes was appointed Bishop of St. Asaph, 11th December, 1573, and died on the 18th November, 1600.

Three insurrections, in different parts of Wales, were the consequence, and the revolt commenced by the seizure of this Knight, hanging him and cutting off his head; a fate which attended all his assistants who had attempted to enforce the payment of this tribute. The king, however, marching with an army into Wales, severely punished all who had been concerned in these attempts to preserve their rights.

His son and heir, William, who suffered greatly in the civil wars from his attachment to the Royal cause, died in 1656; and his great-grandson, Walden Hamner, was created Baronet in 1774. When the other branches of the Hamner family became extinct, the estates of Hamner Hall and Bettisfield devolved upon Job Hamner, Esq. father of Sir Walden Hamner, and are now in the possession of the present representative of this ancient house, Sir John Hamner, Baronet, M.P.

² The Tower, or Brynecod, is a singular house, in the parish of Mold, and appears to have been designed as a fortified residence. In the year 1405, one Reinallt ap Gruffydd ap Bledia, having taken Robert Byrnes, Mayor of Chester, prisoner, executed him by hanging him to a staple, which still remains in the lower story of the Tower. This caused the greatest exasperation at Chester, and two hundred men were sent to seize Reinallt; he, however, being aware of their design, retired to the adjoining woods, and permitted a part of them to enter the Tower, when he rushed forth, fastened the door, set fire to the place, and burned them to death. He then attacked the remainder, who fled to the sea-side, and were either slain or drowned. Reinallt received pardon for these exploits from Thomas, Lord Stanley, which was afterwards confirmed by Henry VI. See Lewys Glyn Cothi's Ode to him, VI., Desp. V. The Tower afterwards became the residence of the Wynne family, whose pedigree is here recorded; in whose possession it remained until the direct line of the family terminated by the death of Roger Wynne, Esq., about the middle of the last century.

⁹ Dr. Gabriel Goodman was founder of Christ's Hospital at Ruthyn, in 1590, "for a priest, and twelve poor persons, ten men and two women to attend them, all unmarried, and above fifty years of age." He obtained a patent of incorporation from Queen Elizabeth, for the government of this Hospital, under the designation of "The President and Warden of Christ's Hospital in Ruthyn," and endowed the same with the titles of Master, and appointed the Bishop of Bangor, President; and the Priest, Warden. The Grammar School at Ruthyn owes its origin to the munificence of Dr. Goodman, who founded it in 1595, and endowed it with a moiety of the tithes of Llanyrhyd and Ruthyn, and appointed the Bishop of Gloucester, further endowed this School by founding two exhibitions to either of the Universities. He rendered great assistance to Dr. Morgan, in publishing his Welsh translation of the Bible.

¹ Dr. Powell, the well known editor and translator of Caradoc of Llancarvan's History of Wales, was born about the year 1552, and when about 16 years of age was sent to complete his education at Oxford. In 1571 he entered Jesus College, which had been newly erected, and having completed his studies, he took holy orders, and had his degree of Master of Arts conferred on him in 1576. He was preferred to the livings of Rhiwabon and Llanyfilin, and in 1584 became chaplain to Sir Henry Sidney, Lord President of the Marches of Wales, who had in his possession the unfinished Translation of Caradoc's History of Wales, by Humphrey Llwyd, the eminent Antiquary. At his Lordship's solicitation, Dr. Powell completed the translation and enriched the work with many valuable additions, it was in the same year published in quarto; and was followed by other fruits of Dr. Powell's literary labours.—viz: "Pontici Viriuni Historia Britannica," and "De Britannica Historia recte intelligenda: Epistola ad Gul. Fleetwood Civ. Lond. Recordatum." Besides which, he rendered essential assistance to Dr. Morgan, in the translation of the Holy Scriptures into Welsh, which was completed and published in 1588. He was engaged in compiling a Welsh Dictionary, when his labours were terminated by death in 1598 or 1599.

³ The descendant was Robert Bromfield. In the Cae Ceyriog MS. is the following remark on this pedigree. "N. B. This pedigree was subscribed in Lewys Dwnn's Book January 16th 1595, by Edward Bromfield."

⁴ Morris ap John Lloyd was Lord of Pale, in Edeyrnion. He died in 1614.

⁶ Ieuan ap Llewelyn Ddu, third Baron of Kynner yn Edeyrnion, married Maredd, "Lady of Crogen and Branas," in Merionethshire, under age, 44 Edward III., daughter and heiress of Ieuan ap Llewelyn, Baron of Crogen and Branas, derived from Gruffydd, Lord of half Edeyrnion, second son of Owain Brogeintyn, Lord of Edeyrnion, Dinmael, and Aberthant.

⁷ Llewelyn Ddu was second Baron of Kynner yn Edeyrnion. See page 250. He and his brother Owen were summoned, in the 44th year of Edward III., to the sessions held at Conway before the Justiciary of North Wales, to answer by what warrant they claimed to exercise Baronial rights "apud Thlangar (Llangar) in terris suis in Edeyrnion." (Record of Carnarvon, page 183,) when they pleaded their rights by virtue of a grant of Edward I., dated 22d of July, 1284, to Griffith ap Iorwerth, and David ap Llewelyn, "nepos suus," whereby Edward "coarceat quod habent et teneant omnes terras suas per Edeyrnion sicut antecessores sui cras teneantur." See Rot. Wall, 12 Edward I., MS. in Turri Lond.

⁸ Besides these three daughters, Evan Lloyd had two sons born after Lewys Dwnn made his Visitation: the eldest son, Jeffrey, died without issue, and the estate of Pale fell to the younger son, Morris, who was born in 1618, and was grandfather of Maurice Lloyd, whose son and heir, John Lloyd of Pale, was born in 1700, and married Margaret, daughter of W. Vaughan, Esq., of Crysogedol, and had, besides other issue, Maurice Lloyd, Esq., father of the present representative of the family, David Morris Lloyd, Esq., of Pale, Merionethshire.
